PINCHOT VETOES REPEALER BILL; CROWDS HAIL RETURN OF BEER

Today

Beer Comes Back.
The Time to Buy.
Meddling With Religion.
Last of the Akron.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THIS DAY ends "bone dry" prohibition, that was to empty jails and insane asylums, prevent the young from ever knowing the taste of alcohol and bring the golden age. This is "beer day," a day to delight old Gambrinus, imaginary flemish king who may have been Jan Primus, alias John the First, Duke of Brabant, credited with being the first beer-brewer.

He was not the first beer-brewer, for beer was brewed in Egypt thousands of years ago and in other places before Egypt.

YESTERDAY THOUSANDS of New Yorkers stood in line waiting for beer licenses. Sixty-two thousand, it is said, expect to sell beer. Health department licenses not being ready, the fire department issued, temporarily, licenses ordinary used for storage of gasoline, explosives and other combustibles. That will seem appropriate to the ultra-dry, although 3.2 beer is not exactly "explosive," rather sedative.

"BEER RACKETEERS" have no intention of abandoning a profitable business, and yesterday, as usual, they unloaded beer of poor quality at hundreds of speakeasies in the upper part of New York City, telling proprietors:

"You'll take it and like it."

Proprietors knew what that meant.

Police offer to defend any that complain, but customers of racketeers know better than to complain. For their beer they pay $36 a keg. Legitimate brewers announce a price of $15 or $16 a keg, enough to take care of all sorts of taxation.

WHILE THOUSANDS were applying for beer licenses, and an army of millions preparing to drink beer, a "human army" of another kind tramped the streets looking for some official to whom they might apply for $1-a-day jobs, working in the forests, but could not find anybody with forest jobs to give out.

If it were as easy to bring back jobs and prosperity as to bring back beer, the national problem would be simple.

"CIRCUMSTANCES alter cases." What in peace time is a crime—namely, killing strangers—becomes a patriotic virtue when war comes, and killing strangers becomes a nation's business.

Similarly, in this war of depression, what might be called "extravagance" in better times changes to "helpful spending and encouragement of business."

Those able to spend should spend now, even though they strain a point to do it. To refrain from buying things that you WANT or things that you NEED, when you have the money, is another form of hoarding.

Every dollar put in circulation now does duty doubly and quadruply, whether it be used for replenishing wardrobes, new household equipment, furniture, automobiles, renovating, painting and otherwise improving houses. All money spent now represents literally PATRIOTIC SPENDING.

REVOLUTION ALWAYS means great enthusiasm, a desire to do something new. The French revolution, objecting to established religion, decided that there was only one God and ordered worship of "the Supreme Being."

Russia's revolution officially eliminates that Supreme Being, calls religion "the opium of the people," putting the people to sleep, making them obey orders of their exploiters.

Nazis representing revolution in Germany would re-write the constitution of the Lutheran Church. Thirty-nine million German Lutherans, practically the entire Protestant church in Germany, are to see the ancient swastika emblem taking its place beside the cross.

THE CHURCH constitution is to be rewritten and German Protestants marrying members of a foreign race will be excluded from the church. It will be laid down as a tenet of the church that if Christ came back, he would lead the Nazis against Communism.

The Old Testament is to be banned, and peddlers hawk a pamphlet accusing Jews of planning to murder Hitler, crying out:

"Murder of Hitler! The Jews demand murder of Hitler!"

The Old Testament is banned, presumably, because written by Jews.

Not ready to give up Christianity entirely, the Hitlerites [illegible] over the fact that the mother of Christ was a Jewess and his disciples Jews. Possibly Herr Hitler, a man of great energy and a violently effective orator, has stirred up hatred that will get beyond his control.

IT IS PARTICULARLY interesting to read that Nazi commissars will be installed "to rule the Catholic as well as the Protestant churches," and that in place of the Old Testament, to be eliminated, the "Teuton sagas and folk tales are to be taught."

German children's imaginations, developed thus far on the sorrows of Job and the devotion of Ruth, must suddenly switch to the feasts of Valhalla, the fine cutting qualities of Nothung, and Wotan's long-worded narratives.

THE AKRON disaster will be investigated, as is proper, but it is improbable that "blame" will ever be located, supposing any blame to exist.

MRS. HALL DIES FROM BULLET

Mt. Lebanon Woman Shot Self in Office Of Husband

Death today fulfilled the wish of Mrs. Edna E. Hall, 40, of Mt. Lebanon, who penciled on a wall a note saying she was "tired of living because someone else has taken my place."

She died in South Side hospital from a bullet wound in the breast, self-inflicted, police say, on March 30 in the real estate office of her husband, William M. Hall, 695 Washington road, Mt. Lebanon.

Mrs. Hall visited her husband's place of business and the two had a quarrel, police said they learned. Running into a wash room, Mrs. Hall locked herself in. A shot was fired. Police breaking down the door found her collapsed and bleeding from a wound.

She had scribbled a note on the wall saying she was tired of life.

Estranged Wife Dies From Poison Dose

Mrs. Sarah Sutton, 37, of 127 Delford street, Lincoln place, Homestead, who, police said, swallowed poison because she could not see her 11-year-old son, died today in Homestead Hospital.

Mrs. Sutton swallowed the poison a few hours after appearing in court in a non-support proceeding against her husband, Lawrence Sutton, Mansion street, Hazelwood, March 28, the police said. The case was dismissed. The woman was reported to have visited her husband's home to see her son, Clifford, and was informed she could see him the following day. She was reported to have said:

"Tomorrow will be too late. I have taken poison."

Bern Investigator Found Shot to Death

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—(AP.)—Wayne E. Jordan, 38, deputy district attorney, was found shot to death in his home here late yesterday. Police said he apparently had committed suicide. Conducting the inquest last September into the suicide of Paul Bern, husband of Jean Harlow, film star, Jordan remarked:

"A man would have to be crazy to kill himself."

TESTIFY AKRON CRACKED IN AIR

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(INS.)—The two surviving enlisted men on the airship Akron when when she crashed into the sea today told the House Naval Affairs subcommittee on aeronautics the great superstructure began breaking up in the air.

The testimony of Chief Boatswain's Mate R. E. Deal and Metalsmith M. F. Erwin was given at the opening of the first Congressional investigation of the tragedy which cost 73 lives.

Before the enlisted men took the witness stand to tell their stories under oath, Lieut. Commander H. V. Wiley, second in command on the great airship, reread his official report of the crash already made public.

GIRDERS BUCKLED

Deal said that he saw two portside girders bend and buckle.

Confirming this testimony, Erwin also said he saw the girders break up.

The enlisted men were near the middle of the block-long airship when she began her plunge into the sea. Lieut. Commander Wiley was forward in the control room, they said. The difference in location apparently explained the inability of the officers to give direct testimony as to what hap-

Mellon, Roosevelt In Brief Conference

Mrs. Endre Rimocsky, recently divorced because her husband objected to her covering the walls of their home with photographs of Valentino, went to the museum of wax figures here to worship the image of her idol.

There her hysterical adoration for Valentino overcame her, and she carried out a threat she often had made to her friends. She committed suicide "to join Valentino in Heaven."

Uncorking a vial of poison, she drank a fatal dose and cried, as she fell dying:

"Valentino, I am dying for you!"

CANNES, France, April 7.—(INS.)—The marriage of former Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, and Betty Compton, musical comedy actress, has been tentatively set for the morning of April 13, it was learned today.

FEUDISTS DRAW GUNS IN COURT

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 7.—The Tate and the Brownfield clans are resting on their arms in their mountain strongholds, near Haydentown today. An armed neutrality prevails following gunplay at numerous hearings before Squire William J. Ruble, in Fairchance yesterday.

Even after Perry Tate, his two sons and Silas Higginbotham, Orville Collins and George Keener had been discharged and advised to go home and live within the law, Perry Tate, brother of the slain Isley Tate, proclaimed he would be better satisfied "to shoot it out."

At one time Tate applied a name to Tom Brownfield, who was scoring "them Tates." Perry rose and called Tom a "fight word" adding to his 14 year old son:

"Let him have it Willie."

A gun was drawn, but the justice maintained order.

Costs of $6.40 were assessed the Tate side and charges held over the heads of the other faction in an effort to restore peace.

Kellogg 'Likes Beer,' Calls on Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP.)—Frank B. Kellogg, former Secretary of State, like beer.

He told newspapermen so today, with a chuckle after a visit to the President to "pay my respects."

Owner of Doomed Dog Hunted by Sheriff

Visiting Judge S. L. Reed today ordered the Sheriff to arrest Frank Sechan, of Versailles Township, owner of Sandy, mongrel dog condemned to die for biting a 5-year-old child.

Sechan had been ordered by the court to execute the dog by noon today and to notify Judge Reed immediately.

The noon recess passed without either Sechan or his counsel, Charles D. Coll, appearing. The court thereupon ordered a process issued.

Sechan will be arrested and lodged in jail, probably tomorrow, unless he satisfies the court Sandy is dead.

Judge Reed has been besieged, it developed today with pleas to spare the dog's life. Representatives of the Animal Rescue League were granted an audience in the Judge's chambers today. They offered to take Sandy for 30 days, keep him under observation and if he showed signs of rabies to end his life in a humane manner. The offer was rejected.

The court was said to have been informed that Gordon Zawaski, 4, still had a black and blue mark on his back from the dog's bite and that danger of infection was not passed.

WELCOME HERE NOISY BUT ORDERLY; BANDS BLARE AT MIDNIGHT

Hundreds Vie For First Stein

Well, it's back—and it's yours for the asking.

It came back without restrictions last midnight in welcome waves and thousands of Pittsburghers gave up their sleep to try a bottle.

Today you can step into countless stores and restaurants, flick a dime or 15 cents on the counter and try it yourself—the first legal beer in 13 years.

Here and there you can buy a small glass for a nickel.

Beer came back in orderly, if noisy fashion. The celebration was a mild copy of New Years Eve.

At Pittsburgh's three operating breweries the good-humored crowds roared, bands played and whistles blew as the first of hundreds of loaded trucks shot away from the plants a few minutes after midnight with much-sought cargoes.

POPULAR BOAST

Eager hands reached out in scores of restaurants throughout the city as the first beer arrived. The popular boast rang out:

"I got the first one! I got the first one!"

Probably hundreds of proud Pittsburghers today may say, without too much basis in fact, that they "got the first one."

Mishaps were surprisingly few.

During the 24 hours ending yesterday morning when legal beer was not available, more than 50 drunks were arrested in the city. This morning the police court roll call revealed only 35 arrests for the same reason during the last 24 hour period, which included the first hours during which legal beer was being sold.

None of those arrested last night would contend or admit that

'Not Fair,' Governor Asserts

HARRISBURG, April 7.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today vetoed the McClure bill which provided for a state convention to ratify repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The Governor said the measure is "not a fair bill."

The bill provided for 51 delegates, one from each of the 34 congressional districts and 17 at large.

Pinchot in his veto message said he is ready to sign a bill providing for a convention based on the 50 senatorial districts, because it would secure "the fairest representation of all the people." He added:

"Accordingly I am prepared to approve a convention bill based on senatorial districts.

"I cannot, however, approve the present bill, which pretends to give to electors of districts of this state a voice on this question, that clearly provides means for nullifying their wishes."

A bill setting up a convention system by the election of delegates from senatorial districts is in the House. The measure by Representative Earl Hewitt, Indiana, was referred back to committee two weeks ago after passing two readings.

17 MILLION HAIL BEER RETURN

Associated Press.

The thump of bung-starters on countless kegs drummed a long-lost beverage back to the American scene today.

Lawful 3.2 per cent beer gushed in territory populated by about 70,000,000 Americans as 19 states and the District of Columbia lifted a ban more than 13 years old.

Jubilee and jollity were widespread among friends of the beverage; its foes voiced criticism and warning.

Five minutes after beer became legal at midnight, a big truck, gay with festoons, rumbled to the service entrance of the White House, bearing two cases—a brewer's gift to the President. Mr. Roosevelt, who had retired, has indicated he will give the beer to friends.

BROADWAY PARADES

On Broadway, New Yorkers paraded behind a hearse lettered "Near Beer is Dead," while a band in bright Bavarian uniforms played dirges and drinking songs. The brewers of the metropolis had refused to deliver beer before 6 a. m. but by 1 a. m. some hotels, cafes and restaurants had managed to get beer from New Jersey and elsewhere. Throngs cele-

TRIAL NEARS END AFTER GIRL DENIES SCOTTSBORO ATTACK

COURT REJECTS TESTIMONY OF CONVICT

Witness in Hiding After Repudiating First Story

By CARTER BROOKE JONES
International News Service.

DECATUR, Ala., April 7.—First retrial of the tempestuous Scottsboro attack case moved swiftly toward a close today.

Testimony ended with the brief reappearance of Ruby Bates, the Huntsville mill girl who threw a fresh stir into the widely-discussed case when she declared from the witness stand yesterday that the story she and Victoria Price told at the Scottsboro trials of their attacks on a freight train two years ago by a group of Negroes was a "frame-up" and that the girls were not molested.

There was one more witness, a convict, called by the state on rebuttal, but his evidence was excluded.

ARGUE TOMORROW

Summations of counsel began this afternoon, but indications were that Circuit Judge James E. Horton would adjourn court tonight and the arguments would be completed and the case sent to the jury before noon tomorrow.

The Bates girl had been in hiding over night as a result of fears of violence heightened by presence of armed National Guardsmen.

The house in which the Bates girl was to have spent the night is the temporary residence of counsel for both sides and newspaper correspondents. Guards were stationed at strategic points around the building, and one was assigned to the room of Samuel S. Leibowitz, famous New York criminal lawyer, who is chief counsel for the defense of the accused Negroes.

Miss Bates completed her startling testimony just before adjournment last night at the trial of Haywood Patterson, first of the Scottsboro Negro youths granted new trials after the United States Supreme Court set aside their death sentences.

The frail, soft-speaking girl said she went to Montgomery, Ala., and afterward to New York when she disappeared from her home a month ago. She said the trial was on her conscience and she looked up Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of the Riverside Baptist Church in New York, and he advised her to return to Alabama.

INFLATIONISTS TO CALL ON F. R.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(INS.)—A tremendous campaign to inflate the currency, launched by "The Committee on the Nation" and supported by 1,000 leading industrialists, will be carried to President Roosevelt next week for his approval, International News Service learned today.

The Committee on the Nation, headed by Frank A. Vanderlip, the New York capitalist, adopted a tentative program calling for a 75 per cent inflation of the currency as the only hope of restoring lasting prosperity.

The committee was reported to favor reducing the gold content of the dollar to that extent, although some members were holding out for inflation through government control of currency and credits.

NAZIS KILLED, HITLER SAYS

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT,
International News Service.

BERLIN, April 7.—In a vigorous speech, the text of which was made public today, Chancellor Adolf Hitler last night charged that 300 Nazis were murdered and more than 40,000 were wounded under the former Republican regime.

Hitler's accusations, made to representatives of provincial newspapers, were in reply to allegations of Nazi mistreatment of Jews.

Before the national revolution occurred, Hitler said, Nazis were "persecuted" by Republicans.

CONSERVATORS AWAITED

CLEVELAND, April 7.—(INS.)—Arrival of conservators to take charge of the affairs of the Union Trust Company and the Guardian Trust Company, which will be liquidated and succeeded by the First National Bank of Cleveland, was awaited here today.

The conservators are Sidney B. Congdon, Cleveland manager of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for the Guardian, and Sidney B. Cox, of Berkeley, Cal., former Cleveland and New York banker, for the Union.

Appointment of the conservators, which followed lengthy conferences of officials at Washington, was made by State Supt. of Banks Ira J. Fulton, with the approval of the R. F. C. and Secretary of the Treasury Woodin.

Sweet Adeline Returns From 13-Year Bier

She was the same old girl; a bit off key in spots, with everyone wanting to carry the tenor; but just as sweet and adenoidal as when she folded her arms across her breast 13 years ago and called it a day.

The lady sounded about the same in 3.2 time as in the days before anti-sellum. She came back with a vigor and verve that astonished some of the experts who felt that perhaps she had lost her kick.

RELIEF DEPOT FACES CHANGE

The Tarentum Community Market operated to supply foodstuffs to the destitute; likely will be supplanted by the "Pittsburgh Plan," whereby relief supplies would be obtained directly through the retail grocers.

Backing the proposed change is the Pittsburgh Wholesale Grocers' Association. It is to be considered by the State Emergency Relief Board, of which William B. Rodgers is executive director, at its next meeting.

It is similar to the method recently adopted in Philadelphia.

A resolution adopted at Wednesday's meeting of the State Relief Board set forth "That since Philadelphia is about to go over on another system of relief, we direct the attention of the people of Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board to that system and advise them to be prepared to consider some similar plan."

Jew Sent to Prison On 'Atrocity' Story

BERLIN, April 7.—(INS.)—A Jewish peddler "without nationality" was sentenced to a year in jail today in the first session of the newly-instituted special court dealing with the offense of spreading false reports regarding Germany.

The peddler, David Leisten, was sentenced for spreading "atrocity stories." The prosecutor and presiding judge both declared no offender could count on clemency.

Pastor Throws 'Pooch' From Church, Sorry

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 7.—(AP.)—Regret was expressed by the Rev. William Kitchen today over his action in throwing a mongrel pup out of his church Sunday night and injuring it so severely hospital authorities said it would die.

Mr. Kitchen said he had asked forgiveness of his congregation.

The minister, pastor of Faith Tabernacle, said he had talked to the chairman of his church board "and he made no indication that I will be asked to resign."

"I have no defense other than to say I am sorry," Mr. Kitchen told newspapermen.

Members of the Humane Society and other criticised the pastor after the incident and threatened to file a cruelty complaint.

Mr. Kitchen said he threw the dog out of the church Sunday night "because it was disturbing services," but, advised the dog was near death, denied he intended to treat it brutally.

Prosecution of the pastor was threatened by Abe Aronson, Pooch's master, who identified the dog in a hospital for pets.

Mr. Kitchen said:

"I would sooner see a dog killed than a church service interrupted."

Aronson, after the injured animal had licked his hands in recognition, said:

"Pooch was not a mean dog and I want this man prosecuted whether she lives or dies."

Mrs. Warder White, president of the local Humane Society, said:

"It is ridiculous. Coming from a minister, it is even worse."

The congregation of Mr. Kitchen's church was divided in sentiment. Some of them gathered over the injured dog after it fell upon the sidewalk outside the church and prayed for its recovery.

U. S. INVITES 3 MORE POWERS TO PARLEY

Germany, France and Italy Asked to Send Delegates

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The United States government has invited Germany, France and Italy as well as Great Britain to send representatives here to discuss with President Roosevelt problems relating to the world economic conference, it was announced today.

President Roosevelt's action in inviting representatives of the principal world powers to come to Washington is for the purpose of presenting to them an American program for the economic recovery of the world, Under-Secretary of State Phillips said.

This program will be based on action to break down international trade barriers.

These invitations to Germany, France and Italy were extended informally through diplomatic channels here. France and Italy were invited yesterday. The invitation to Germany was extended today.

Other countries, including Japan, will be invited later. The invitation to Germany was sent direct to Chancellor Adolph Hitler.

Britain Prepared To Barter With U. S.

LONDON, April 7.—(INS.)—Frankly amazed at the speed with which President Roosevelt has begun to lay the groundwork for the world economic conference, the British government moved today to play its part in the potentially far-reaching international discussions at Washington.

With issuance of a communique announcing Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald's acceptance of President Roosevelt's invitation to visit Washington, government spokesmen expressed belief the conversations would have immediately beneficial effects in world economic relationships.

British government circles are still adhering to the belief there is a good prospect for a debt moratorium as a result of the Roosevelt-MacDonald conference, despite denials from Washington that the President has promised anything of the kind.

It was generally expected that MacDonald's final overture would be to offer withdrawal of part of Britain's general 10 per cent, imports act, thus circumventing the Ottawa imperial trade preference agreement and meeting American demands for tariff concessions.

Herriot Likely to Head French Delegation

PARIS, April 7.—(INS.)—Designaiton of former Premier Edouard Herriot as France's delegate to the preliminary world economic conference talks in Washington moved closer today.

Herriot, forced out of office by his stand for payment of the last debt installment, and Senator Henri Berenger, former French ambassador to Washington, who aided in negotiating the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement, were most prominently mentioned for the post.

But the death of Senator Berenger's wife this morning made it unlikely he would be able to go.

Toscanini to Direct Wagnerian Festival

BAYREUTH, Germany, April 7.—(AP.)—Winifred Wagner, widow of the composer's son, said today that Arturo Toscanini will conduct Parsifal and the Meistersinger at the Bayreuth festival this summer, despite rumors to the contrary.

HOUSE TO DELAY 30-HOUR WEEK MEASURE

'Dynamite in Bill,' Speaker Rainey Declares

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP.)—Speaker Rainey said at a press conference today that the Senate 30-hour work week bill would be sidetracked in the House pending passage of all of President Roosevelt's "reconstruction legislation."

Rainey said:

"There is a lot of dynamite in that bill.

NOT PART OF PROGRAM

Rainey said that the bill "is not a part of the administration legislative program as yet, but it may be, but I have received no word from the White House."

Sponsored by Senator Black (Dem.), of Alabama, the bill limiting labor in manufacturing industries to five days a week and six hours a day was approved by the Senate last night, 53 to 30.

Democratic leaders expected the measure to be changed in the House to raise the working limit to 36 hours. Robinson, of Arkansas, asserted a 36-hour limitation—defeated by the Senate in debate—would be acceptable to Mr. Roosevelt.

JOBS FOR MILLIONS

Advocates contended the measure would give jobs to 6,000,000 idle and would be upheld by the Supreme Court. With some exceptions, the measure would bar from interstate commerce any product manufactured or mined by labor working more than 30 hours.

Articles specifically exempted include newspapers and periodicals, perishable commodities such as sea foods, fruits and vegetables, milk and milk products, and all farm products "processed for first sale by t he original producer." Railroads are not affected.

DRYS PUT BRAND OF CAIN ON BEER

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(INS.)—While the thirsty citizenry of 19 states and the national capital reveled today in the return of beer, no hosannas were being sung by the organized drys.

Here's how the National United Committee for Law Enforcement, Clinton N. Howard, chairman, characterized the history-making event:

"The crowning infamy of the ages, with the single exception of the crucifixion of the Son of God by the politicians of Jerusalem, is the crucifixion of the Constitution by the Seventy-third Congress now in session, by and with the advice and consent of the President of the United States, in legalizing by statute what is prohibited by the Constitution, to become opera-''ve on Black Friday, April 7, 1933.

"Like Herod, who slew the innocents of eBthlehem, this ignorant, disloyal, guzzling Godless Congress will wear the brand of Cain to the end of time."

NEFF DEFENSE AT TRIAL HIT

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 7.—Testimony that someone had left his shotgun loaded offered by Cyrus H. Neff, wealthy Canfield lumberman, as defense in the shooting of his wife, Mary Neff, was countered today by George Chambers, nephew of Mrs. Neff.

Chambers, who appeared during the second day of the trail, declared that when he returned a borrowed shotgun, he had extracted the shell and left the gun "broken."

Neff maintained the shooting was accidental—that he didn't know the gun was loaded.

The most startling evidence so far in the trial was offered by Coroner's Physician M. E. Hayes, who yesterday declared that when he signed the certificate noting the death accidental, he believed it was "murder." He blamed former Prosecutor James Cooper for allowing Neff to be released the night the body was found. Others testified that Cooper had said he hadn't enough evidence to hold the man.

ADMITS KILLING MOTHER, BOYS

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich, April 7.—(AP.)—Lying on a hospital cot, a 43-year-old school principal, Henry B. Bedford, today admitted to officials that he strangled to death Mrs. Mattie Sue Bengert, 28, and her son, Carl, 8, placed her 3-months-old son in a gas-filled oven where he died, and then attempted to end his own life by inhaling gas. Bedford was quoted by Prosecutor Bartel Jonkman:

"I guess I went mad."

Bodies of Mrs. Bengert and the two children were found yesterday by her husband, Carl, as he returned to the home hoping to effect a reconciliation with his wife.

He said he had left the house Tuesday after a quarrel brought about by Bedford's presence in the home. He also found Bedford, unconscious, in the gas-filled kitchen.

FOREST ARMY SELECTIONS START HERE

Applications Sent to Various Relief Agencies

Selection of recruits for the "conservation army" has been started today by the workers of the relief agencies.

Applications for membership in the army to be employed in reforestation were sent out at noon today from the offices of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board to the agency branches.

Workers from the agencies will name men from families where the need is considered greatest. All of Pittsburgh's first quota of 900 are to be taken in this manner from the relief lists.

WILL REPORT TO MILLS

The men, when notified, will report to George P. Mills, Allegheny County director of relief, who said applications of the first recruits will be signed and turned over to United States Army offices late today or early tomorrow.

Maj. William Buerkle, chief of the recruiting office here, is prepared to start immediately with physical examinations preparatory to sending Pittsburgh's first contingent to Fort Monroe, Va.

Hundreds of young men continued to apply at the offices of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board at the City-County building today, where more than 2,000 put in an appearance yesterday.

Director Mills expressed regret that it will be necessary to delay the new applicants until after the first Pittsburgh quota has been filled. He said:

"The applicants are a fine crowd of boys. There will probably be a chance for some of them later."

Mills, who returned from Washington last night, declared that while the present allotment of men is to be taken from relief lists, more men will be required in the future and the method of selection may be different.

SIX MONTHS' SERVICE

The men taken will be signed for six months' service, he said. The men signed will be from 18 to 25 years old, residents of Pittsburgh, citizens of the United States, unmarried and unemployed. All must be willing to give a substantial part of their $30 a month salary to dependents.

The men will remain at Fort Monroe for two weeks, after which they will be given a second and final physical examination. They will be then sent to camps in the national forests where they will be engaged in planting trees, cutting fire trails and working on insect pest control.

One of the camps is to be located in the Allegheny National Forest, near Kane, Pa. Three camps are to be opened in the Monongahela national forest in Central West Virginia.

KITS TO BE SUPPLIED

Everything from hats to toothpaste is to be furnished to the "conservation army," according to word from Washington.

Army uniforms will not be worn, however. Those who wish to wear their own clothing may do so, provided it is suitable for forest work. Toilet and mess kits will be supplied.

Out of their $30 monthly wage, the recruits must agree to allot $22 to $25 to dependents, according to Robert Fechner, director of the program.

Work camps will house from 20 to 200 men. Army tents will be used. The Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus and other organizations are planning welfare programs at the camps.

A recommendation for 50 camps of 200 men each in Pennsylvania has been made by Lewis E. Staley, state secretary of forests and waters. Ultimately it is hoped to provide work for 24,000 men in the program within the commonwealth.

First Contingent Moves To Camp by Nightfall

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP.)—Army recruiting camps in 17 cities were ready today for the first men selected for President Roosevelt's forestry conservation corps, with plans complete for moving large numbers to conditioning camps by nightfall.

The first contingent consisting of 25,000 men is to be fully mobilized by Saturday. Robert Fechner, director of the combined forestation and employment relief program, has set enrollment of 100,000 men by May 1 as his goal. After two weeks of conditioning the men go into the woods.

Sick or Not, Harriman Must Face Court

NEW YORK, April 7.—(INS.)—Federal Judge Frank J. Coleman today ordered Joseph W. Harriman, banker, to appear in Federal Court at 10:30 a. m. Monday to plead to an indictment, ignoring pleas that Harriman was ill.

Harriman, resigned chairman of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company, was indicted yesterday for alleged false entries totaling $1,393,080.

He was to have made his court plea today but his attorney, George S. Leisure, appeared with affidavits from physicians which stated the banker was too ill to leave his home.

Dr. Howard F. Shattuck told Judge Coleman that bringing Harriman to court now "might bring a strain which would endanger his life." The court asked:

"Suppose an ordinary man in the same condition as Mr. Harriman could make $10,000 by coming here. Would you auvise him to do so"

Dr. Shattuck replied:

"I would not."

Further questioning revealed the banker was able to get out of bed and move about his home.

Judge Coleman said if Harriman did not appear Honday a bench warrant would be issued.

PLANE BRINGS 3.2 BREW TO PRESIDENT

'First Lady' Doesn't Care for Beverage; F. R. Silent

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP.)—The shipments of beer delivered to President Roosevelt were forwarded by him today to the National Press Club with his compliments.

Breweries of Washington, Baltimore and Milwaukee sent cases of the new brew to the White House.

Mrs. Roosevelt has said beer would be served in the White House to those who desired it, but she didn't care for any herself.

The President has reserved comment on whether he will care for any, but apparently none is going to be served right away.

BEER BY PLANE

Flown by an airplane, "The Spirit of 3.2," two cases of beer arrived at the White House today from Milwaukee.

A crowd of curious bystanders assembled at the White House executive offices and inspected the contents of the two cases. Then the brew was solemnly carried to the doors of the White House and turned over to attaches.

Noisy throngs crowded Pennsylvania and West Executive avenues outside the White House shortly after midnight when a brightly festooned truck, piled high with beer cases, roared up under police escort. The crowd's cheering rose to a shout. Beer was back.

CASES DELIVERED

Photographers' flashlights pierced the damp, murky night air. Truckmen posed, bottled beer in hand. As the crowd's yelling swelled anew, two specially wrapped cases were delivered to White House police at the mansion's tradesmen's entrance.

President Roosevelt, who, 15 days ago, fulfilled a campaign pledge by signing the 3.2 beer bill, and members of his family had retired.

A Marine rode on the truck from the Abner Drury Brewery. As soon as the vehicle had paused men on the truck began passing out bottles to those jammed around it. There was a rush, and police stepped in to keep things in hand.

STARS SIP BEER ON ALIEN SOIL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 7.—(INS.)—Hollywood, high and dry island in a sea of suds, fired its salute to the return of beer today on alien soil.

Legally the film capital is dry as far as retail sale of beer goes and will remain so until voters act on a proposal to repeal a local regulatory measure which confines dispensing of the beverage to a restricted area in downtown Los Angeles.

Some members of the film colony were prominent in celebrations staged at the "bright spots" in unrestricted areas outside the city limits. Others made plans to celebrate with parties today and tonight.

"Beer parties" were sponsored by such prominent members of the colony as Buddy Rogers, Mervyn Leroy, Frederick March, Cary Grant, Randolph Scott, Carole Lombard and William Powell, Jack La Rue and Richard Arlen.

Marlene Dietrich, glamorous German actress, postponed her beer party until next week when she will hold an "open dressing room" to say goodby to friends before her departure for Germany.

Mae West, of stage and screen fame, accepted the invitation of a Los Angeles brewery to be on hand at midnight so that legal drinking could get off to a flying start.

Observed the blonde Miss West:

"I think beer is going to turn all speakeasies into speaklouders."

"It's going to be tough for those guys who made a living looking out of peepholes."

Won't Call Actress In Fairbanks Case

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—(AP.)—Attorneys for Jorgen Dietz said his former wife, the erstwhile Lulu Talma of the screen, will not be called as a witness in trial of his $60,000 alienation of affections suit against Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., film actor.

Dietz, a chemist, charged that Fairbanks stole the love of the actress, now a writer in Copenhagen, Denmark.

'Ironsides' Guarded Against Bomb Plot

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—(AP.)—A police guard was established about the U. S. S. Constitution by Chief of Police William J. Quinn yesterday after he received information that a time bomb had been planted on the ancient frigate.

Fifty officers searched the vessels and the waters about it at a pier here without finding a trace of an infernal machine.

Beer Floows Free In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—(AP.)—A foaming amber flow, dammed for 13 years, ran without restrictions today as real beer came back to Philadelphia. A cheering, noisy crowd celeberated its arrival until dawn.

Baby Carriages Haul Akron Beer

COLUMBUS, O., April 7.—(AP.)—Comparatively few Ohioans tasted the new 3.2 per cent beer until hours after it became legal today, for few of the state's breweries had a supply ready and fewer delivered what they had until dawn.

The only unusual incident reported was at Akron, where police estimated a crowd of 900 men, some trundling baby carriages and wheelbarrows, others drawing their boys' coaster wagons, descended on the county's only brewery.

The 'Forgotten Man' Getting His First Beer: An Unexpected Gift

LEGAL BEER: A KINDLY PATROLMAN HELPING A DOZEN "FORGOTTEN MEN" AT 3 A. M. WITH THE KEG O' REAL BEER SENT THEM ... CANS, PANS AS STEINS

IDLE GET BEER, BUT NOT F. R.

As the first legal beer gurgled down parched Pittsburgh throats early today, President Roosevelt's "forgotten man" was not forgotten here. In fact, he was more fortunate than the President.

The Independent Brewing Company rushed a case of beer to the county airport to be airplaned to Washington for the President, but bad weather caused cancellation until today of the trip. However, the Pittsburgh beer, along with some 50 cases en route from St. Louis, was scheduled for shipment today.

Luckier were the homeless unemployed men camped in a shantytown settlement on the side of Duquesne Heights. The Independent Brewing Company delivered a key of beer to them at 3 a. m. today.

Three of the men took turns in shouldering the keg up the steep hillside. A few moments later the spigot was spouting the frothing liquid into almost every kind of container the camp could muster. With a strong head on it, the beer rapidly filled many a can and pail.

The group of men—all awake to celebrate the return of beer—drank their first toast to President Roosevelt.

SIDELIGHTS OF CITY BEER PARTY

Waterwagon Jeered Trailing Brewery Truck Parade

PROSIT!

(Prosit—A salutation meaning, "May it do you good." The expression, of German origin, is used in drinking to health.)

The throngs that lined Fifth avenue got one chuckle—at least. Beer trucks had passed in great numbers, when lumberingly following them came the green-painted waterwagon—the D. P. W. was cleaning the streets.

Beer prices varied. It was a dime a stein most places, and a dime a bottle, too, in one chain of hamburger emporiums, but most restaurants got 15 cents a bottle. No nickel beer was on tap.

The first anniversary of the death of John H. Friday, Sr., president of the Independent Brewing Company, marked the resumption of operations of the brewery he founded for the sale and distribution of "real" beer. Friday died a year ago last night.

"You can't even BUY a bottle of beer."

The university has banned all use and selling of beer on the campus.

Many of the young people downtown began celebrating early on other drinks, probably gin. In Sixth street, one young man imagined he was a movable traffic light and waved a lighted lamp to and fro—a lamp he "borrowed" from a construction job.

Scrubwomen from one downtown office building were among the first to sip the legal beer. Making a dash from behind the bronze grill of their building, they hurriedly purchased a dozen bottles and chased back to shelter. One woman's bottle escaped and rolled down the pavement frothing at the mouth.

To the blare of a costumed German band, beer made its entrance to the William Penn Hotel Chatterbox, where 400 thirsty throats counted the minutes from midnight. The beer was rushed from one of the first trucks to reach the downtown section to waiting tubs of ice. Waiters carried tubs and cases in a grand entrance parade behind the band. The price: 35 cents a bottle.

An improvised service bar of two tubs of ice was put into use for guests at the Fort Pitt Hotel. With the regular service bar installed in the closed coffee shop, guests were not denied the foaming beverage.

In the Nixon cafe, the band began to play "How Dry I Am." Waiters brought the cases into the dining room, and everyone sang.

A popular toast everywhere was:

Girls served beer in many of the smaller downtown cafes. Among places where their smiles greeted the thirsty throngs were Rudy's, 604 Liberty avenue; White Tower, 129 Sixth street, and Gammon's.

Joy and Woe Mark Rush of Thirsty For Beverage

It was against the law to "rush the growler" to the breweries, but one enthusiast had hopes. He brought a 90-ounce stein to the Independent Brewing Company plant, and went away still thirsty. In his eye was a look that said:

"What, no beer?"

"Profiteering" was reported in instances shortly after the midnight delivery hour. One truck driver, his vehicle partly filled as he wheeled away from the throng on the South Side, said he was offered $5 a case for his brew and sold six cases at that figure. Rumor also had it that one driver sold a case for $30, but, in these times, gained small credence.

The Duquesne Club, cloistered stone mansion of the millionaires and former millionaires, was forbiddingly dark, as though its members disdained the plebian drink of the masses. But—its cellars were lighted and showed signs of activity.

Men walked along Smithfield street and Fifth avenue and pointed to the spot where the once popular Newell's stood, now demolished in the name of progress.

A dearth of bottle openers proved no handicap to those wishing to sip the new brew the moment they had lugged their case out of the brewery. Many were observed opening their bottles on the bumpers of automobiles, against telephone poles, on curbstones, etc.

AN ART UNFORGOTTEN

REVELS CURBED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP.)—New Yorkers who stayed up till midnight to say "prosit," found plenty of moisture in the weather but little in their steins.

A cold rain, combined with most brewers' refusals to deliver before 6 a. m., dampened many an expectant party. However, some hotels and restaurants produced a supply of the new beer, from New Jersey, so that all were not disappointed.

Jimmy Durante, comedian, donned a white apron to tap the first barrel rolled into a Broadway restaurant by red-liveried attendants and a crowd of 1,000 roared. Jack Dempsey sampled the beer and said it was fine. Then he rubbed some of the suds along Durante's nose.

Chicago Hilarious Over Beer Return

CHICAGO, April 7.—(AP.)—"Lots of hilarity but little disorder" were the words with which legal beer to Chicago today.

There were fewer arrests than usual for drunkenness, police said, and most of those arrested admitted partaking of liquor stronger than 3.2 beer.

First German Beer Shipped to America

BERLIN, April 7.—(AP.)—The first shipment of "Schlossbrau" brewed especially for 3.2 consumers in America started on its way to New York today.

BEER SENT EAST BY AIRPLANE

A new era in beer distribution was inaugurated in Pittsburgh today with the shipping of some 39 cartons and seven cases of beer to eastern ports by air. Consignees included President Roosevelt, Al Smith, Vice President Garner and other notables.

Two of the cases were the gifts of Pittsburgh's Independent Brewing Company. They were bound for Washington, gifts to President Roosevelt and Senator David A. Reed.

The others were from St. Louis' famed Anheuser-Busch and Atlas breweries.

They arrived in Pittsburgh early this morning on a Transcontinental-Western Air passenger plane, and were forwarded to Washington, New York, Philadelphia and Harrisburg, after some delay during a snow squall at County Airport.

Other persons for whom the beer was bound included Postmaster General James A. Farley, Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi; Senator David J. Walsh, of Massachusetts; House Speaker Henry T. Rainey; Maryland's Governor, Albert C. Richie, and ex-Senator Hiram Bingham.

Beer Truck Crashes Kills Sleeping Man

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—(AP.)—A beer truck caused a death this morning hours before the new 3.2 beverage was on sale in this city.

The truck, with a trailer in tow, got out of control on a steep street in the Hollywood area, careened down a hill and crashed into a print shop, killing Forrest Myers, 34, printer, and severely injured his mother, Mrs. Mamie Myers, 56. Both were asleep in the building.

AKRON DAMAGED BEFORE CRASH, QUIZ TOLD

The witnesses were spared from cross-examination and the hearing was adjourned until next Wednesday.

Deal told the committee of the last-known conversation of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Navy's air service, who was numbered among the 73 victims. Deal testified:

"At about 8:15 p. m., while standing there (on watch) Admiral Moffett came up the gangway from the control car and I said, "Good evening, Admiral.' He replied 'Good evening' and proceeded to the control car or the officers' quarters.

"He asked me if I was on watch and I replied, 'Yes, sir, I have the telephone at this station.' He stopped on the first step leading down the gangway and I said, 'Admiral, you must like flying on this ship.' He replied, 'I am fond of it, much more so than the other.' (Meaning heavier than air, I assume).

"He further said, 'It is much better than the Shenandoah.' I replied, 'Yes, sir" and he then proceeded to the control car."

crashed. . . . .

Deal's testimony showed that no great alarm was felt on the great ship in spite of a terrific electrical storm, until shortly before she crashed.

WENT TO HIS BUNK

At five minutes past midnight, Deal went into his bunk in the outer keel. He said:

"I happened to be looking up and noticed the No. 7 cell was switching quite more than usual. While looking at this cell the ship gave a terrific lurch sideways and longitudinal girders seven and eight gave way as well as some of the wires."

Erwin, without elaborating, also told the committee that he looked up and saw a great metal girder give way.

Deal also said he noticed after the girders gave way the control wires went through the sheaves. Looking forward, he said, he saw a tank drop from its forward suspension. At this time the ship had reached such a sharp inclination that he had to grab the side girders to hold himself up.

The stories of the survivors disclosed that officers of the airship were watching the weather and ship closely throughout the flight, after the weather became foggy and lightning was seen.

Deal said that at 8:55 p. m., Commander McCord, of the airship, told him that the ship was flying from light to heavy.

About 10 p. m., Deal said, he went into the navigator's compartment where Col. Masury was. Deal said:

"He seemed quite perturbed about the weather and I assured him there was no cause for alarm as I had witnessed electrical storms of more intensity in the Shenandoah."

LIGHTNING FLASHES

About 11 p. m., Deal said, he noticed that every lightning flash seemed to center on the radio antenna. Lieut. Calnan came along and told him to stand by the radio unit.

He said while standing there, Commander Cecil came up. Deal, noticing aviator's wings on his coat, asked him whether he would rather be on an airplane or the airship. Deal said:

"He replied he was 'Damn glad to be where he was.'"

IMPARTIAL QUIZ ASKED

Demanding "a fair and impartial investigation of the Akron disaster, Representative McClintic, (Dem.), of Oklahoma, appealed to the House Rules Committee to authorize such a probe by a joint congressional committee or a House committee composed of members having no contact with military and naval affairs. The rules committee deferred action.

The investigation now under way by the House Naval Affairs Committee, McClintic said, may develop into "a white wash." He charged that such an investigation of the Shenandoah had resulted in country-wide criticism.

McClintic said:

"I was chairman of that subcommittee but the hearings will show that it was actually conducted by Representative Vinson."

Vinson (Dem.), of Georgia, is now chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee.

Vinson told the rules committee that his probe was already under way and would continue regardless of the fate of McClintic's demand.

Lieut. Charles H. Kendall announced today the dingy buff painted schoolroom with a half dozen rusty desks, a long bench and blackboard on which is pinned a faded blueprint of the Akron, will be the scene of the court to be presided over by Rear Admiral Henry V. Butler.

MOFFETT'S SON HERE ON TRIP

Lieut. George Moffett and his attractive sister, Mrs. E. M. Moore, stopped briefly in Pittsburgh during a change of engines at midnight on their way to Washington, D. C. to await news of their famous father, Admiral William A. Moffett, who went down with the Akron.

Inclement weather in Columbus halted their homeward journey by plane. They entrained at Columbus and arrived at the Pennsylvania Station shortly before midnight. Eager for news of his father, Lieut. Moffett, himself a pilot in a fighting squadron, said:

"We have not yet given up hope. Are they still searching? The Akron was a big craft, you know, and I feel that father must be hanging to a fragment of it somewhere.

"I wonder if the disaster will affect the future of lighter-than-air craft. I hope not, because father was all wrapped in it."

Lieut. Moffett is 26 and a graduate of Annapolis Naval Academy.

Mix Wins Legal Fight With Wife

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—(INS.)—Tom Mix, cowboy film actor, today was winner of a lawsuit filed by his former wife, Mrs. Victoria Forde de Olanzabal, now the wife of the Argentine consul at San Francisco.

The former Mrs. Mix had sued to collect $50,000 in promissory notes, but the court upheld Mix's contention that he had intended the money to provide a home for their daughter, and that the plaintiff's remarriage had made this plan impractical.

Three Indicted In Bohn Kidnaping

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 7.—(AP.)—Three persons, including Ray Robinson, were indicted yesterday on charges of kidnaping Haskell Bohn, of St. Paul.

The names of those indicted with Robinson were kept secret because they are not yet under arrest. Mr. and Mrs. Verne Sankey have been named by Robinson as his accomplices in a confession he made last week when he was arrested at Rorketon, Manitoba.

MACON TO TAKE AIR THURSDAY

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP.)—The Navy Department announced today that the first trial flight of the airship Macon, sister ship of the ill-fated Akron, will be held at Akron, O., next Thursday.

The ship will be completed Wednesday and, weather permitting, will take off early the next day.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP.)—The two enlisted men who went through the Akron crash and survived want to serve on her sister ship, the Macon.

Richard E. Deal, boatswain's mate and one of the three survivors, was on the Shenandoah when it fell in 1925; the Akron crash was the first for Moody E. Erwin, metalsmith.

Lieut. Com. Herbert V. Wiley, executive officer on the Akron, said that he had been detailed to go aboard the Macon next week for an inspection, but that because of investigations that duty probably would be delayed.

1 SLAIN, 2 SHOT IN MINE WAR

DOQUOIN, Ill., April 7.—(INS.)—Jim Attes, 35, was shot and killed and Herman Arnold, 47, was shot and wounded seriously here today in a gun battle with deputy sheriffs who sought to question them in connection with the critical shooting of Laverne Miller, 14-year-old daughter of a deputy sheriff.

More than 20 members of the Progressive Union have been rounded up by deputies and are held for questioning in the shooting of the girl in her home last night as she sat studying her school lessons by gunmen in a green sedan who opened fire on the Miller house.

where the wreck is supposed to have gone down. If raised, it probably would tell nothing. There is no doubt that every member of the crew did his duty courageously, although bad judgment is not impossible.

Whether lightning or wind caused the disaster will probably not be known, nor whether, with better judgment directing the ship, it might have escaped the intense violence of the electric storm.

CHARLES ROSS, a reader in Washington, suggests that it is a mistake "to allow government departments to inspect their own designs on completion."

This reader believes that government work, ordered by different departments, should be inspected and passed upon by the Bureau of Standards, and there is wisdom in that suggestion.

A job on which the country's protection and the safety of men depend should not be inspected and approved only by those that give the order to construct.

PENNSYLVANIA reports "grave danger of violent disorder and chaos," predicted by the Taxpayers' Protective League, unless funds for unemployment relief are immediately provided. A 20 per cent reduction in state appropriations has cut down food supplies.

Meanwhile 25,000 men start today for the $1-a-day forest camps. It is not easy to deal adequately with a problem that involves twelve million out of work.

RABBI SCORES PERSECUTION

While condemning Hitler's persecution of the Jews in Germany, Rabbi B. Benedict Glazer, of Rodef Shalom Synagogue, Fifth and Morewood avenues, today told students of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. unemployed school, that Poland has been pushing a more drastic drive for years without arousing public resentment.

The Nazi program was termed a dramatic gesture to fulfill campaign purposes. The Poland program has been an economic oppression, he said, Jews being denied trade advantages with banks, employment and other advantages.

Citing propaganda of the Nazi party he had encountered several years ago, Rabbi Glazer told as an example of handbills passed out by the University of Berlin for a meeting at which "Jews and dogs" were prohibited.

Slain Man Beat Her, Girl Suspect Claims

NEWARK, O., April 7.—Betty Wallace, 23, is being questioned today in connection with the murder of John Price, 30, in his home last midnight. Coroner John Thompson and Police Chief Curtis Berry said the woman had confessed that she shot Price because he had beaten her.

Gen. Custer's Widow Buried at West Point

WEST POINT, N. Y., April 7.—(AP.)—The body of Mrs. Elizabeth Bacon Custer was buried yesterday beside that of her husband, Gen. George A. Custer, who was killed with his entire battalion in 1876 by Sitting Bull's Indians.

Search for Stolen Auto of Sheriff

TRAFFIC SNARL AS BREWERIES LIFT LID

WOULDN'T DRINK BEER

All of those arraigned at Central Station were the regulars who are brought in every so often full of "moonie." Describing them, Magistrate Leo Rothenberg said in Central Police Court:

"They wouldn't take a drink of beer if they were thrown into a vat of it."

Three truck drivers, speeding away from the Fort Pitt Brewery in Sharpsburg, were arrested and fined $50 for overloading their trucks.

Two young men were arrested for the theft of 10 cases of beer from the Independent brewing plant on the South Side.

Ernest Brandt, 25, of West View, suffered a bruised leg when he was caught between two beer trucks at the Iron City plant of the Pittsburgh Brewing Company in Bloomfield.

TWO ARRESTED

Two young men were arrested in Mifflin road by a state highway patrolmen, who suspected they were planning to hijack a beer truck.

Police Capt. Thomas Gross said that he and a squad of police visited eight cabarets in the Hill and downtown and notified them to obey the 1 a. m. closing order. Perhaps, however, the proprietors were hard of hearing and just as anxious to celebrate beer's return.

If the celebration was not general it was certainly concentrated at the breweries and restaurants. The thousands of humans and automobiles that took up every inch of space within blocks of the three breweries were too much for extra police to handle.

FIRST FLOW

How many cases and barrels of beer were delivered during the night can only be estimated—probably several hundred thousand.

Thousands of motorists, in line for hours, shoved a case or two into their cars and drove home for beer parties.

As to the quality of the beer most reports were favorable. You could have heard these exclamations:

"Good stuff! It's okay! Got a kick!"

Much of the beer had to be served warm, so impatient were customers.

At the Fort Pitt Brewery the crowd and the demand were so great that Samuel J. Grenet, the president, apologized to 1,900 or more guests who had been invited for "a glass of beer and 'Sweet Adeline.'"

No beer was served to the crowd, which included society figures and politicians.

FEAR OF CROWD

A temporary stand, in the open, had been built for these guests, but if beer had been served to them in full view of the waiting thousands there might have been a complaint or two, to put it mildly.

Private police and state highway patrolmen flanked the Fort Pitt Brewery and helped to maintain order. Danny Nirella's band played appropriate drinking songs, despite the lack of drinking. And the theme song, of course, was:

"Happy Days Are Here Again."

At the Sharpsburg Eagles lodge the members sat up a record of which they may well be proud. Getting their clutches on three early barrels, they hurried to their lodge for a stag party and in 21 minutes they emptied the first barrel.

At the Variety Club, downtown, full justice was done to 85 cases of not so near beer.

At the Independent plant on the South Side they ran out of the stuff. Countless trucks were loaded while thousands of South Siders cheered. But the supply was exhausted.

You can guess at the size of the crowds that turned out by keeping in mind that the line of cars at the Iron City Brewery reached from the Bloomfield Bridge to Twenty-eighth street. Along the loading platforms hundreds held up order slips to busy attendants, hoping for quick action.

The retail value of all the beer shipped out of Pittsburgh plants in the early hours is probably more than $250,000. Even before the breweries sent out a drop the government had collected $100,000 taxes from six breweries and hundreds of retailers in Western Pennsylvania.

REAL BEER 'ON HOUSE'

The few speakeasies that were running last night did a good business, but the atmosphere was disheartening. In some of them the 3.2 per cent beer arrived early and was tapped immediately. In one South Side spot the real beer was on the house.

Downtown, the Diamond, where 15 years ago famous beer gardens catered to Pittsburgh, was quiet.

Along about 4 a. m. brewery trucks pulled up before several restaurants and rolled barrels into the cellar. But on all were signs which contradicted memories of another day:

"OPEN AT 7 A. M."

VET PARTY SPOILED

Much of the beer that was sped away in trucks went to towns in Western Pennsylvania. But one truck consigned to the American Legion in Greensburg reached there too late.

The others were Steve Hook, who was hurrying to Hickey Park in Millvale, and William Nedel, anxious to reach Rankin.

Albert Salinsky, 20, of South Eighteenth street, and Joseph Wirth, 19, of Regina street, were arrested for the theft of 10 cases from the Independent plant, but discharged when they proved their undoubted innocence.

Vincent Guynick, 23, and John Hynak, 29, of Clairton, were taken in tow by the State Highway Police, who reported the two hiding in Mifflin road, bricks in hand. They were suspected of planning to hijack a truck.

brated. In speakeasies, where prices tumbled before the competition, customers toasted (with "needle beer" and gin) the advent of legal brew.

"Surprisingly good," said Chicago beer connoisseurs as they celebrated "new beer's day." While 100,000 cases and 200,000 barrels sped to points of delivery there, cheering throngs crowded downtown streets, hotels and eating places.

MRS. BOOLE'S PROPHECY

While H. L. Mencken, author, iconoclast and beer expert of Baltimore, was tasting the new brew and pronouncing it "pretty good; not bad at all" Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national head of the W. C. T. U., declared the beer violated the Eighteenth Amendment, and said:

"When the wet hysteria will have passed, the American people will awaken to the fact that the liquor traffic cannot be controlled because of its inherent nature."

The problem that the new brew posed for gangsters and racketeers who dominated much of the illegal beer trade was one yet to be solved. In New York racketmen were reported trying to "persuade" speakeasy owners to go on selling the dubious beverage sponsored by the underworld.

Alfred E. Smith, old foe of prohibition, found himself the center of felicitations. Brewers hastened to send him their first cases of beer. One dispatched six Clydesdale horses to draw a four-ton brewery stake wagon up to Mr. Smith's Fifth avenue home with a case of the new beverage.

In the confusion and frantic efforts by brewers to keep abreast with orders, no estimate could be obtained immediately as to how much of a fillip the legalization of beer had given to business, how much money was being spent on beer, or how many men had been put to work. Brewers in Chicago estimated $5,000,000 had gone into circulation there immediately, while a newspaper said about 40,000 persons had got jobs in Illinois as the result of beer. From the first few hours' sale in Minnesota, the government garnered $100,000 in revenue.

The price varied. In New York, a much-quoted figure was $2 a case of 24 bottles. The price for a glass was often 10 cents; sometimes a nickel for a small glass, but in hotels and some restaurants, it was, in many cases, 15 cents a glass and sometimes as high as 35 cents a bottle.

In many places the brewers held fast to the plan to hold deliveries until after dawn.

A carnival spirit reigned in St. Louis at midnight, as whistles tooted and 25,000 persons crowded around one brewery alone to cheer as special trains and big trucks rushed the shipments away. Hotels, night clubs and restaurants did a "gold rush" business.

Philadelphia, pronouncing its new brew good, cheered as 10 breweries opened their gates to let the flood out.

The price in Indiana was generally 20 to 25 cents a pint, and $300,000 was collected in license fees.

No Truck Permits For Hauling Beer

HARRISBURG, April 7.—(INS.)—The Bureau of Motor Vehicles is not issuing permits to motor truck owners for the transportation of beer, Leon D. Metzger, secretary of revenue, announced today.

Metzger stated the department has received numerous applications, many of which were for licenses to sell beer at retail. To transport beer, truckers must possess a certificate of public convenience from the Public Service Commission or a permit from the State Alcohol Permit Board.

Kittanning Rival Balks Beer Parade

KITTANNING, Pa., April 7.—Ben Davieson and his beer parade failed to function on the eve of the return of legal beer to Kittanning. Burgess Thomas Norr sat down upon the idea of allowing a rival candidate for Burgess to fire the minds of the populace. Gaily decorated trucks and automobiles gathered on Orr avenue, but Davieson failed to appear to lead the pageant and the beer keg was relegated to oblivion and silence.

BIGGERS' DEATH LAID TO 'CHAN'

PALM SPRINGS, Cal., April 7.—(AP.) — The statement that "Charlie Chan takes everything out of me," made by Earl Derr Biggers here on his last appearance in public, has led friends of the author to believe the fictional detective character whose role was tracking murderers may have hastened his creator's death.

Biggers suffered a heart attack in Palm Springs March 29. He was rushed to Pasadena, where he died Wednesday.

In company with George Anderson, of the staff of the Desert Inn, where Biggers produced "The Chinese Parrot," he attended a motion picture show the night before he was stricken.

It was during their walk to the theater that the writer mentioned the effort demanded of him by the character of Charlie Chan. He expressed the wish that he might perform his literary work "free from the tremendous nervous strain which I am unable to avoid."

Biggers chatted with Anderson for a few minutes the next morning, got his mail and walked to his bungalow. A short time later the maid called to report he had collapsed.

'LYSISTRATA' SUES OVER PURITY SQUAD RAID

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—(AP.)—A $226,000 damage suit against Capt. Deighton McDonald Jones and his police "purity squad" by members of a raided stage show cast was on trial today.

The suit grew out of two raids led by Jones on performances of the ancient Greek comedy, "Lysistrata" at the Carthay Circle Theater in January, 1932. Jones contended the play was "indecent."

Twenty-three actresses and actors, including "Lysistrata" herself—Nance O'Neil, well-known New York stage actress—were arrested in the raids. Twenty-one players are suing, charging false arrest and malicious prosecution.

Of those arrested, some were acquitted and charges against the others were dismissed.

David Henderson, who played the part of the keeper of the gate in the comedy, testified he was locked in a cell for two or three hours after one raid. He said:

"We were arrested on the stage."

Most of the plaintiffs asked $2,000 actual damages. Claims aggregated $180,000 actual damages and $46,000 punitive damages.

HOUSEHOLDERS WARNED OF RACKET

A new racket is being worked on North Side householders, according to Reuel Elton, general manager of the Better Business Bureau. Complaints were received by the bureau that a man and a woman pretending to be representatives of the U. S. Public Health Commission were demanding contributions in Franklin street. At one home they adopted a semi-official tone, and requested the money be ready when called for in a day or two.

According to Dr. Ralph Porter, head of the United States Public Health Service in the Pittsburgh district, no agents of the service are soliciting contributions. He knows of no surveys by U. S. health officers in the district, and brands such solicitors as imposters.

Similar rackets were worked in Pittsburgh about this time last year, Dr. Porter reports.

MARINE GIVEN VALOR CROSS

Sergt. Broderick

A Homewood Marine, who helped rout rebel bands in Nicaragua for two years, has been awarded a Cross of Valor, it was learned today in a dispatch from Quantico, Va.

He is Sergt. Joseph M. Broderick, 30, who, born in Carnegie, lived with an aunt, Mrs. Katherine Burke, of 540 Clawson street, before enlisting in 1921.

The cross was awarded by Jose M. Moncada, former president of the Central American country, and was conferred upon him at the Quantico Marine base where he is now stationed.

Broderick, who was also a lieutenant in the Guardia Racional, the native military force in Nicaragua, led Guardia patrols in 12 victorious engagements against armed bandit forces in the mountains and jungles.

HUSBAND TOOK RING, WIFE SAYS

Her husband pulled a diamond engagement ring from her finger, Mrs. Lillian Spielman, 7225 Church street, Swissvale, told Judge George V. Moore in asking a divorce from Morgan Spielman. She testified:

"When he took the ring from off my finger he said he would give it to some one worth while."

Mrs. Spielman, the mother of three boys, the oldest 10, told Judge Moore her husband had knocked her down several times. After several separations, Spielman, she told the court, finally left her April 16, 1929. She charges cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities.

Three Women, One Man Win Divorces

Divorce suits were filed by Wil-Hope Elizabeth Early from William R. Early, Thomas C. Brawdy from Mildred Brawdy, Mary Elliott from Louis Elliott and to Anna Boychuck from Harry Boychuck.

Divorse suits were filed by William Silk against Rose Silk, and by Virginia L. Klein agaainst Edward J. Klein.

U. S. AID DENIED, STATE HEADS CALL PARLEY

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP.)—Denied their request for $4,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to carry on the state's welfare work through April, Pennsylvania legislative leaders are to meet Gov. Pinchot Monday to devise a plan for raising the money.

Gov. Pinchot and a group of state leaders made a personal request for the federal aid yesterday, but were told by Fred C. Croxton, emergency relief director for the R. F. C., that any additional federal aid would have to await more appropriations by the state itself.

Both administration and anti-administration forces were represented in the group which accompanied Pinchot. All agreed to the meeting called for next Monday.

The last time the R. F. C. loaned Pennsylvania money for relief work, it did so on the statement of Gov. Pinchot that the Legislature was getting ready to appropriate $20,000,000 for the jobless. The $20,000,000 is still pending in the Legislature.

The Assembly appropriated $2,000,000 last week as an emergency relief fund.

PINCHOT SIGNS LOAN BILL

HARRISBURG, April 7.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today signed the McClure (Delaware) bill, empowering counties, cities, boroughs, towns and townships to borrow money from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to finance self-liquidating projects.

The act permits municipalities to issue bonds in the amount of the loan and sell them to the R. F. C.

Other acts signed today:

Scott (Centre) bill, eliminating one of the days on which assessors and registry assessors must sit at polling places.

Scott, repealing certain acts relating to attendance of assessors and registry assessors at polling places.

Husband Missing, Wife Asks Search

Fear for the safety of her husband, Delbert, known as "Doc," who disappeared from home during her absence Tuesday, has caused Mrs. Ethel Carney, 32, of 814 Sandusky street, North Side, to appeal to police and Missing Persons Bureau for help in her search.

Carney was employed for years as watchman and fireman on river boats owned by the Crucible Fuel Company. He had nearly $200 on his person when he disappeared, according to his wife.

Murray Calls Oil States to Parley

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 7.—(AP.)—Gov. W. H. Murray announced last night he had called a conference of governors or representatives of six oil states at Amarillo, Tex., Sunday, April 9, for the purpose of discussing a uniform oil proration setup.

Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, of Texas, advised Gov. Murray by telephone she would send three representatives.

Inhalators Saving Life of Donora Boy

DONORA, April 7.—(AP.)—Physicians said today that 5-year-old Sam White, kept alive for almost a week by inhalators, is out of danger.

Sam, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman White, almost died after complications set in during an attack of measles. The Charleroi Fire Department and a crew of the West Penn Light Company stood guard with the inhalators.

French Woman Flier Lands in Indo-China

HANOI, French Indo-China, April 7.—(AP.)—Maryse Hiltz, French woman flier, arrived here this morning from Vien Tiane on a flight by easy stages from Paris to Tokio.

Fears had been expressed at Rangoon, Burma, that an accident might have befallen her since she was overdue at that point.

Quick Aid Necessary For County Destitute

R. F. C. Refusal Puts Problem Up to Legislature

Quick action today was necessary in Harrisburg if 66,000 destitute families in Allegheny County, dependent upon relief, were to be saved from starvation after April 11.

Hope of aid from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation before the Legislature appropriates substantial sums of state money was blasted when the R. F. C. refused Gov. Pinchot $4,000,000 for April relief yesterday.

The refusal came on the ground that Pennsylvania has contributed only about $1 in $4 of its relief funds.

Pennsylvania and Illinois, however, are said by social workers to have donated a greater percentage of their own funds for relief than any other states. Some 28 states have received R. F. C. relief funds and only about half, it was learned, have contributed any of their own.

John F. Casey, chairman of the operating committee of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Association expressed the opinion that:

"It seems to me that you can't criticize them for trying to hold the thing in hand. We may be suffering for the other fellow's sins, however."

A move was expected today to ask the State Legislature to appropriate the $20,000,000 it originally planned for two years for use in the next three or four months.

Needs of the county alone are estimated at $1,500,000 a month and $17,000,000 a year on the present basis. The load, however, is increasing at a steady rate of 2,000 families a month.

For the state, the local groups estimate not less than $120,000,000 will be necessary this year.

Without this money, the Emergency Relief Board has wired Harrisburg that it expects "gravest social consequences" and extreme suffering. The proposed $20,000,000 appropriation for two years was called "folly" because of its inadequacy.

Man's Body Found Near Brown's Bridge

The body of a man, believed to be that of Sam Rosin, 1434 Coal street, was found in the Monongahela river near Brown's bridge today. Papers and a junk peddler's license, according to morgue attaches, identified the man.

WRIGHT NAMED TO NEW POST

Appointment of Dr. Albert B. Wright as director of the evening division of the Duquesne University school in the Fitzsimmons Building, Fourth avenue, was announced today. He has been dean of the school of business administration at the university.

Dr. Wright

M. M. Anderson, of the Aluminum Company of America, an alumnus, spoke at the weekly meeting of the University Business Forum on the aluminum industry.

Galsworthy Estate Totals $306,000

LONDON, April 7.—(AP.)—The estate of the late John Galsworthy was valued at £88,587 (approximately $306,000), it was disclosed today with the filing of the will.

His bequests were not disclosed, but it was stipulated that no biography may be published without the consent of Mrs. Galsworthy.

TRUNK SLAYER SOBS IN CELL

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 7.—(INS.)—"Two weeks from today and I'll be dead."

With that statement, Winnie Ruth Judd, condemned slayer of two intimate women friends, continued to weep hysterically today in her cell in the state prison following action of the State Pardon Board in denying her an additional reprieve. She sobbed:

"And next Friday will be my wedding anniversary."

Mrs. Judd is under sentence to be hanged in the state prison at Florence Friday, April 21, for the murder of her chum, Mrs. Agnes Anne Leroi, in October, 1931.

Bandits Kill Man Without Warning

READING, Pa., April 7.—(AP.)—A blaze of guns last night wiped out the life of Clarence D. Stump, 46, proprietor of a service station. An automobile containing four youths, all about 20, drove up to the front door and the men broke in, firing pointblank into Stump's face.

While his father and mother stared helplessly, the youths continued to fire, then took $20 from a cash register and fled.

Work Relief Favored By Edgar Kaufmann

Work relief on private and corporate properties rather than the expenditure of large sums on direct relief is advocated by Edgar J. Kaufmann, president of Kaufmann Department Stores, Inc.

Kaufmann in a speech to the Kiwanis Club at the Fort Pitt Hotel yesterday declared that real recovery will only be brought about by putting people back to work. He expressed himself as opposed to vast public works because they mean a "pork barrel." He favors a type of work in which the bulk of the expenditure is for wages and materials.

B. E. F. SEEKING GARDEN TOOLS

Pittsburgh's remnants of the B. E. F., organized locally under the United States World War Veterans' Association of Allegheny County, has a farm, several hundred men to work in the raising of food, but no tools.

The organization, with headquarters at 1122 Pennsylvania avenue, needs garden tools. It is making a public appeal for donations.

Since the organization was formed last October it has provided more than 8,000 overnight lodgings to indigent war veterans and has served more than 25,000 meals. It has been maintained by veterans themselves, through the co-operation of local merchants.

Donations will be received at the organization's headquarters, or will be called for upon telephone notification at Cedar 9279.

CHAMBER URGES FLOOD CONTROL

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday voted to urge the government to give attention not only to reforestation but to the construction of storage reservoirs in the Allegheny and Monongahela River valleys as suggested by the flood commission of Pittsburgh. The Chamber will send a delegation to Washington.

The flood commission was organized by the Chamber in 1908, and the Chamber has consistently urged action on controlling the streams.

Further action of the Chamber board was to urge upon the state authorities the necessity for action in providing funds for the relief of the unemployed. On behalf of the Allegheny County Emergency Association and the Allegheny County Relief Board it was stated to the Chamber directors that action is needed to save thousands of Allegheny County families from actual starvation.

Illness Following Fall Brings Death

Mrs. Augusta Newbauer, 68, of 403 Sapphire way, died last night in her home from a heart ailment that followed injuries suffered in a fall down the steps of her home about seven weeks ago, the Coroner's office reported.

LANG REFUSES COUNTY'S DEER

The problem of disposing of excess buffaloes and deer in the county parks still faces the County Commissioners, City Public Works Director Edward G. Lang having withdrawn his proposal to take some of the animals to Frick Woods.

Lang decided erection of an inclosure would be too costly for the city.

John M. Phillips, former State Game Commissioner, told the Commissioners there is no market for the animals and advised them to wait until fall, then butcher them to sell the hides and meat.

LEAGUE FORCES TAX SLASHES

Substantial reductions in road and school taxes have been affected by action of the Tax Justice League, it was reported today. Although in operation only a few months, it has a total membership of 26,500 in Armstrong, Indiana, Washington and Westmoreland counties.

The league is fighting for lower utility rates and the non-partisan election of judges and magistrates. It opposes the importation of cheap labor and all road taxes on real estate. The cost of operating schools and county courts is being investigated.

The organization is growing steadily and its influence is being felt by those spending public funds. Branches of the league have been organized in all the municipal divisions of each of the counties. They co-operate directly with the state organization, which is conducting an active campaign for economy in government before the Legislature at Harrisburg.

CHARGE WAGE REBATE FORCED

Miss Emmilinne Pitt, conciliator for the United States Department of Labor in the Pittsburgh district, yesterday heard an appeal from 16 Negroes, seeking wages they claimed as due for work on the new Bell Telephone Company Building, Forward and Murray avenues.

In an affidavit the men said they were employed by Johnston-Ryan Company, also known as C. B. Levett Company, sub-contractors, at the union rate of 70 cents an hour, but were compelled to rebate 35 cents an hour to the company.

The men's claims ranged from $11 to $115. They said they were members of the Building Trade Laborers' Union of Pittsburgh.

Miss Pitt said she would investigate.

SCHOOLS MARK ARBOR DAY

Arbor Day was observed today with special exercises in many county schools and by tree planting ceremonies by organizations. Pittsburgh public schools were dismissed for the teachers' institute in connection with the Western Pennsylvania Education Conference.

At the Bushy Run Battlefield, near Jeannette, a forest demonstration planting was to be held in co-operation with the Battlefield Park Commission, this afternoon.

Addresses were scheduled by C. M. Bomberger, secretary of the Park Commission, and by Charles F. Maxwell, superintendent, Westmoreland County Public Schools.

Allegheny County has received 287,000 seedlings from the State Department of Forests and Waters for spring planting, the bureau announced. Many of these will be planted on idle and abandoned land, others for beautification of large estates.

Alienists to Test Accused Cult Slayer

INEZ, Ky., April 7.—(AP.)—Two Lexington physicians will come here tomorrow to examine John H. Mills, 33, charged with the murder of his mother, Mrs. Lucinda Mills, 67, slain during wierd religious rites in a mountain cabin near Tomahawk two months ago.

His trial was postponed yesterday upon agreement of counsel to have his sanity tested. Word was received from Lexington that Dr. W. R. Thompson, former assistant superintendent of the Eastern State Hospital for the Insane, and Dr. D. V. Sublett had agreed to serve as alienists.

In a fight, which occurred at the Wylie avenue address, Williams is accused of shooting Palmer during a quarrel. According to testimony, one of the bullets went wild and hit Bryant.

Leaps to Escape Police, Man Drowns

DOVER, O., April 7. — A leap into the Tuscarawas River to escape police proved fatal early today to Lester Sells, 30. Trapped by three officers as he was looting a Pennsylvania Railroad freight car, Sells was being led away when he broke loose and dived into the river.

BRITISH TROOPS LAND IN CHINA

SHANGHAI, April 7.—(INS.)—British Marines landed at Chingwangtao from warships stationed there today to protect extensive British properties in the region, according to Japanese reports received here.

The reports said the Marines went ashore owing to fears that fleeing Chinese soldiers might loot properties controlled by the Kailan mining interests.

The Japanese, meanwhile, flatly denied the objective of their continued military operations was Chingwangtao, but confirmed reports that invasion of the city might eventually prove necessary.

Emperor Averts Jap Cabinet Crisis

TOKIO, April 7.—(AP.)—Possibility of a cabinet crisis was believed averted today when Emperor Hirohito refused to accept the resignation of Minister of Justice Matsukichi Koyama.

Koyama assumed responsibility for the recently discovered instances of Communist belief among judicial officials and offered his resignation for that reason.

Mother of 7—Still Young

Her system doesn't stagnate; her face doesn't age. She has the health and "pep" that come from a lively liver and strong, active bowels.

When you're sluggish and the system needs help, stimulation does more than "dosing." There's a famous doctor's prescription for just such cases, and every druggist keeps this standard preparation. It is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. Just ask for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Take a little every day or so, until every organ in your body feels the big improvement.

The next time you have a bilious headache, or feel all bound-up, take this delicious syrup instead of the usual cathartic. You'll be rid of all that poisonous waste, and you haven't weakened the bowels. You'll have a better appetite, and feel better in every way. The constant use of cathartics is often the cause of a sallow complexion and lines in the face. And so unnecessary!

Would you like to break yourself of the cathartic habit? At the same time building health and vigor that protects you from frequent sick spells, headaches, and colds? Get a big bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin today. Use often enough to avoid those attacks of constipation. When you feel weak and run-down or a coated tongue or bad breath warns you the bowels need to be stimulated. Give it to children instead of strong laxatives that sap their strength. It isn't expensive.

F. R. WON OVER TO BANK FUND GUARANTEE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Two former Democratic secretaries of the Treasury—Carter Glass and William Gibbs McAdoo—were reported today to have won President Roosevelt over to a plan for guaranteeing deposits in banks of the Federal Reserve System.

The necessary legislation was being drafted by a special Senate banking and currency sub-committee, of which Glass is chairman.

The bill would seek to establish a unified national banking system, the chief attraction of which would be a government guarantee of bank deposits.

The President will decide whether the guarantee should be unlimited or for only 70 or 80 per cent of the deposits.

The bill, as tentatively drafted, would:

1—Provide funds to guarantee bank deposits by equal contributions from the federal treasury, Federal Reserve banks and member banks of the Federal Reserve system.

2—Divorce investment banking from commercial banking.

3—Divorce banks in the Federal Reserve system from all affiliates.

4—Authorize branch banking by member banks of the Federal Reserve system in states permitting state banks to operate branches.

The measure will be designed to bring a majority of existing state banks into the Federal Reserve system. This would be accomplished primarily by the guarantee of bank deposits but at the same time some of the present drastic entry requirements would be ameliorated.

Further Improvement in Banking Situation

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(INS.)—Further substantial improvement in the banking situation for the week ending April 5 was indicated by the Federal Reserve Board condition statement today.

Federal Reserve notes were 66 per cent gold backed. The gold reserves, aggregating $3,278,837,000, were the highest since August, 1931, while the ratio of total reserves to deposit and Federal Reserve note liability jumped from 57.8 March 29, to 59.7 April 5.

Money in circulation was $6,261,000,000, a reduction of $92,000,000 for the week, although the normal tendency would be upward, it having been a month-end. Circulation has fallen $1,277,000,000 since March 8, following the termination of the bank holiday and the reopening of the majority of the banks.

Pittsburgher Takes Conservator Post

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., April 7.—Southard Hay, of Pittsburgh, today became conservator for the First National Bank. He is also in charge of the Bridgeport National at Bridgeport. Judson Ballard, of Barnesville, has been named conservator for the First National at Bethesda.

7 Lives Sacrificed Before Clay Idol Elephant

VILLUPURAM, Madras, India, April 7.—(AP.)—Police said today that they had discovered evidence of the sacrifice of seven human lives before the clay idol of an elephant here.

The victims were a man and his wife and their five children. About the bodies were broken cocoanuts and other offerings. There was evidence that all the victims had consented to the sacrifice.

Police believe the father killed the others, then committed suicide. Poverty was believed to be behind the tragedy.

RAID ON 'JOINTS' JAILS 65

More than 65 persons were arrested early today by Pittsburgh police in raids upon alleged speakeasies. Thirty-six persons were arrested as visitors at 45 Arthur street, where John Robertson, Negro, was charged with keeping a disorderly house.

Joseph Anton, of 1833 Bedford avenue, and Joseph Forte, of 1305 Wylie avenue, were arrested at the Wylie avenue address on a similar charge. Two women and 23 men were arrested.

Three visitors were arrested at 1918 Webster avenue, where Albert Kelly, 42, was arrested charged with keeping a disorderly house. Others arrested included Sam Jackson, 38, Negro, of 2141 Wylie avenue, at 2154 Wylie avenue; John Theiss, 1960 Straubs lane, and Charles Stewart, 1900 St. Ives street.

HURT BY AUTOS, WOMAN, BOY DIE

An aged woman and a boy died in hospitals last night from injuries suffered when hit by automobiles.

Suffering a skull fracture when struck in South Highland avenue at Antler way last night, Mary Swartzwelder, 75, of 158 Larimer avenue, died an hour later in Pittsburgh Hospital, according to a Coroner's report.

William Hartman, of 324 South Negley avenue, driver of the car, was arrested and ordered to post bond at the Coroner's office.

William L. Arnette, 3, of 225 Park avenue, Ben Avon, died last night in Suburban General Hospital from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile near his home April 1.

The car was said to have been driven by Victor Hartz, Second street, Neville Island, who was ordered to post bond at the Coroner's office.

4 Killed as Bombs, Shots Fly in Cuba

HAVANA, April 7.—(Universal.)—Four persons, including Lieut. Oscar Pau, military supervisor of the suburb of Guanabacoa, were killed in a series of shootings and a bombing in Cuba last night.

Pau, who prosecuted anti-Machadistas involved in last November's election scandals, was fired upon by four unknown assailants.

STORE SLEUTH TO BE FETED

CHARLES A. FILSON

Charles A. Filson, who tomorrow will celebrate 50 years of service as a store detective, has talked to thousands of shoplifters, but has never seen a kleptomaniac. He said:

"With merchandise displayed loosely and attractively as it is today, people steal things on impulse and because something snaps in them. If a shoplifter opens up and tells you the facts, you will always find a reason. It isn't because they can't resist the temptation to steal."

Filson was born in Monongahela City in 1864 and came to Pittsburgh as a country lad when he was 19 years old. He got a job clerking at Kaufmann's store, when it was located in a three-story building at Diamond and Smithfield streets.

He later became a floor walker, then head store detective and today is in charge of the store's relief and compensation department and court cases. During those 50 years he has handled most of the store's shoplifting cases.

Filson is married and lives at 120 Vernon drive, Mt. Lebanon.

Tomorrow night he will be honored with a banquet at Bear Run, near Connellsville. It will be given by his host of friends.

Walter Winchell
ON BROADWAY

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Very clever how Police Commissioner Mulrooney evaded the reporters' direct queries . . . On the new job offered him—to be Beer Commissioner . . . That is, of course, if there is a Beer Commission . . . The fight over "patronage" (a fancy name for "soft jobs") which the Republicans and Democrats are waging here may prevent any such board—but if it goes through—Edward P. Mulrooney will be in charge—and I'll bet Mr. Mulrooney on that . . . Must be more to it than the papers can find out . . . The Commissioner just put his daughter to work in the Police Dep't, for one thing . . . The highest police inspectors and others have been seeing their leaders and "bosses" since the report first appeared here Sunday night—to be reassured that "nothing will happen to them" if there is a new Police Commissioner . . . I like the way one of the gazettes ran the story—to-wit: "That Police Commissioner Mulrooney will be the State beer czar appeared quite likely yesterday. From an authoritative source close to the Commissioner and the political pulse at Albany, it was learned that Mulrooney will be offered the job, if he has not already . . ." . . . I like that "political pulse at Albany" and that "authoritative source" . . . Thanks for the "ad" . . . I think I'll have a cry because Alice Joyce was secretly married to Clarence Brown and didn't remember me with the first tip . . . Her letters all these years telling of her appreciation "for the many nice compliments" aren't enough . . . My racket is getting a news-beat—and that's one way those who like me can make me merrier . . . I had the first data on her divorce anyway, and that Brown would be her groom, so what the devil . . . Jimmy Walker and Betty Compton are nice pals, too. Uh-huh . . . They all tell you what a grand guy you are for "not printing" all you know, but they forget to remember you after vowing that they'll tell you first—when they really have news for publication . . . Ruth! Sharpen this knife! . . . We're going to have some roast backs for dinner.

Things worth paragraphing about: That deadly parallel dealing with the trailer and the movie of "Child of Manhattan" . . . The advance trailer reveals Nancy Carroll saying to Buck Jones: "You don't want to marry me, I'm a courtesan." . . . And Jones jests: "Aw, your religion don't mean nothing to me! . . . An old quip, anyway . . . But the censors scissored it so that the repartee was revised without the words—"I'm a courtesan" . . . The senseless censors scissored it, that is, in the movie—but not in the trailer, which ballyhoos the flicker a week in advance! . . . The dopes.

Never cared about meeting an actress or an actor I've panned . . . Nor have I cared about encountering those I've enjoyed on the pretending platforms. One of those very competent players, however, pleased with a recent "rave"—called on me recently.

It was refreshing meeting the professional make-believe—because there was nothing counterfeit about the person. . . . "I presume," the conversation began, "that you've heard plenty about me. . . "I have," I said, "and the devil with it" . . . "But," was the retort, "I assure you it's all true!" . . . Now, what can you do with a fast-thinker like that? . . . The subject died right there . . . Long ago—I learned — that "yes" ends it . . . It's when you say "no" that the argument or long-winded conversation starts . . . What amused me so much was the indifference to the various reports and legends . . . "For heaven's sakes," I was urged, "please don't deny anything about me. If it weren't for the talk about me—the balcony at my plays would never be filled!" . . . What a refreshing change listening to that sort of chatter. All the others who are household names waste so much time disgracing themselves with a defense—or denying this or that. . . This gay-play person is famous on both continents—and just as infamous, to hear some others mumble it. . . So, naturally, I was a good audience—considering that I am just as well known—on Broadway—between 42nd and 43rd streets . . . In fewer words—I've finally met a person who isn't spurious. . . "He who excuses himself—accuses himself!"

Which reminds me that I promised a man his side of the story . . . Neither his name nor his play company was mentioned in the original version—therefore it is omitted now. . . What amuses me a little—is that I find myself scowled at—because I tried to give a stranger, who wrote two good plays, a good last write-up. . . After he killed himself, that is . . . His pals came to me with a touching tale about the poor fellow, who wrote such pieces as "A Man's Man" and dramatized "An American Tragedy" and other shows . . . He died penniless—and lingered a while longer—because some actors he once hired for his plays, obliged him when he panhandled quarters and half-dollars!. . . What humiliations! . . . In my original story I complained bitterly because Patrick Kearney was failed somewhere by someone! . . . And because he was so desperate, and so miserable he took his own life. . . The play company (on paper) convinced my attorneys that Kearney was indebted to it. . . That he owed them advanced coin. . . Therefore, my attorneys counsel me—if I would be as fair as I contend I am—that I will write a piece in the gazettes and say that the play company is not directly responsible for Kearney's suicide . . . And that they took his $1200 on a play they peddled for him (legally) because he agreed to it—as part of his indebtedness. . . so be it. . . Kearney, too, never asked them for $50 a week for 6 weeks—they tell my counsellor, whom I asked to hear their side of it all. . . This bewilders me, considering he was so hungry. . . All I know is that Pat Kearney, whom I never knew, is dead. . . And that he might have lived.

Mary's Plans Call for an Experiment

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, April 7.—Whether it's "Alice in Wonderland," "Peter Pan" or some other story, Mary Pickford's next picture will be an imaginative experiment and will be made for the fun of it.

This much the star assured me yesterday over a luncheon table at the Beverly Hills Brown Derby.

"Before 'Secrets,' I couldn't have done such a film," said Mary, "but with a serious picture safely launched on the screen, I believe I can."

Talking to Mary, it is plain that she leans towards the Lewis Carroll tale, which would be made in color, with Mary playing the only human character, and Walt Disney supplying the rest in animated cartoons.

Miss Pickford

Several of the star's advisers are opposed to the plan, but Mary has a mind of her own and she will make the decision. There's no doubt she could play Alice. She had the Technicolor Labrotory run off a test for me, and she looks like the Mary of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm." The new color process is marvelous, too, showing blues, magentas and purples, never before attained on the screen.

Mary thinks the picture could be made for less than the cost of an ordinary feature. The one-reel Mickey Mouse shorts run about $17,000. "Alice In Wonderland" would be seven reels, and the colored prints would cost about $50,000 extra.

One of Hollywood's best story-tellers is the Countess Frasso. She hears of the Southern Negro who became such a prodigious coffee drinker that one of the big companies sent a man down to get a testimonial from him.

Countess Frasso

To the amazement of the agent, the Negro confessed to drinking 50 cups of coffee a day.

"Well, doesn't that keep you awake?" he demanded.

The colored wonder shook his head.

"No, sir," he said, "but it helps."

Behind a film divorce suit filed yesterday lies the old story of conflicting careers. Both Ann and Gordon Westcott desired to work. Little difficulties arose, so two weeks ago they parted amicably. When they were unable to affect a reconciliation, she filed the suit. The two careers now go their separate ways.

Many an eye was centered yesterday upon a booth in the Beverly Hills Brown Derby. In it were the Counteee Frasso and Gary Cooper, meeting for the first time since her return from Europe. And they seemed quite engrossed in each other.

Hearst News On Screen

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Scenes of the meeting in New York of thousands of Catholics, Protestants and Jews to celebrate the opening of the Holy Year decreed by the Pope, are contained in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. Cardinal Hayes presides over the gathering, then John McCormack sings the "Panis Angelicus." Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith hails President Roosevelt as the leader in a world-wide movement against forces of bigotry and hatred.

Thrilling pictures show the running of the greatest steeplechase in the world—England's Grand National—over the famous Aintree course. Thirty-four thoroughbreds get away on the 4½-mile dash. There are crashes at each barrier. Kellsboro Jack, owned by Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark, of New York, a 25-to-1 shot, is the winner. The Globe Trotter describes the race.

There are pictures of President Roosevelt being initiated into the National Press Club in Washington.

The summer girl of 1933 is to be a "lace girl." Beautiful gowns for all occasions, undies, and complete bridal outfits, all in lace manufactured entirely in America, are shown on pretty models.

Mrs. Kyle, of Carterton, New Zealand, is seen kneeling at the side of a stream in her garden calling her pet eels to feed from her hand.

Irene Dunne Fulton Star

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"The Secret of Madame Blanche," showing on the Fulton screen, again presents Irene Dunne as a woman who passes from youth to age, as she did in "Cimarron" and "Back Street." Also it presents Phillips Holmes, who has the other featured role, in an unsympathetic part, but one that makes the mother-love sacrifice of Miss Dunne appear supreme in the contrast.

It is rather tragic throughout, its only light part being at the beginning, when Miss Dunne, as an American show girl in London, is wooed and won by a gay aristocrat, played by Mr. Holmes. His father does not approve, and, in fact, casts him off. Money gone and a baby coming, he returns, to seek a reconciliation. The conference is not a success, and its one significant result is that when the baby arrives he is fatherless. Furthermore he is taken from the mother by the unrelenting grandfather, Lionel Atwill.

And so the years pass, and scenes, too, and the climax is reached with Miss Dunne standing in a French court, attempting to take the blame for a killing by a young English soldier, whom she knows is her son, while he is unaware of their relationship. Kind of "Madame Xy," but no wholly so, and there is something of a gesture toward a "happy ending."

Miss Dunne gives a thoroughly satisfying performance, and Mr. Holmes is a gallant lover, although a weak character. Mr. Atwill is the perfect ogre of a selfish father and grandfather.

'Minick' Played Finely By Pitt Players

A high mark in amateur production was set by the Pitt University Players at the Y. M. & W. H. A. last night when they gave "Minick" under direction of Carl B. Cass. At least four in the cast of 15 did admirable character work. These were C. Howard Smith, who was Old Man Minick in everything but voice, Alice Elson, Betty Quarrie and Jean Stotler. But there wasn't a poor bit in the whole ensemble and team work was perfect. John Neary and Forrest Alter as Minick's two old cronies were an especial joy. Others in the cast were Barbara Mateer, Dorothy Getsinger, Jane Edgar and Herbert Gwyer.

Broadways of the World

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

TAJ HAHAL HOTEL, Bombay, India.—Incidents in the life of a Broadway reporter in Bombay:

At the Bombay race track. The wealthy Indians are heavy bettors and they plunge to an amazing degree on a horse they fancy. The track is one of the most beautiful I have ever seen and it is kept in fine fashion in spite of the fact that the horses run but once a week.

You can bet on the mutual plan, or you can entrust your wager to one of the fifteen legalized bookmakers. And if you're not in a betting mood you can stroll around between races and grab a load of the various people. You'll find here a representative of practically every nation under the sun, including the Scandanavian.

I arrived in time for the first race, and I found that a horse called Mansfield was running in that particular event. Mansfield having been a great actor and Hellinger once having played Loew's State, I figured that a definite hunch. So I placed a fairly good bet on Mansfield. There was another reason, too, why I bet on that horse. In the entire field it was the only name I could pronounce.

According to the bookmakers' figures, Mansfield was a long shot. So, being wise in the ways of the world, I played him to place—place, in this land, meaning that you win whether the horse comes second or third. But in my excitement I went to the wrong window. And when I returned to the stand, I found that I had bet everything on Mansfield to win.

As a thrill that comes once in a lifetime, Mansfield won the race by two lengths and paid a little better than twenty-four-to-one. I collected enough money to pay for my entire trip through India.

By the end of the third race, however, I had only enough winnings left to take me half-way through India. By the end of the fifth race, I had only won enough to pay my hotel bill in Bombay. And when the card was completed, I had to borrow my cab fare home.

Ain't that always the way, Mr. Jolson? . . .

Talking to an English doctor about the smallpox situation in India. There is an epidemic of that dread disease here now, especially around Bombay.

"It's so hard to cure," sighed the doctor, "and so easy to avoid. We have innoculation centers all over the city. All the average Indian has to do is to step across the street and receive his innoculation against smallpox. It costs them nothing, and it might mean the difference between life and death.

"But—unless they are forced to—they will not come. And besides, a step across the street is a long walk for a lazy man. It seems strange to say, but a chance to sleep at the moment is far more important to them than a possible death in the future.

"And so, when it comes to an epidemic such as this, the checking of it is very slow work, indeed. No doctor can do much with a patient who will not cooperate with him. And that's the situation we are up against at the present time."

It seems almost impossible to believe. Yet there it is . . .

Reading an Indian journal, printed in English, I thought we published plenty of sucker advertisements in America, but we're merely novices when compared to the experts in India.

Here, too, you can learn to speak Hindustan, French or English in 20 minutes. Or you can be the life of the party by becoming an expert bagpipe-player, grand opera star or snake charmer in 10 easy lessons.

Riding up to the Towers of Silence, where the vultures pick the dead to bits. As we neared the Towers I ordered the car stopped for a few moments to admire the view. An old man came over. An old man with very clear eyes. An old man who spoke perfect English.

"I can tell by your eyes, sir," he began in a semi-chant, "that you are a very good man. And very lucky, too. Much money will come to you, soon."

"You're sure about that, are you?" I asked him.

"Positively, sir," he returned. "The eyes never lie, nor the prophet, either. And now, sir, if you will give me your hand, I will tell you the name of the lady you long for, and whether she be dark or fair."

Having nothing better to do at the moment, I extended my palm. Anything for diversion, is my motto. The old man looked at the palm long and carefully.

"She is not a young girl, this female you care for," he murmured. "She's elderly, and she has a great deal of money. Her name begins with a B——— and it will be at least a year before you see her again. But then you will be very happy."

I hadn't the slightest idea what he was talking about, but it was all right with me.

"You're a good fortune teller, aren't you?" I asked. "You know everything, don't you?"

His response was slow and deliberate.

"I am not a common fortune teller, sir," he asserted. "I tell the future by the eyes and the palm. You owe me five rupees for my services, sir."

I handed him one silver rupee.

"Here's your payment, buddy," I grinned. "One rupee instead of five. You weren't a good enough fortune teller to know that, were you?"

He pocketed the coin rapidly and touched his hat.

"You do me an injustice, sir," he murmured as he moved away. "I knew exactly what you were going to give me. And that's why I told you the wrong fortune!"

Here's an easy one for you. Let's see what you know about it.

By KENNETH A. NAGEL

This is original Cipher No. 81, handed to us by Michael E. Markovich, of Uniontown, Pa. It's quite easy. You should solve this without the aid of a tip. Well, go to work.

Here's what the contributor of this cipher writes:

> "Am enjoying the ciphers very much. Hoping you continue with them. Having sent one in to you, I am sending in another. This one might be a little confusing to the fans. I hope so."

Don't forget the tip in tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph. It should be just the ticket to get you on the right track.

Cipher No. 80 was a hard one. Did you decode it? The tip giving the keywords should have enabled you to complete it. Check over the code key words to see if you had any mistakes. The key printed today should be enough of an explanation for you.

Custodian Named For South Park

The appointment of Press Anderson as custodian of South Park several weeks ago has been made official by County Commissioners C. M. Barr and W. D. Mansfield. The two Commissioners yesterday adopted a motion for the appointment.

Anderson has been working at the job since the middle of March. It was explained Barr ordered him to work, but had failed to bring the matter before the board.

The way they are made gives them speed. Quick to dissolve means quick to relieve. You cannot get the same results from a slower tablet.

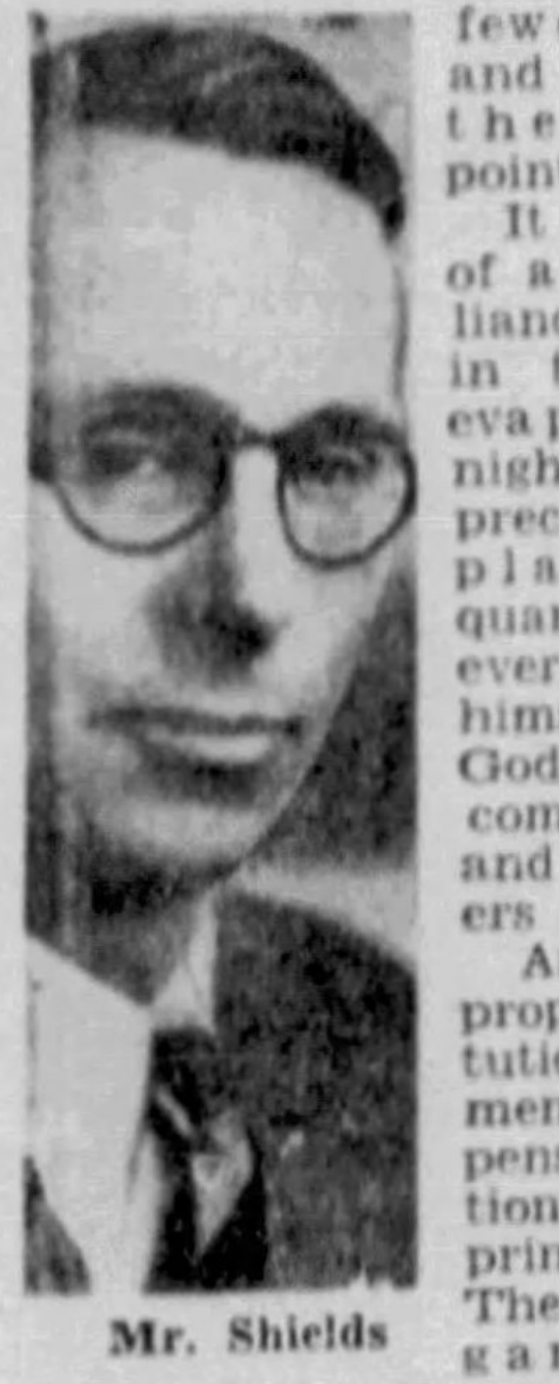
POLITICS
Capital Alliances Near Breaking Point
—By MARK SHIELDS—

HARRISBURG, April 7.—The politics which played across the legislative stage of Harrisburg this week will be even more in evidence next week, with some alliances of the past few days strained and perhaps at the breaking point.



Mr. Shields

It is that kind of a session. Alliances formed in the morning evaporate by night, there is no preconcerted plan in any quarter, and it's every man for himself — and God save the commonwealth and the taxpayers thereof.

Around the proposed constitutional amendment for old age pension legislation revolves the principal battle. The Vare organization of Philadelphia, the most cohesive and united front to be presented by any faction, is insistent that old age pensions shall come before the voters next November.

That will be possible only if the Senate approves either the Sowers or Harris bills on the subject. The Philadelphians are driving principally for the Sowers bill, which has already passed the House, and now lies buried in the same committee of the Senate which for weeks has throttled the Harris measure.

Without the support of the eight Philadelphia Senators the Republican organization cannot pass the Turner economy bill—which it doesn't care for but which it has been jockeyed into championing simply because it raises an issue of supremacy with Gov. Pinchot, who threatens to veto the bill even if it passes.

May Compel Action By Committee

And the Philadelphians have flatly served notice that they will not vote for the Turner bill unless the old age pension amendment is released from committee and given a chance on the floor. There are some Allegheny Senators of the same mind, and this strength may be sufficient to compel committee action.

It is the most feverish example of hysterical leadership which has been exhibited for many, many years, and Gen. Martin, no matter how vulnerable his leadership is considered, cannot be charged with sole responsibility for the present situation.

The House has floundered so much, there has been so much insurrection, that a leader of any description could not be expected to overnight work harmony out of the confusion.

There is one story that promises were cris-crossed on the old age pension bill to get the House votes necessary for the passage of the Turner bill. It is reported that the Grundy faction was promised the bill would be buried in the Senate Committee on Pensions and Gratuities. Whatever the promise, it is a fact that the Grundy Democrats, led by John Flynn, of Elk County, quit Gov. Pinchot and voted for the Turner bill.

There is another story that the Philadelphia delegation was promised immediate action on old age pensions in the Senate in return for support. And it is recent history that the Philadelphians turned in to support Turner.

Phila. Demands Auto License Funds

Senator Salus, of Philadelphia, struck a new note yesterday with the threat of Philadelphia Senate opposition to the Turner bill if Philadelphia was not given a good share of state motor license funds. The Williamson bill gives Philadelphia about $3,000,000, and the eastern city is demanding its cut.

Under these circumstances the next two weeks promise to be even more confused than the past two weeks, if such a thing is possible. Two weeks is mentioned because it is now an accepted fact that the Legislature will not adjourn April 13, though it may a week later.

And that will mean more confusion, for the Governor has promised to veto every big bill either passed or apparently on its way to passage.

There is positively going to be a special session of this Legislature. That is a foregone conclusion. The only question is when it will be called.

The Republican organization and the Governor are jockeying for advantage on this subject. The Governor, more articulate in his publicity adventures than the organization, will endeavor to convince the state that sound economics leave him no option but to order another legislative consideration of relief and governmental economy.

Democrats Fail To Seize Chance

The organization will do its best to make the state believe that no session would be necessary if there was not such rigidity in the Governor's attitude, a refusal to compromise at any point on economy.

To an extent, both are right, and the situation would be advantageous to the Democrats if they could get together. But there are as many shades of party fealty in the minority party as in the majority group.

One outcome of the Turner bill vote may be a decision by Gov. Pinchot to sign the Howell bill confining a candidate for public office to a party in seeking a nomination. The bill passed both houses and was recalled from the Governor that judges, theoretically non-partisan, could be excluded from its provisions.

The Governor, resentful at some of these who walked out on him on the Turner bill, among them John Flynn—who biennially gets the Democratic and Republican nominations and saves himself general election trouble—is leaning to the bill as a measure of reprisal.

President Accepts Full Responsibility For the Government

Gabriel Over the White House

Adapted from the novel, "Gabriel Over the White House," and from the motion picture produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer—a Cosmopolitan production.

(Continuation of Chapter VII.)

The most important visitor at the White House that morning was Van Rassaeler, the New York banker. He had had several talks with the President during the last few days, but this one was unusually protracted. At its conclusion I was instructed to arrange for a plane to fly Van Rassaeler back to New York with all possible speed.

That afternoon the President sent personal invitations to leading members of the Senate and House to confer with him at 6 p. m., dine at the White House and continue the discussion afterwards. The function was to be without social ceremony.

During dinner Hammond reviewed the impasse to which Congress had come. He invited suggestions as to how the grave problems confronting the nation could be solved and adjusted within the framework of the existing machinery, and, when none was forthcoming, pointed out the terrible and certain catastrophe which would inevitably follow a policy of drift and patchwork which might delay, but could not avert disaster.

His hearers sat silent before his unanswerable diagnosis. His sureness of touch, his sense of power, of right, held them enthralled. They had gone into the Green Room for coffee when he burst his bombshell: "Gentlemen, tomorrow morning I am going to ask Congress to declare a state of national emergency immediately. Congress is then to adjourn and, until more normal conditions are restored, I propose to accept full responsibility for the government, with the assistance of a new cabinet."

Big-bodied Senator Lane, of Michigan, a political veteran if there ever was one, was the first to speak.

"Mr. President, this is dictatorship."

"Senator, I am not frightened by your words. I am a believer in democracy, but democracy requires leaders. If what I propose to do in the name of the people is dictatorship, then Washington, Lincoln and Wilson were all guilty of the same offense, and I shall be in excellent company."

Hints Use of Army

Congressman Mulligan bitterly prophesied complete and absolute rejection by the states of the President's pretended authority over them. Then he insolently asked: "And what will the dictator do after that?" The answer came crushingly: "I think, Mr. Mulligan, you forget that, as President, I am still commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy, and that there is such a thing as martial law."

It was well after midnight when the meeting dispersed. With the single exception of Congressman Mulligan, all were pledged, if not to support the national emergency resolution on the morrow, at least not to oppose its adoption.

About the same hour, another conference, smaller in numbers but equally historic, was breaking up in New York. Van Rassaeler had summoned leading bankers and financiers to his office at the United National.

The Van Rassaeler corporation had departed from the usages which had destroyed public confidence in American banks; its central office and its

GIRLS HELD UP, ESCORT TIED

A West Homestead man was gagged and tied to a tree at the "Quarry," near New Homestead early today, as a lone gunman held up two couples in an automobile.

David Weber, 22, of 713 West avenue, West Homestead, was commanded to hold his hands behind him while the holdup man, gun in hand, bound his wrists and then tied him to a nearby tree.

He was released later by his companions.

After searching the party the gunman fled with no booty, the four reported to police.

Weber was accompanied by Dorothy Rener, 20, and by Stephen Markoff, 20, of 466 West Eighth avenue, Homestead, and the latter's girl friend, Dorothy Downing, 19, police were told.

No attempt was made to molest the two girls, police were informed.

JOSEPH VOLPE FOUND GUILTY

Joseph Volpe, 19, of Wilmerding, younger brother of the gang-slain Volpe brothers, was found guilty of aggravated assault and battery today in Criminal Court.

Sentence was suspended pending application for a new trial. The case went to the jury an hour before court adjourned yesterday.

The prosecutor was Lewis Cucarelli, of West Wilmerding, who said Volpe dragged him into a coal cellar and beat him after demanding that he pay a debt owed the Volpe grocery store.

$300 Watch Taken From Apartment

Theft of a diamond-encrusted watch valued at $300 and clothing was reported to police today by L. V. Miller, of the Haddon Hall Apartment Hotel. The thieves entered by forcing a kitchen window, Miller told police.

While Dr. J. G. Carman, of 11 Joel street, Crafton, had his automobile parked at Diamond and Grant street early today thieves broke into the machine, he reported to police, and escaped with his instrument case, valued at $125.

RIGHTS OF CHILD DEFENDED BY EDUCATOR

Flays Economic Society That Hits Back at Own Offspring

Parents must view children as a mass in the same light they consider their own, Dr. Charles H. Judd, dean of the school of education, University of Chicago, told those attending the Western Pennsylvania Education conference this afternoon in Syria Mosque. He added:

"The temporary retrenchment must not reverse the trend of society towards recognizing the rights of children."

Dr. Judd named the three main trends in this country as those towards small families, away from the employment of small children in industry, and the recognition by the state of the child's rights.

Defending the new conception of society towards the child, Dr. Judd said:

"For the moment, a panic-stricken people seems to overlook the fact that antiquated and inequitable taxing systems are making it difficult to follow the upward trend on which society has started. The cry of the tax-striker is not against antiquated governmental forms as it should be, but against schools and children. The fact is that society is unable at the moment to live up to its best development and is strikng back at its own offspring."

What is needed today, he added, is sober consideration of the rights which the long social evolution has given children.

Miss Francis B. Haas also spoke.

FIND NEW CLUE IN MAID'S DEATH

Homicide detectives today were hunting a man whose name was mentioned in letters found in two safety deposit boxes of the slain Hilda Lindberg.

The boxes were opened by the detectives and deputy coroners.

Miss Lindberg, her skull crushed, was found in an alley near the Peabody High School late Saturday. The letters and stock certificates valued at about $300 were found in vaults of the Monongahela Trust Company at Homestead and Turtle Creek Savings and Trust Company.

Miss Lindberg, employed as a maid by an East End family, had never divulged the name of the man even to her most intimate friends, the detectives said. They theorized she quarreled with him over a loan in an investment.

The man was believed to have represented himself as being connected with a stock broker.

Fire! The Situation Well in Hand

PITTSBURGH HOSPITAL NURSES IN A FIRE DRILL . . . THE VERY HEART OF THE FLAMES

Old 3-Chinned Beer Taster Is In Demand Now

—By ARTHUR BUGS BAER—

Dunky ain't been mugged since 1919 when he vanished from the haunts of men and disappeared into the limbo of prohibition.

He was the supreme court of brewdom. The reason he was such a splendid beer connoisseur was because he had three chins and one of those chins was bound to be right.

When he nodded his head like a proud hoss, the contents of the vat were okay. Dunky collected rare first editions.

We have heard of tea tasters and soup critics. But Dunky is America's only official beer referee.

We hope he is still alive. But we fear the worst. Way back in 1921 we heard that a man named Dunkeldorff strangled on a decimal point.

Prints of Rosenwald Collection Shown Here

Most Distinguished Exhibition of Year Nears Perfection

By PENELOPE REDD

An exhibition of prints from the collection of Lessing J. Rosenwald, of Philadelphia, now at Carnegie Institute, chides one for prior dissipation of verbal approval on objects of comparatively indifferent quality. The Rosenwald collection, the most distinguished presentation of the local art season, approaches perfection so nearly that one hesitates to recommend it to any person who will give it but a nasty hour.

Miss Redd

The exhibition is "graphic" in the precise meaning of the word because it states the complete history of prints in all mediums commencing with the earliest dated wood cut made in Suabia, Germany, in 1466. The anonymous German plodders and the almost-great interpreters of the fifteenth century act as agents between theology and the visualization of religion until we reach the overwhelming realistic vigor of Pollaiulo. This power is mitigated into moving tenderness in "The Virgin and Child" by Mantegna.

PERIOD OF GENIUS

The sixteenth century opens gloriously with the German, Durer, represented by the high lights of his rich life. Durer is followed by many of his competent countrymen, such as "The German Little Masters," but they are utterly devoid of the passion that illumines the few great. However, Lucas van Leyden, of the Netherlands, approaches Durer's luminosity.

Van Dyck's unparalleled portraits herald the seventeenth century which is vivified by the presence of Rembrandt. The latter's 15 etchings in the Rosenwald exhibition, are a synopsis of human life in its mundane exercises and spiritual consolations. The rarely beautiful quality of the impressions must be noted since the commercial market is flooded with inferior prints from the retreated plates. After Rembrandt followed many lesser claimants to fame, necessary in historical continuity, who also serve to increase the master's luster.

We are prone to associate the eighteenth century with mezzotints because the British distributed them widely in reproducing their high fashion portraits. Here, it is, however, that we experience the impact of the brood-

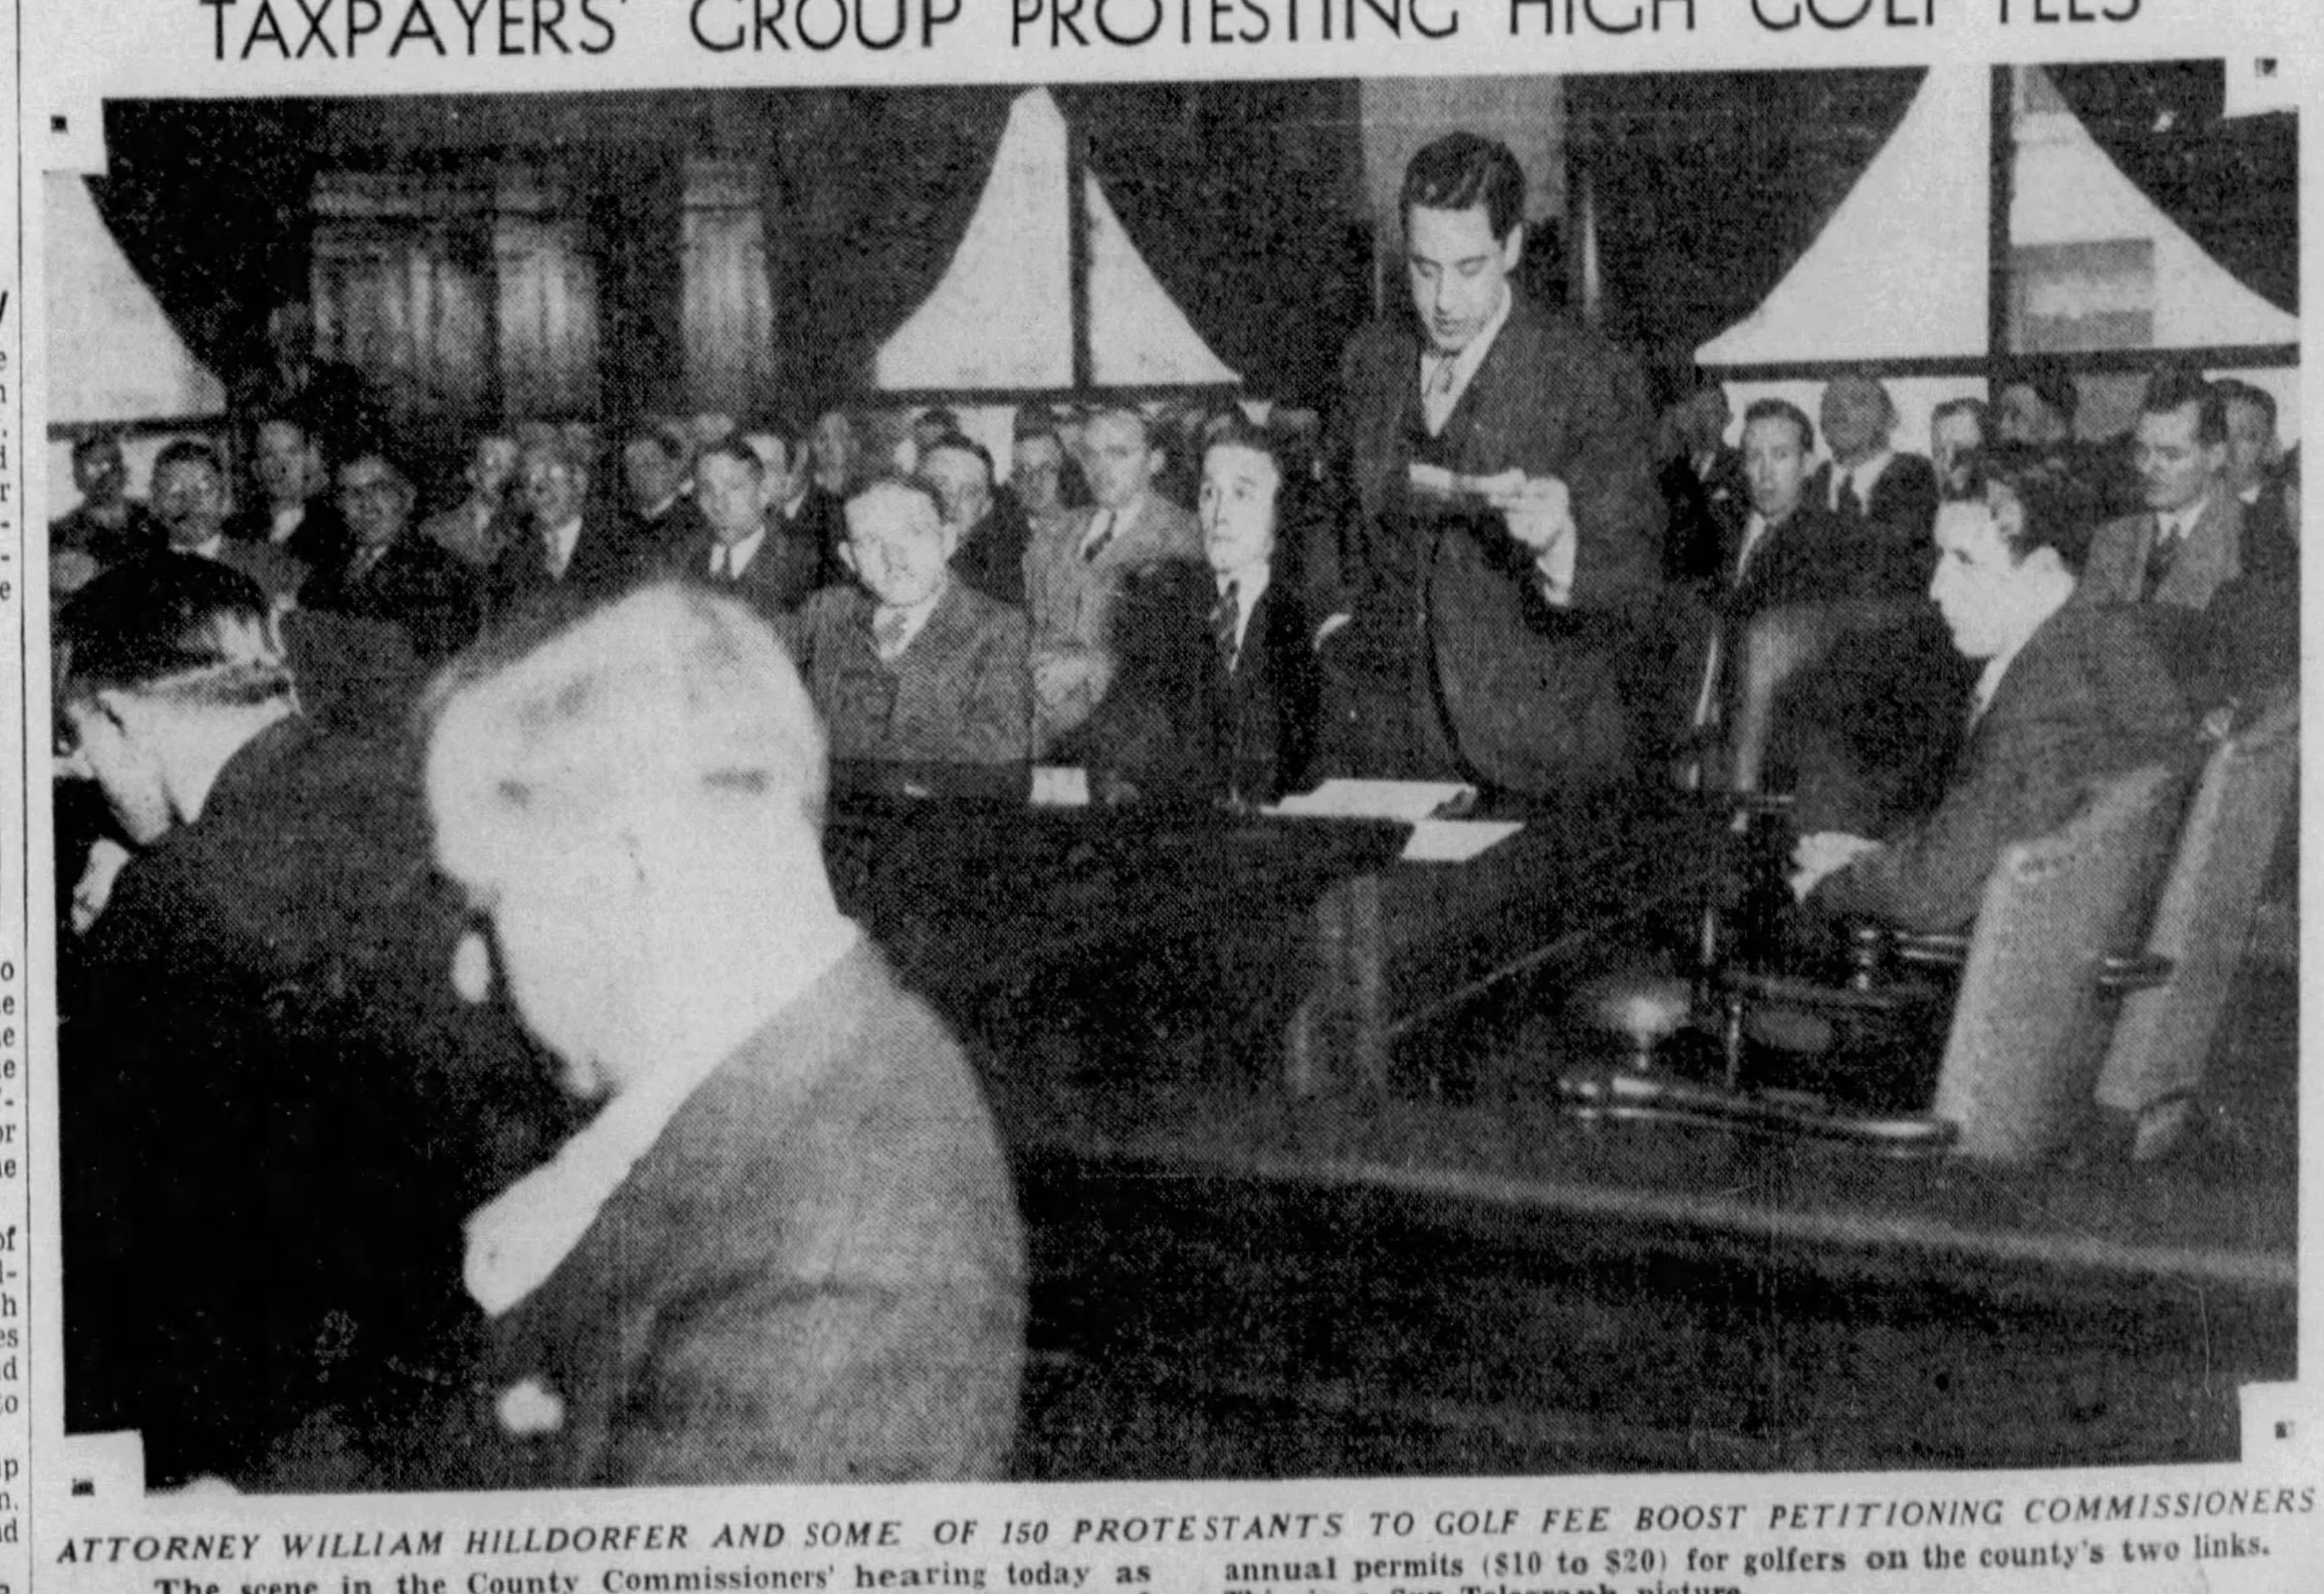
A Yellow taxicab was stolen early today from Liberty avenue and Edmond street, after the driver had entered a restaurant. The cab was found several hours later.

TAXPAYERS' GROUP PROTESTING HIGH GOLF FEES



ATTORNEY WILLIAM HILLDORFER AND SOME OF 150 PROTESTANTS TO GOLF FEE BOOST PETITIONING COMMISSIONERS

The scene in the County Commissioners' hearing today as taxpayers registered protest against the increase in the cost of annual permits ($10 to $20) for golfers on the county's two links. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

COMMISSIONERS TOLD TO STOP FREE PASSES

150 Make Complaint Against Increase In Permit Fee

Golfers and taxpayers told the County Commissioners today that payrollers are "falling all over themselves" on the county courses at the expense of followers of the ancient and honorable game.

One hundred and fifty persons appeared at a hearing to protest the 100 per cent increase in the cost of annual permits to play at North and Southt parks. The Commissioners increased the permit fee from $10 to $20.

The golfers were represented by a committee composed of Attorney William Hilldorfer, Walter E. Ernest, R. J. Kauss and C. W. Knowr.

Hilldorfer said the Commissioners were playing 50 cents an hour for labor, while private industry paid only 25 cents. Commissioner W. D. Mansfield said:

"You wouldn't want us to cut the laborers, would you?"

When Hilldorfer said it would be in line with reductions made by private industry, there were protests from the crowd.

G. L. Rector, who said he was a taxpayer, told Commissioners Mansfield and C. M. Barr there were too many on the payroll.

Rector added:

"Laborrs at South Park are falling all over themselves. Don't give out any more free passes. You can save on the job of athletic director and combine the jobs of professional and greens keeper."

The golfers' committee asked the commissioners to reconsider the increase, pointing out earning power and the cost of living were down. No action was expected until Commissioner C. C. McGovern returns to his office next wek.

House Movie Probe Resolution Favored

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(INS.)—A far-flung investigation into the moving picture industry was indorsed by the Rules Committee of the House today.

The committee favorably reported the resolution sponsored by Representative Sirovich (Dem.), of New York. It provides for the study of receiverships, bankruptcies and equity proceedings and investigation of "the dissipation of the assets of the various companies and the payment of exorbitant and unmerited salaries" to actors, directors and others.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 7. To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph.

Well, it don't make much difference what we write for you folks to read today, for you won't be able to read anyhow. Nobody (as this is written) has any idea what this low voltage beer will taste like, but I bet it will be mighty potent for this guy Roosevelt hasn't pulled a bad one yet.

Will Rogers

Another thing, too, you take those Congressmen and Senators, for the fine way they've been acting in this Congress they deserve a little nip. The boys have been mighty fine. We haven't heard the word Republican or Democrat in a month. There are in there rally trying to help out the country. So if you are in reach of any of 'em today, buy 'em a drink and send me the bill.

P. S.—This holds good up to one beer. Yours, WILL.

Pension Plan Cost Set At $5,500,000

If the Coyne pension bill for Allegheny County employes is passed by the House next week and is finally enacted, it will be necessary for the Commissioners of Allegheny County to pay into the fund $5,500,000 by next February, M. C. Conick, auditor for Main & Co., said today. The Coyne bill passed the Senate this week by a vote of 36 to 10, over the opposition of Senator-County Commissioner W. D. Mansfield.

Mansfield and State Senator James J. Coyne presented bills for the rehabilitation of the pension fund and thus far the victory is Coyne's. Mansfield's bill, sponsored by the County Commissioners, was drafted after George B. Buck, of New York, made an actuarial study of the present fund.

The commissioners, holding the fund insolvent, have declared a moratorium on pension payments pending the passage of a substitute act.

The bill sponsored by the commissioners would increase the payments of the employes and the pension payments would be regulated by the age of the pensioner, the amount he had contributed and the time of retirement.

In a statement last night the members of the pension fund declared their fund to be solvent and that there is $293,000 on hand to meet retirement allowances. Conick says, however, this would not carry the fund for another year.

WIND DELAYING SECOND FLIGHT OVER EVEREST

By E. C. SHEPHERD

PURNEA, India, April 7.—(By Wireless.)—The meteorological forecast of the end of the lull in the weather has been justified, and the second Everest flight is impossible for the present.

The west wind went howling across the plains today at 45 miles an hour. The velocity at high altitudes was unobtainable because the dust reduced visibility to 1,000 yards.

Weather averages in this district have led to the belief locally that the next suitable weather will not occur for a fortnight. The Houston Everest expedition hopes for an earlier opportunity, having today received permission to make the second flight across Nepal.

CONGRATULATES PARTY

"His Highness, the Maharajah, desires to convey to the members of the Houston Mount Everest flight expedition hearty congratulations on their success and his sanction for the second flight."

The next attempt is now looked forward to with some confidence since Tuesday's test flight proved the cameras to be working properly and added to the already considerable store of knowledge concerning high altitude flying which was gained on the flight over Everest.

In that flight the rate of the climb was slower than originally planned, with a view to conserving the engines. The same policy was followed again on Tuesday in the flight over Mt. Kanchenjunga.

STEEP CLIMB PLANNED

As the engines behaved perfectly on both occasions, it is likely that the next time the airplanes will climb steeply from the moment of leaving the airdrome and approach Everest with 2,000 to 3,000 feet to spare, instead of the 500 at which the crest was crossed on Monday.

This should keep the airplanes above the area of the worst bumps and also improve the chances for making a good air survey of the upper portions of the mountain. The proximity of the planes to the face of the mountain on Monday's flight prevented the vertical cameras from producing overlapping photographs. This is making very difficult the identification of the vertical photographs, though some are very good and may well be of importance.

Today's wind has done some damage to the roofs of two of the hangar tents at Lalbala. These house the Westland-Wallace plane and two small machines. A few strips of canvas have been ripped off the roofs, but the tent walls are sound and, as the machines are picketed, they are in no danger.

CUPID'S CLERK GIVES RITUAL

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP.)—Deputy City Clerk James J. McCormick recited from the witness stand yesterday the ritual by which he joins couples in marriage at Municipal Chapel.

McCormick, testifying in his own defense to charges that he attempted to defeat and evade the income tax law in connection with gratuities tossed into his cash drawer by newly married husbands, previously denied he had called anyone a "cheap skate" or referred to a dollar bill as "one lousy buck."

The marriage ceremony, which McCormick said he had "down by heart," was repeated in such rapid fire order that the court stenographer looked up with a request that parts of it be repeated.

It did not include the "love, honor and obey" phrase.

University Auditor Gets 3 Years in Pen

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, April 7.—(AP.)—Alexander Ramsay Ross, former accountant for the University of Manitoba, was sentenced to three years in Stony Mountain Penitentiary yesterday in Manitoba Police Court.

He pleaded guilty to the theft of $14,279 of university funds, between October, 1931, and March of this year.

Close Schools After Gas Routs Pupils

READING, April 7.—(AP.)—This is an unexpected "day off" for pupils of the four-room eighth grade school in Douglass Township, Berks County.

The school remained closed until Monday while 30 pupils and four teachers are recovering from the effects of coal gas fumes, escaping from an open damper.

Rubbing Alcohol Fatal to Roomer

JOHN P. M'CANN

M'CANN, STEEL DEALER, DIES

John P. McCann, of 31 Lincoln avenue, Crafton, president of the United Iron and Metal Company, died yesterday in Presbyterian Hospital. He had been ill more than nine months.

Mr. McCann, born in Ireland, was known to steel men and railroad men in all sections of the United States. His company was a leader in the steel scrap market of the country, and under his direction dismantled many structures, including the old Point and Tenth Street bridges.

Mr. McCann was a member of St. Phillip's Catholic Church, Crafton; the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, the Keystone Club, the Fellows Club and Chartiers Council, Knights of Columbus.

He leaves a brother, Edward A. McCann, and four sisters, Edith, Kathryn and Helen J. McCann, and Mrs. Elizabeth Kenan.

ing genius of Blake, an implacable titan, surrounded by pigmies.

By the end of the eighteenth century, artists in general appear to have lost the purposive impetus that made them the channels of expression for the profund concerns of humanity. Perhaps, the printed book, the offspring of the early wood cut, had preempted the artist's contemplative crusade.

Whatever the combined causes may have been, the prints at Carnegie Institute indicate that the nineteenth and twentieth centuries fall far below the earlier ones. This anti-climax may come from the accidents of chronological proximity in the exhibition, although we believe many prints in the twentieth century group are inadequate. One excepts, of course, a number of individuals, for example, Whistler; and the Scotsmen three, Cameron, Bone and McBey.

The exhibition of the prints from the Rosenwald collection proves beyond dispute that the Carnegie Institute has given us, during the past years, a fair knowledge of the great artists in the graphic mediums of all periods. The Rosenwald collection completes the plan, so to speak, by supplementing the great masters with the earliest examples and establishing the historic continuity which places the giants of the graphic arts in relation to their time and place. The exhibition closes May 21.

Roomer Falls Dead From Heart Attack

Elmer E. Bail, 52, fell dead last night in the home of John Beggs, of 119 South Twenty-second street, according to a morgue report. Bail, who rented a room in the Beggs' home three days ago, collapsed shortly after partaking of a meal. Death was believed to have resulted from a heart attack.

Bandits Menace Two In Holdup of Store

East End police today sought two well-dressed bandits who held up a chain grocery at 5801 Bryant street late yesterday. S. H. Armstrong, of 1743 Chislett street, the manager, and Mary Bradley, of 7023 Lemington avenue, a clerk, were held at bay by one man while his accomplice rifled the cash register of $25.

They fled in a stolen automobile which was recovered at Stanton and North Highland avenues.

Would Shift Poor To Jail Called 'Mansion'

READING, Pa., April 7.—(AP.)—County Commissioner Charles Ebling says the Berks County prison is a "mansion" where he wouldn't mind living, so he suggests inmates of the almshouse trade places with the prisoners of the jail.

The poor then not only would "live in a beautiful building," he told his fellow Commissioners yesterday, but the county could make a million dollars by transforming the 300-acre poorhouse tract into a real estate development.

But the other Commissioners said it wouldn't work.

STRAUS, NOTED MERCHANT, DIES

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP.)—Herbert N. Straus, one of the "triumvirate of merchant prince brothers," died at his home in Park avenue late yesterday.

Straus, president of L. Bamberger & Co., Newark department store, and vice president of R. H. Macy & Co., of New York, was a brother of Jesse Isidor Straus, recently appointed ambassador to France. He was 51.

Straus was said by members of his family to have been suffering from a heart ailment the last six weeks.

A native of New York, Straus was educated at Harvard University. During the World War he was a member of the Hoover food administration in Washington and later served as controller of the War Trade Board.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair
-With-
Patricia Pitt

Pittsburgh's social register and Blue Book set had its beauty sleep last night instead of beer.

None of the smart clubs gave watch parties last night for patrons to await the dawn of beer this morning at one minute after midnight.

But tonight and tomorrow night beer will have an official welcome. The University Club, the Pittsburgh Athletic Club and the Edgewood Country Club will welcome wandering beer home tonight.

Tomorrow night the Fox Chapel Country Club, the Longue Vue Country Club, the Pittsburgh Field Club and the Keystone Athletic Club will have entertainments with dancing and supper and card playing—and beer.

But down in Sewickley neither the Edgeworth Club nor the Allegheny Country Club has planned anything for this week-end to celebrate beer's return.

The Women's Organization for National Prohibition Repeal will continue its work until the required number of states have ratified the bill for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, Mrs. Cyrus R. Miller, Pittsburgh president, home from a national conference in Washington, tells me.

Work to Continue

But this group is not for the return of the old days with its saloons; it wants good state control of liquor laws. This group is for dignity.

Mrs. Miller, who returned yesterday, attended a luncheon given for the Pennsylvania delegates Wednesday by Mrs. Charles Lea in the Sulgrave Club in Washington, and a banquet Wednesday night in the Mayflower Hotel for the entire conference.

Mrs. George Pomeroy Bassett, Jr., Mrs. Carroll Miller and Mrs. J. R. Crutchfield were also delegates. They stayed for the session yesterday.

Among those at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., for Easter are the Walter J. Curleys.

Mrs. Julian Burdick has been at the Weylin Hotel, New York.

Bridal Party

A large wedding is always a delight to many, but this year will be even more so after so many simple ceremonies.

Phyllis Bennett, of Detroit, will be her maid of honor, and Mary S. Luke, of Tarrytown, N. Y.; Virginia Olive Doyle, Martha Mitchell Yost, Lois Tack, Bertha Brooks and Melus Edward Rhodes will be bridesmaids.

George Hamilton Flinn, Jr., will be best man, and Ledlie Watt Young, Alexander Laughlin Robinson, William Christopher Robinson, Jr., James Crossan Chaplin, III, William D. George, Jr., William L. Standish III, James H. Higgins, George Pearson Rhodes, Jr., Thomas S. Kernan, of Utica, N. Y.; F. Vinton Lawrence, Jr., of Englewood, N. J., and John H. Crago, of St. Louis, Mo., will be ushers.

Peabody Choir to Sing For Mt. Holyoke Alumnae

A concert by the a capella choir of Peabody High School will be given tonight in the College Club under the auspices of the Mount Holyoke Alumnae Association. Miss Florence Shute directs the choir.

MR. AND MRS. TILDEN CUMMINGS AT PALM SPRINGS, CAL., ON THEIR WEDDING TRIP . . . SHE WAS HESTER H. BROWNE

Schools Active Before Easter Holidays

Always just before and during the Easter holidays there is much activity on the part of the schools, and the alumnae entertaining for college girls on vacation of some diverting entertainment in the schools.

This morning the Maxada School is having its visiting day, from 10 to 12:30 o'clock in the school. The young society pupils will have their regular classes and display, for their mothers, their prowess in readin,' 'ritin' and 'rithmetic, as well as in their French lessons and class in rhythmics and dancing.

Also today, from 4 until 6 o'clock, Miss Maud von Woy, principal of the Fairmont School, Washington, is giving a tea in the William Penn Hotel for the Alumnae and their friends. There are to be about 100 guests. Assisting Miss von Woy will be Miss Ruth Warfield, the dean of the school.

Progressive Blind Club To Hear Play Tomorrow

Miss Stella Plant will have charge of the meeting of the Progressive Blind Women's Club tomorrow in the Congress of Clubs. Chester M. Wallace, of the drama school, Carnegie Institute of Technology, will read a play during the program hour.

Outlook Alliance Ticket Unanimously Elected

The ticket presented to the Outlook Alliance by the nominating committee and headed by Mrs. S. J. Corbett, as president, was unanimously elected yesterday. Following the business meeting, Mrs. Lucille Speer McIntyre and Mrs. Maud Speer Connor sang and Mrs. R. A. Haddock, a past president, discussed the city manager plan of government.

Rosslyn Farms Club Hold Community Night

The Rosslyn Farms Woman's Club made a community entertainment of their meeting in the school last night.

Two one-act plays, "Little Prison" and "Fourteen," the latter by Alice Gerstenberg, were presented by casts of club members and there were several artistic and novel dance numbers by children and members, directed by Miss Schempp and Mrs. Gwillaume Price.

Dr. Lindeman in Parent Institute Talk Sees New Social Order

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Between the civilization that is now disintegrating and in which all significant strands of culture have come to an end at once—between that and a new integrating, co-operative society will come a testing interim and fascism of one kind or another will encompass the western world, according to Dr. Eduard C. Lindeman, author, educator and lecturer, who spoke before the Parents' Institute and the Western Pennsylvania Education Conference last night at the Hotel Schenley.

While Dr. Lndeman pointed out a few "assets" of the "disintegrating society"—such as the prodigious release of human energies, man's faith and his rapid control over natural forces—it was on the whole an exceedingly gloomy picture he drew.

Men have substituted action for value, he said, a premium has been placed on busyness, man has developed an intensified sense of acquisitiveness and the habit of ruthless competitiveness. An irrational system of wealth has been set up and the majority of Americans do not lead "the good life."

Speculation is another bad habit and has nothing to do with an honest economic system. Waste, especially of human material, and war were other "liabilities" mentioned.

Because the home is the unit which has been failing longest, it is the one best fitted upon which to rebuild, Dr. Lindeman stated.

Enumerating goals to be striven for, he said, qualitative education must supplant the old quantitative education, a more satisfying physiological process within marriage must be striven for, the esthetics of sex must be cultivated, family control must be substituted for legalistic points, divorce must be made easy (and it will then decline), there must be technical preparation for parenthood, educational methods should be used for family administration and there should be basic and socialized health.

How Does a Woman Champion Manage?

Women champions cannot have "off days." Day after day of practice and play, and matches that permit no postponements. Then how do they manage during regular periods when other women are sunk with pain? They meet these monthly emergencies with Midol, and they don't ever experience a twinge of periodic pain.

Harmless as it is, a Midol tablet blocks all possibility of periodic pain for hours at a stretch. It isn't a narcotic. But it acts in seven minutes, and lets you menstruate in comfort! Just ask the druggist for Midol.

Food Variety Aids Digestion And Stimulates Appetite

Rabbit and Game Birds Afford Pleasant and Healthful Dishes for Those Who Must Be Coaxed at Mealtimes.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator From New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

The sportsman and hunter are familiar with the pleasing and satisfying taste of rare meats, such as rabbit, quail, pheasant and guinea-fowl. But many of my readers do not take advantage of the use of these meats to add agreeable variety to their menus.

Within recent years rabbit breeding has become a recognized industry. The government has approved and assisted this new enterprise, and now we can purchase rabbit meat that bears the government seal. Rabbit farms are found throughout the country, and milk-fed rabbit meat can be purchased almost everywhere.

The domestic rabbit is superior to the wild "cottontail" or "jack-rabbit," that was once so plentiful. The meat is white and tastes like chicken. It is less expensive than poultry, which it closely resembles in constituents. Rabbit meat can be substituted for steak, chops or roast meat. It can be cooked in any of the ways in which young chicken is prepared.

QUAIL AND PHEASANTS

Quail is really the "Bob White," an American bird. This is the name given it in the northern and western sections of the country. It is called "partridge" in the southern states. Its feathers are reddish brown, speckled with black and white. The meat has a distinctive flavor. Young and tender quail is prepared the same as other poultry.

Pheasants are beautiful birds. Their flavor is not quite so appealing as that of other game birds, but the meat is tender. The best-known pheasants are the English "ringneck" and the Chinese ringneck. They are considered a great delicacy by many hunters, who advise hanging the bird for several days before eating. This treatment, they claim, improves the flavor of the pheasant meat.

GUINEA FOWL POPULAR

Guinea fowl has recently become popular. Formerly it was only used at state banquets and special dinners. It is now more in demand because of the excellent quality of its meat and its slightly gamey flavor. These birds live on green foods and seeds and seldom become fat. Like all game birds, they are sold unplucked. The breast meat is light and the other meat is dark.

These unusual meats which I have mentioned today differ in no way from the ordinary cuts of meats served daily in most of our homes. They have the same nutritive qualities, ease in digestion, and possess the great advantage of lending variety to the diet.

Variety of foods stimulates appetite, aids digestion, and makes mealtime pleasing and enjoyable. It is a good plan to include some of these special meats in the diet of the individual whose appetite must be coaxed.

'WIDOWER' BIRD BATTLES HERE

Shadow-boxing the glass in one basement window is tame exercise for Pittsburgh's battling robin, who is fighting two of them.

Mr. Robin use to fly about the Carrick neighborhood chirping merrily with his mate. He was shy and gentle like other birds. Last week his mate disappeared, and since that time he has been highly indignant.

He saw a reflection of himself in the glass of the basement window of the home of William E. Smith, 3343 Brownsville road. A fight started. A. B. Andrews, who lives next door, observed:

> "I have chased that fool bird several times. I believe a cat made a nice meal of his mate, and since that time he has been pecking and flying at the window pane."

One window is small change, however, for Mr. Robin. Not satisfied with throwing himself at the one window, he is now taking jabs at a second basement window a few feet away. He alternates, fighting first one and then the other window.

Linoleum Blind Ends Robin's Fight

SHARON, Pa., April 7.—The robin, which for seven days fought its own image in a window at the home of W. L. Curry, Alcoma street, was stopped only after the window had been covered with a piece of linoleum.

NEWS TIP CASH AIDS JOBLESS

Mrs. Julia F. Manion, 371 Highland avenue, Turtle Creek, has just won an award of $10.00, for a "news tip" she submitted to the Sun-Telegraph. Mrs. Manion had telephoned an interesting piece of news to this newspaper but was not aware that she would be paid for the "tip." So the check came to her as a complete surprise.

One of the most interesting features of her letter of appreciation to the Sun-Telegraph is the closing paragraph which reads:

> "I want to take this opportunity to enter my subscription for the Sun-Telegraph under the conditions necesary so that Father Cox may secure the commission. We have talked of doing this for sometime for we recognize the worth of this aid to Father Cox's relief fund and would certainly be unappreciative if we failed to do so now."

It looks as though Father Cox is going to break all records this week in his drive for Sun-Telegraph subscriptions. Every subscriptions that comes in on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it, brings his unemployment relief fund a liberal cash commission.

KROGER-STORES

Gabriel Over the White House

three thousand branches were modelled on the large joint stock banks of Great Britain. Together with the Federal Reserve Board it dominated the finance and credit of the United States.

Though the conference was held in the United National board room, Van Rassaeler was the last to arrive. His colleagues noticed with interest that his manner indicated suppressed excitement.

They did not waste much time on preliminaries, nor did they draw up to the massive table.

David Rhodes, of the Stock Exchange, and John Drysdale, head of the Drysdale Finance Corporation, sprawled in easy chairs before the huge empty hearth. W. B. Sparrow, the world-famed international banker, despite his 80 odd years, elected to sit bolt upright in the most uncomfortable straight-backed chair in the room. Van Rassaeler stood with his back to the hearth.

Bankers Balky

Van Rassaeler gave an outline of what the President had in mind and there followed a long technical discussion that revealed sharp divisions of opinion.

The new policy was to be a complete reversal of that which at present obtained. Instead of continuing to pour money into productive enterprises and simultaneously (by means of taxation and reductions in wages) to drain consumers of any equivalent purchasing power, the President now proposed that public credit should be used, not only for maximum industrial production, but also to ensure the maximum distribution for consumption. In other words, America's fiscal policy was to be so directed as to enable the people to purchase essential commodities and manufactured goods and thus lessen the gap between producer and consumer.

David Rhodes was severely critical. His comment was: "This is inflation and there will be a fight from the dollar."

Van Rassaeler, agreeing that the printing of additional paper money was inflationary, asked where those who were nervous of the dollar would reinvest. In Europe? South America? There were no foreign credits to be withdrawn. They had gone long ago.

"But," Rhodes insisted, "it means going off gold."

"Does that matter under existing conditions?" asked Van Rassaeler. "It is the internal purchasing power of the dollar that counts, and a lower value overseas will help rather than hinder the thin trickle of foreign trade which still exists."

Fear of Inflation

John Drysdale pointed out that it would result in an enormous rise in the cost of living and would penalize those with fixed incomes. "It would reduce the value of all federal and state securities and bonds."

Van Rassaeler, who was completely in sympathy with the President's new financial policy, did not deny Drysdale's hypothesis, but held that the common good and general prosperity came first and admitted that certain unfairness and even hardships in the case of a limited number of people were inevitable.

"Gentlemen," he went on, "let us face facts. We know very well that America and the world are dying of insufficient purchasing power. The producers of almost every kind of commodity cannot produce at a profit at the existing price level. Ultimately, where they have not already closed down, instead of carrying on at a continual loss, they will be reduced to not producing at all.

"Under the President's plan the Treasury will expand national credits whereupon wholesale prices will inevitably rise and the ultimate producers will once again be able to make a profit, reabsorb labor and add to national prosperity.

David Rhodes took up the argument. "Suppose we agree? What is going to be the position of the millions of unemployed faced with an increase in the price of the necessities of life? They are already almost out of hand. This will provoke them to riot and rebellion."

"I understand," Van Rassaeler replied, "that the President fully appreciates this danger and that the rise is to be gradual. In the meantime he has plans for dealing with the unemployed."

Bankers Agree

It was William Bayard Sparrow, hitherto silent, who finally summarized the position.

"Gentlement, it is little use arguing. However much we, in our natural conservatism, may mistrust this change in monetary policy, it cannot alter the fact that the President is determined on it, and that he has, or will have, unfettered power to execute it.

"Its consequences may be as dire as Rhodes and Drysdale think. On the other hand, I am impressed by Van Rassaeler's arguments in favor of financing consumption.

"In any case, I for one, am prepared to help and not to hinder. Almost any experiment is better than our present negative policy of doing nothing without even the power to delude ourselves that somehow or other things will eventually come right. Unless something is done, and that immediately, we perish.

On Friday, hours before the President arrived at the Capitol to address a joint session of the House and Senate, public excitement ran like a fever through Washington's streets.

From the rostrum below the Speaker's chair, the President read a brief speech. Its phrases were blunt, ineloquent: "Dangerous state of the Union . . . disorder and bankruptcy in cities and states . . . unemployed getting out of hand . . . failure of private charity and of federal schemes to alleviate their hardships . . . a natural emergency is here . . . The Congress must recognize it . . . appropriate action . . . my responsibility . . . common policy . . . extraordinary authority to the Presidency . . . adjourn sine die."

Resolution Adopted

There was no attempt at explanation or rhetoric. Senators and Congressmen listened in silence.

When the President finished and withdrew the Senators rose and filed back to their chamber across the Capitol amid an awful hush. Promptly put before them was the national emergency resolution. For once, there was nothing worth while to say, and the resolution was adopted in 10 minutes with only nine adverse votes. In the House, Congressman Mulligan ranted and raved until he found that even his inflammatory tongue could not rouse his fellow members to concerted opposition. The resolution was adopted—390 to 16. Adjournment followed immediately.

CHAPTER VIII

The formation of the new administration did not take long. The President had carefully thought out the question of personnel and with unerring judgment he filled his cabinet with men of special aptitude.

They were representative of all that was best in public life; none was a politician in the old-fashioned use of the term.

As was to be expected, the President ran his cabinet like an autocrat.

The first action of the new government was to float a $5,000,000,000 internal loan cleverly timed to capitalize on the enthusiasm of the people. The issue was a great success, for almost every householder was individually induced to buy Prosperity Bonds.

The President publicly declared that it was his belief that these bonds would be "redeemed, eagerly, thankfully, by an ever-grateful posterity." Thereafter the loan was popularly referred to as "Posterity Bonds."

Simultaneously with this heavy borrowing two important Treasury orders were issued to prevent hoarding of capital and the dislocation of currency. Notice was given that gold bonds and their equivalent would be gradually withdrawn and no new issues made. A further order made it clear that in no circumstances would gold or gold bonds be paid for at other than their face value.

New Money Printed

The time was now ripe for the larger scheme. The Treasury printed a new series of paper money in various denominations, while the Federal Reserve began retiring its notes. No attempt was made to give this new currency a gold backing. It was "just paper," but behind that paper was the whole wealth and resource of the United States.

These red and blue bills speedily became legal tender at all banks, shops and offices in view of the Treasury's refusal to pay a premium on gold-secured currency.

In planning these measures, the President had not failed to anticipate an attack upon them in the federal court. But here again he was shrewdly forearmed by authority from Congress to increase the size of the Supreme Court from nine to 15. He promptly appointed six justices who, he first made sure, would support his policies. The two liberal members of the bench were already on his side. Thus on the first test case—the bond issue—the court, by an 8 to 7 division, invoked the "rule of reason" to sustain the new administration. Critics cried that Hammond had packed the court for his own purpose, and so he had. But the fact remained that henceforth his dictatorship was not to be voided by the judiciary.

Girl Approves of Co-eds Renting Escorts

Should co-eds rent escorts?

Does the idea shock you? Or are you for it? Nan is. She has a notion that maybe the "American Intercollegiate Association of Gigolos" that we've been reading about lately is the answer to at least one Maiden's Prayer.

Dear Elsie Robinson:

I wonder what the girls who read your column think of this new idea of renting College Dates. Will you ask 'em?

Personally, I think it's Big News! I'll tell you why. I'm due, myself, to go to college next year, and I've been really getting an inferiority complex, wondering if I'll be left "hanging on the bough," so to speak, when it comes to dates.

I'm no vamp. When boys get to really know me, they usually like me all right; but, well, I'm not very spectacular looking, and a lot of them just don't bother to see what I'm like.

So I think maybe this "American Intercollegiate Association of Gigolos" that you hear about these days, is sort of an answer to A Maiden's Prayer.

Efficiency! That's what it is. And all to the good for the girls! No longer will a girl need to be on pins and needles, wondering if some hero will ask her to the football game, or to some party she's dying to attend! All that she'll have to do is order something in the Boy Friend line that will make the other girls sit up and take notice.

TABLES TURNED

And no more will the girl with no "it" have to spend dull evenings at home, or be a "wall-flower" at dances.

And this grand plan of renting escorts will do more. Instead of having to take the left-overs, and what chance sends her, in the way of B. F.'s, she'll be able to be choosy about whom she picks to go out with. Heretofore, it was the girl who was looked over—and then probably ignored. This new plan will give her a chance to turn the tables, and do some looking over herself—and pick the style in gents that fits her fancy.

Heretofore, girls were dependent on boys' fickle fancy, for any good times they might have. They had to have escorts or stay home, according to cruel convention. We still have the convention, but I think this new notion is a dandy way to circumvent some of its worst disadvantages.

LIKES NEW IDEA

Boys have gotten altogether too snooty, with that convention to back them up. They have known just how dependent the girls were on them, and they've expected and demanded that the girls pay plenty of tariff for being taken around, from getting mad if the girls wouldn't pet, to leaving them home if they didn't drink and go in for heavy whoopee.

So I feel like saying "Whoops" for this new idea. Now, the girls will have a little to say about the way things go. They won't have to grin and bear it because some snooty young Hero has taken a fancy to drop them just when they need him to "save face" at some party.

They won't have to listen to some dull egotist blow about himself, or demand the right to pay them, just because he's a "date" and folks think they're a flop if their dates are scarce.

Well, that's the way I feel. Now I'd like to hear from some of the other girls. I'd like to know what they think about it. It looks like a Great Day, to me! How about it? NAN.

All right, girls! Come on!

Would you? Do you?

And, if you're not a girl, but a Romeo yourself—what's your reaction, Big Boy?

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Comparative Bridge

"I am afraid we only halve the match," remarked South as he marked down the score for a Grand Slam made in diamonds, after playing the hand below in a mixed team-of-four game at the recent Eastern Championship Tournament in New York City. The hand appeared to him, as his partner played the cards, such an obvious Grand Slam that any other result than a halve match—that is, that his opponents on the opposing team-of-four would have the same result—seemed incomprehensible, unless perchance they had somehow managed to squeeze out seven notrump and thus won it. However, when the time came for the comparison of scores, he found his fears unjustified, learning that his opponents had somehow stopped at the unusual contract of five spades, which they did not make. The hand, like all hands of freakish distribution, furnished many surprises to the players holding it. There is nothing extraordinary in South's hand, except its high honor content, and certainly no indication of the distributional squalls suggested by West's distribution.

At one table, where Commander Winfield Liggett, Jr., was seated South, and Mr. Oswald Jacoby held the West hand, Commander Liggett, using the Official System, opened with the game-demand bid of two clubs. Mr. Jacoby, with his distributional monstrosity, over-called with four clubs, but this did not prevent his opponents from reaching a Small Slam in diamonds.

A few players reached a contract of six notrump and made seven through a breakdown in the opposing defense, and only a small number reached seven diamonds, which is not difficult at all to make.

South, Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

North:
♥ A 10 7 5
♦ K J 10 9 3 2
♣ J 3

West:
♠ Q
♦ Q
♣ 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 2

East:
♠ J 8 6 5 2
♥ J 4 3 2
♣ K

South:
♠ A K 10 9 4 3
♥ K 8
♣ A Q

South	West	North	East
1 ♠ (1)	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
3 ♠ (2)	Pass	4 ♦ (3)	Pass
5 N T (4)	Pass	7 ♦ (5)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—Possibly, with a six-card suit, South should open with a Forcing bid of two. However, he later more than makes up for any modesty in his Opening bid.

2—Not an absolute Force, but the situation itself is Forcing. If North is strong enough to respond with a suit bid at the range of two over an Opening bid, then certainly she must find another bid over this nearly-Forcing Rebid.

3—Much better than three no-trump. The hand is entirely too strong for a response which may shut out a Slam.

4—Unquestionably a slight overbid. The hand, it is true, contains three Aces and the King of a bid suit, and South, of course, knows there is a fit in diamonds, but does not know, as yet, that North holds the heart Ace, which may be vital to the making of even a Small Slam.

5—The Grand Slam should certainly be bid after South's strong bidding.

Of course, the hand is made without difficulty. The club finesse is right, and North finds no trouble in getting rid of the few losing cards in her own hand.

Household Hints

A cracked egg can be boiled successfully if wrapped in greaseproof paper.

A shabby pram hood will be improved by the occasional application of equal parts olive oil and vinegar.

When making a milk pudding or a baked custard, stand the dish in another dish containing cold water. The custard will not boil over, and will be quite firm when cold.

An excellent ironing blanket can be made from old newspapers. Stitch together several large sheets, keeping them quite flat. It will be found that the newspapers retain the heat.

To keep leather trunks in good condition, rub a little olive oil into them now and again, and then occasionally give a rub-up with a good furniture polish. Little attentions like this will keep your trunks wonderfully like new.

Women are not naturally extravagant. By nature they are conservative. They think in dimes where men think in dollars.

The expensively gowned wife of a wealthy man will still frown upon the big tip her rich husband leaves for a good waiter that has served them well.

When women "throw money away" there is usually a reason for it. Such wives prefer to spend upon themselves what their husbands are inclined to squander otherwise.

We see some sweetie toss a large bill at the jazz orchestra in some bright spot. But this is to impress the rich boy friend with her generosity and carelessness, and prepare him for the demand she will make for herself.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Purpura Is a Symptom of Disease

Dr. Copeland

Not long ago one of my colleagues came to my seat in the Senate to inquire about "purpura hemorrhagica." This is a rare, but serious disease. The Senator wanted to know about it and perhaps you will be interested.

Did you ever pinch your finger and have a blood clot form under the nail? Did you ever get hit in the eye and have a black effusion under the skin?

You are familiar with injuries that break the wall of a blood vessel and permit the blood to leak into the soft tissues. But there may be such leakages of blood, not caused by injury, but which are the result of disease. Such bleeding may take place anywhere in the body. When the effusion is just beneath the skin somewhere, it makes a stain such as you have seen in a "black eye."

The doctor calls any discoloration such as this a "purpuric spot." When it comes from disease, the condition is known as "purpura."

Purpura is not a disease in the sense that pneumonia is, or scarlet fever, or malaria. Purpura is a symptom merely. It is a sign of some weakness of the blood vessels, or of some alteration in the blood.

There are a number of causes for purpura. It is a common symptom in what we call the "malignant diseases," like typhus. It may be observed in measles and other "rashes."

Perhaps the most interesting form of purpura is that associated with nervous disturbances. It is found in inflammation of the spinal cord, in locomotor ataxia and in various disturbances of the circulation.

In children the trouble sometimes occurs under the name of "simple purpura." There is no fever and no disturbance, except the black spots. They disappear within a couple of weeks.

A more serious variety is called "purpura hemorrhagica." Here we have fever, systemic disturbance and occasionally, unfortunately, death follows. The child actually bleeds to death, the blood being retained beneath the skin.

As I have said, purpura is not a disease. It is merely a symptom and its presence is readily observed.

In the treatment, attention must be given the underlying condition. Whatever it is that has upset the general health must be removed. When the tone of the blood vessels has been restored to normal, there will be no recurrence of the symptoms. The spots themselves will speedily disappear if there is no further leakage of blood.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The Shower

Dear Mrs. Beeçkman:

My sister married quietly and I have been wondering if it would be the proper thing for me to give a shower for her? I am married and not living at her home.

Some say it is not the right thing to do when it is for my own sister. THANK YOU.

What you say that "some say" is what most people judge about the giving of showers . . . that it is inappropriate for a close relative of the bride-to-be, and certainly of the bride to give such a party. When the mother or sister of the bride-to-be gives a shower for her, it does give quite a distinct impression of being a "begging party" . . . and when such a party is given for a bride, I think that it gives even more this impression. Don't you?

However, of course there isn't any definite rule about this, and so each one must make for herself the judgment of its appropriateness.

Dinner Party Serving

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly tell me what is correct in regard to serving when you have a dinner party at your home? Should your husband serve you or the women guests first? D.

Your husband should serve the women guests first. He serves you, the hostess, last of the women, and then he serves the men guests, of course serving himself last.

Continuation Love's Reawakenin

By ADELE GARRISON

Attacking Forces Get Their Last Instructions

At Philip Veritzen's question, my body stiffened unconsciously in rebellion at his dictum that neither Mary nor I should remain for a single minute in the woodland glade, where we had gathered in preparation for the attack upon the kidnapers. At my side I felt Mary's slender body in equally tense defiance of any edict which would send us from the scene, and I guessed that her joy in finding Noel safe had been distinctly tempered by his remark that the glade was no place for a woman, and by his patent disapproval of her presence there.

But there was no opportunity for us either to protest or acquiesce. Hugh's voice, incisive, clear, for all that it was little more than a murmur, settled the question once for all.

"Unfortunately we have no choice now," he said. "It is almost time for Dick to arrive, and we must be ready for action. There can be no change in our arrangements. We did not expect Mrs. Graham and Miss Mary, who came in order to guide Lee Chow to me, but it was vitally necessary for the success of our enterprise that they should come, and we ought to be most grateful.

"We must remember also that though this is distinctly no place for women, two other women, young, almost children, are held captive only a few yards from here. We can think now of nothing else but their plight. How about it, Noel? Is everything quiet, or have you observed anything unusual?"

INQUIRES ABOUT HORSE

Noel was silent for a long second, and I knew that he was fighting to get himself together after the shock of finding Mary so unexpectedly involved in this dangerous undertaking.

"There hasn't been anything new, sir," he said at last, gulping. "Everything has been quiet as a church."

"You've heard no sound like a horse walking?" Hugh demanded.

"No," Noel answered. "But I'm not used to sounds in the woods. Perhaps you—" He turned to Brock.

"A horse? Walking?" Brock repeated in puzzled fashion. "You mean—"

"The horse and a rider," Hugh put in, "and the feet were muffled, we are sure, so that you would not be apt to hear it unless it passed very near you."

"There's been nothing of the sort between this place and the farmhouse," Brock said decidedly. "Until just this minute I've been standing on the other side, with my face stuck out of the pines towards the shack and my ears cocked for any sound, as per your instructions. But—I don't know—a horse with muffled hoofs, making only a little noise, might have come in from the other road and stopped the other side of the house without my hearing it."

LAST INSTRUCTIONS

"Then that's on the knees of the gods," Hugh said. "Are the men ready?"

"All set," Brock answered a bit grimly. "They've got all the material, and as soon as you give the word we'll start doing business. But where's Wynne?" he asked disappointedly. "I be all wet without Wynne."

"He's trailing the horse," Hugh answered. "He probabl will report back here before i is time to begin operations. I he doesn't, either Mr. Underwood or I will take his place."

"That's oke by me," Brock replied. "Would you mind going over the instructions again, sir?"

"When Mr. Graham flies over the house," Hugh replied, "you are each to seize the missles assigned you and stand ready for the signal. When it is given, you are to creep forward as near to the house as you can get. If there are outside sentinels you must silence them, and then go on to the doors and windows. Mr. Underwood will be with one-half of you and I with the other half. As soon as we're all in position the men in front will smash in the doors and windows and those in the second row will be ready with the tear-gas bombs. With any luck we ought to be inside the house and all cleaned up within five minutes."

WEBER AND FIELDS -:- Veteran Comedians Tell Hill 'Inside Story' -:- ON THE AIR TONIGHT

Legislature Radio Talk By Harris

In keeping with this historic date, Weber and Fields, veteran comedy team who climbed the ladder of success in the days when beer was served during the performance, grace Edwin C. Hill's weekly "Inside Story" program on WJAS at 9:30 tonight.

Included among the re-enactments is a scene in the famous old theater when De Wolf Hopper, David Warfield, Peter Dailey and Lillian Russell appeared in the same show, with Weber and Fields doing a hashed German-English skit that panicked the audience.

Timeliness also marks the WJAS Artists' Parade, at 11 p. m., featuring the Ceramic Four, Dick Gaertner's Orchestra, Lewis Munnell, baritone, and Jim Hughes, master of ceremonies, in a program of old-timers. As a highlight, Munnell and Hughes sing a travesty, "Remember," with lyrics by Hughes.

As his musical treat on KDKA at 11:20 tonight, Jack Pettis offers "Why I Can't Forget," a new fox trot from the pen of Herbert S. Baumgarten, young Pittsburgh composer.

The life of Dick Whittington, who as a boy entered London penniless and later won the unique distinction of serving three times as Lord Mayor, is dramatized on WCAE at 9 o'clock.

Speaking on the topic "Legislative conditions," State Senator Frank J. Harris discusses the current problems in the Pennsylvania Legislature on WJAS at 9:15.

An interpretation, in part, of the Passion Play, by the Holy Rosary Players, is a WWSW bet at 7:45.

Jimmy Zummo, who, with his band, has been touring for over a year, returns to the KQV waves at 6:45.

Singing his own composition, "We're on the March," Morton Downey concludes his present series of sustaining programs on WJAS at 10. Immediately following the broadcast he plans to leave for a week-end stay in California. On May 31, he'll sail from New York for a London engagement.

Jack Pearl To Tour With Whiteman

By AIRCASTER

Paul Whiteman and Jack Pearl are going to take the road together, with Pearl continuing his Thursday night Munchausens while traveling. The first road program will come from New York, the next from Dallas, the next from Chicago, and so on.

And now, the Magic Carpet has begun to wonder why it should worry, during this tour, about booking a number of orchestras when it would be easier, and possibly more effective, to include Pearl's traveling partner in the Thursday programs.

Having fostered an ambition to sail around the world ever since his kid days, Phil (Seth Parker) Lord, who's resting in Florida on his physician's orders, has a 210-foot schooner docked near his Long Island home undergoing repairs preparatory for the sailing date.

The vessel will have a crew of 22, made up of Lord's school and college chums, and the trip probably will last a year. While away, Lord hopes to make about a dozen broadcasts back home. Meanwhile the Sunday night half hour will continue to go on as "Seth Parker's Neighbors."

Pedro de Cordoba, the latest of the thespians to turn to radio, starts a three-a-week series on WJAS Monday at 10:45 a. m. as "The Friendly Philosopher" . . . CBS plans a broadcast of the White House egg-rolling party Monday, April 17 . . . Warden Lewis E. Lawes' 11-year-old daughter, Cherie, will play in this Sunday's "20,000 Years in Sing Sing" sketch.

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter Of the Sun-Telegraph-Hearst Metrotone News

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

When Perryopolis throws a dinner, they don't stop at half measures. The one they give tonight for their new congressman, J. Buell Snyder "Out Pinchots Pinchot" and "Out Roosevelts Roosevelt." Those other dinners were woefully extravagant compared to tonight's bountiful repast. Where the former two cost 7¾ cents and 7½ cents, respectively, tonight's cut the expense to 6 cents a plate. George A. P. Bowman, president of the Board of Trade, says that the variety of food will tickle the most fastidious palate, and no spinach, either.

Several Wilkinsburg mothers have written me in regard to the children playing near a railroad crossing there. Mrs. Rodgers noticed several roller skating at a dangerous spot and she wants mothers to caution these youngsters.

Maj. William Buerkle, who yesterday made his radio debut over the twin microphones explaining the recruiting of the Conservation Corps, didn't mention a phase of the recruiting that has caused him many a chuckle and to muse a bit on life.

He said that for two weeks prior to the actual enlisting, his office has been besieged by callers. They literally camped on his doorstep. To his amazement most of them didn't want to enlist in the forest army themselves, but they were married men interceding for brothers-in-law. The major thinks there ought to be a law to protect in-laws.

Mrs. Ralph J. Brown tells a story on herself. At 4:30 the other a. m. she awoke to find herself in her night clothes with hat, gloves, shoes and coat on sitting on the walk in front of her house all ready to go somewhere. After 20 minutes of doorbell ringing and explaining, she finally got back into the house and to bed.

4 COLLEGES OUT OF FUND BILL

HARRISBURG, April 7.—(INS.)—Four state teachers' colleges have been omitted from the general appropriation bill which today was out of committee and ready for final passage in the House Monday night. Appropriations in the measure aggregate $116,209,503.

The schools for which no funds were provided are West Chester, East Stroudsburg, California and Clarion. The Shamokin and Coaldale state hospitals also were overlooked.

The total set up in the bill is more than $13,000,000 below the amount recommended by Gov. Gifford pinchot in the budget submitted to the Legislature last January.

The measure provides for drastic cuts in many state departments.

4 Hurt as Engine Of Auto Explodes

ERIE, Pa., April 7.—(AP.)—Four persons were recovering today from injuries caused by an exploding automobile motor at a crowded downtown street carner. William Hamerman, 53, told police he stopped his car for a traffic light and when he started it again the motor exploded. Metal and debris was hurled into a crowd waiting for buses and street cars.

Neglect Inspection, Motorist Arrested

HARRISBURG, April 7.—(AP.)—Between 800 and 1,000 automobile drivers have been arrested for failure to have their cars inspected since the inspection period ended at midnight, March 31.

Capt. Wilson C. Price, superintendent of the Highway Patrol, said most of the arrests were in urban centers. On April 1, 366 drivers were arrested in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

The music committee of the Twentieth Century Club presented its choral concert yesterday afternoon in the club auditorium. Mrs. Thomas K. Cree directed and chose on this occasion a rather happy program. Particularly fortunate were the folk songs.

Mr. Lissfelt

The present status of the chorus shows that it has gained in precision and ease. It is wanting in the caressing tone that makes for beautiful phrasing, and should build especially in the soprano section.

Dallmayer Russell was soloist and played a group of piano works mostly from the popular repertory, but none the less attractive in his hands. I believe that Russell has never before played with more variety nor with lovelier tone than in his Chopin numbers; we have heard the F Sharp Nocturne now from four important pianists in the last weeks and nominate yesterday's interpretation for first place.

The audience received both chorus and pianist heartily. Helen Machette played accompaniments.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Pheasant Shows Robins Points On Fighting

ABERDEEN, Wash., April 7.—(AP.)—Window-jousting robins who never destroy their enemies were given the "bird" here by a pheasant.

Annoyed by his image as reflected in a window pane at the home of Michael Novay, as the family was at breakfast, the big pheasant "crashed" his enemy, the window-pine bird. He showered glass into the Novak oatmeal and flew out before the family recovered.

Wife Seeks Divorce, 'Other Woman' Plea

Mrs. Olive Mae Campbell, of 139 State street, Clairton, testifying today in her divorce suit against John K. Campbell, a road contractor, said her husband had been living with another woman in Little Rock, Ark., for 18 months.

BRITAIN SPEEDS BOYCOTT BILL

LONDON, April 7.—(AP.)—The government's Russian embargo bill went to the House of Lords today after receiving final approval of the House of Commons.

It is expected to become effective April 18 but the government made it clear it hoped never to have to use its provisions.

The bill was requested as a government weapon to be used to protect the interests of six British engineers to be tried soon in Russia on charges of espionage and sabotage.

The British government contends the men have no chance for a fair trial and that the charges were manufactured to provide a "show" to draw attention from Soviet industrial difficulties.

EARTH TO FEEL COLD SUN

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP.)—A prediction that the sun will be colder for the next two years, with the possibility the earth will be affected in a way as yet unknown, was issued today by the Smithsonian Institution.

For he next 24 months, said Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the institution, the heat that issues from the sun and makes life possible on earth will be somewhat below normal.

This does not necessarily mean that the earth will have two cold years, for earthly weather is affected by many influences besides the sun's heat.

Dr. Abbot already has had some success as a predictor of the sun's "weather." In 1930 he forecast two warm years on the sun, which in general has been fulfilled. Measurements have shown that the sun has been giving out considerably more heat than normal since then.

The long-range predictions of warm and cold periods on the sun are first steps toward a goal of accurate long-range weather forecasts for the earth. They enable scientists to forecast one important factor in earthly weather, but ways also must be found to predict the influence of other factors, such as winds, clouds, snow, humidity, ocean currents and temperatures, vegetation, mountains and deserts.

Munhall Students To Exhibit Work

Munhall High School's annual exhibition of sewing, shop-work and art by the students will take place tonight at the school. Each girl in the sewing class will display a dress made by herself in a fashion show. The boys will show examples of the cabinet makers' art.

Parachute Leap Scheduled at Bettis

Weather permitting, "The Three Black Cats," parachute jumpers, and a "mystery girl" will leap from planes Sunday afternoon at Bettis Field. It will be the girl's first leap.

W. & W. QUITS STEAM TRAINS

WAYNESBURG, Pa., April 7.—The historic Waynesburg and Washington narrow gauge rail road has ceased as a steam railroad.

The road, which for half a century was Waynesburg's only connecting link with the outside world, in the future will operate a motor freight car thrice a week to pick up milk of the dairymen. Passenger service on the road ceased four years ago.

An ironical coincidence was a rough box and coffin in the last shipment of express over the line.

For the past year or more the line has carried on in face of decreasing revenue. Three veterans manned the "train"—an engine and a baggage car. They were James Swart, engineer; Frank Johnson, fireman, and James Conley, conductor and brakeman.

FEW PLAYERS STAY OUT ENTIRE YEAR

ACCEPTANCE OF TERMS with the Phillies by First Baseman Don Hurst wipes out the last trace of the baseball holdout colony, and brings the annual story of salary rebellion and retirement threats to the usual ending. Less than two months ago there were almost enough holdouts to have started a new league. They ranged from Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig down to rookies just out of the minors. But you'll notice that they all managed to get their differences patched up before the timekeeper starts to work next Wednesday.

Don Hurst

This year in particular, with millions looking vainly for jobs at any price, the retirement threats of the baseball holdouts got only yawns out of the public. Even in prosperous times, such threats were largely the old bunk. The number of players that ever held out for an entire season can be counted on your fingers. Ed Abbaticchio, of Latrobe, was about the first when he did not report to the Boston Nationals in 1906, and comparatively few others have since stayed out for a year or longer, the most prominent having been Johnny Kling, Mike Donlin, Billy Lauder, Home Run Baker, Eddie Roush, Bill Doak and Warren Collins.

BUCKY HARRIS is more confident than ever that the Tigers are going to have one of the pitching sensations of the year in Schoolboy Rowe, giant 21-year-old right-hander, who stands 6 feet 4½ inches and weighs 208 pounds. Bucky says he wouldn't trade Rowe right now for Monte Weaver, of the Senators, whom he rates as the best new pitcher of 1932 in the American League.

Rowe's father was a trapeze performer, but the youngster never went in for circus life. The Tigers signed him while he was in the eighth grade at school, and he played high school and semi-pro ball until last year, when he won 19 games and lost seven for Beaumont in the Texas League. In one game he struck out 15 men. Rowe is also some noise as a long-distance hitter.

WHILE WITH THE Giants, Frank Hogan had to follow a certain formula in handling the pitchers, but Bill McKechnie is letting the big catcher do his own thinking to a great extent for the Braves and says he has found him to be a smarter backstop than anybody ever gave him credit for being.

"Hogan is continually watching his pitcher, taking a look at the batter, keeping an eye on the infield and outfield," McKechnie says. "He is a smart catcher and I am sure that his catching as well as his hitting will make the Braves a better club than they were last year."

WITH HIS OWN ability to play regularly this season in doubt, despite the assurance given by Memphis doctors that his injured knee will not go back on him soon, Travis Jackson has shown a fine spirit on behalf of his club by trying hard to groom a youngster for his position. Jackson has overlooked no chance in the training sessions of the Giants to impart all the shortstop trade secrets at his command to Blondie Ryan, his young understudy. And Ryan has been an apt pupil. Jackson says he has to tell the recruit a thing only once, that Blondie absorbs suggestions rapidly and has learned about all an experienced shortstop can teach him. Ryan's fielding in the exhibition games leaves nothing to be desired, but knowing how to play National League batters the way Jackson did will be another matter.

Bill Terry

POSSIBLY IT'S ONLY a spring slump, but those who contended that managerial responsibilities and worries might affect the playing form of Bill Terry are finding some support for their arguments in the fact that at last reports the Giant pilot's batting average for the training trip was only .281.

Terry's low average distresses him. His theory is that of the four infielders the first baseman should be the best batter, followed by the second baseman, the third baseman and the shortstop. Bill insists that a first baseman isn't a first baseman unless he can hit .320.

ACCORDING TO TERRY'S dope, the majority of the first sackers in the majors last year didn't belong, on the strength of their batting records. The only men to hit above .320 were Terry, Hurst and Jordan in the National, and Alexander, Foxx and Gehrig in the American.

The only others to hit .300 were Grimm with .307, and Burns with .305. The rest ranged down to Kelly with .243 and Shires with .238. Suhr's mark for the year with the Pirates was .263.

ADOPTING A SUGGESTION made originally by the Sun-Telegraph, football finally installed a system of signs whereby the officials, in imposing penalties, inform the spectators of the nature of the offenses that have been committed. An effort is now being made to have the idea extended uniformly to basketball. During the present meeting of the National Association of Basketball Coaches in New York, the mentors will be asked to consider a plan along those lines, proposed by Coach Suz Sayer, of Ti½gn, O. Sayer suggests that instead of merely blowing the whistle when a foul is called, the officials let the crowd know what it's all about by making known what part of the code has been violated. He offers a set of hand and arm signs to signify holding, pushing, hacking, charging, held ball, time out, one or two shots, one or two points scored, time out, basket does not count, and all the other angles that otherwise might not be clear to the spectators.

AN EXTRA JOB confronts Joe Jacobs and Billy McCarney every time they make a match for Max Schmeling. That is the finding of a new training site, for they have made it a rule never to take the German back to the same spot for conditioning work.

Schmeling trained at Conneaut Lake for Stribling, at Kingston for the second Sharkey fight, and at Speculator for Walker. This means that none of those places will be considered for the Baer tilt June 2 or 8. Jacobs and McCarney already have inspected sites at Oak Ridge, N. J., and at Goshen, N. Y., and they have several more to look at before making a choice.

INTEREST IN COMPETITIVE swimming is as strong at the high schools of the district this year as ever before. That fact became evident when as many as 14 schools entered teams for Pitt's 19-year-old interscholastic meet, scheduled for tomorrow afternoon and evening at Trees Pool.

No new teams were added to the list that makes annual trips to the Panther pool, but neither has there been any falling off. The old guard will be back in full force, despite the fact that Carnegie Tech will be holding a meet on the same day.

Pat Corr

FROM AS FAR north as Erie, four teams will make the trek. Canton and Steubenville each contribute one, four local and four Pittsburgh district teams completing the list. The meet draws attention again to the fact that speed swimming is a sport in which steady improvement is noted, and not denied by old-timers. Either the moderns are far better than the swimmers of earlier years, or the stopwatches are seconds off. And nowhere has this improvement in recent seasons been more strongly in evidence than in the Pitt meet. Pat Corr, coach of the Panther swimmers and director of the meet, points out that while the fixture to be renewed tomorrow is 19 years old, every record on the books has been hung up in the last two years.

HOYT, FRENCH SHOW FORM

BREW IS HELD OF NO BENEFIT TO TEAMS

By JESS CARVER

The elbows may be back on the bar again and feet upon the rail, but the crack does not go for the college athletes, at least those of this city. Beer still is "out" as far as the collegians are concerned.

Strict training rules will be adhered to by all teams at Pitt, Tech and Duquesne, despite the return to legal standing of the foaming brew. In fact the coaches here do not expect the return of beer to offer a problem at all, the mentors have sufficient and well-grounded confidence in their lads to count on their being able to take their beer or leave it, and to do the latter.

COACHES EMPHATIC

Elmer Layden, at Duquesne, Max Hannum and Howard Harpster at Tech, yesterday said they would continue strict enforcement of training rules. While admitting that a glass or two of beer may not be harmful to the average person, the coaches were unanimous, nay, even emphatic, in declaring that the athletes were just as well off without it and that without it was exactly what they were going to be.

Dr. Cliff Carlson and Jock Sutherland, of Pitt, were out of the city yesterday, but in recent talks with this correspondent, both voiced the same sentiments.

The ideas of the local coaches appear to be shared generally all over the country by leading athletic mentors, although Chick Meehan, at Manhattan, and Lou Little, at Columbia, will permit their athletes an occasional glass, leaving it up to the individual. In a statement given out in New York yesterday, Meehan said:

"I would have no hesitation in prescribing a bottle or two of ale for an athlete who is overtrained or stale. A glass of beer after the evening meal and another before going to bed has beneficial effects.

"Over-indulgence in beer-drinking is something else. A habit of drinking beer, merely for fun or to pass the time away, hurts the athlete as well as the morale of a squad. There are other and better ways for a boy to break up the monotony of his athletic training."

SWIM PLANS SET

Plans for the two interscholastic swimming carnivals at Pitt and Tech virtually are complete. All that remains is for the starters to load their guns and send the schoolboy splashers on their way tomorrow to the individual and relay titles up for competition.

The Pitt meet, in its nineteenth renewal, is an individual and team championship affair. The trials will get under way at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and the finals will be staged beginning at 7:30 o'clock in the evening.

Tech's meet, strictly a relay affair, will make its fourth annual bow and will get underway at 3 o'clock and be over at 4:30. The Pitt trials will be over by 3 o'clock, which will permit schools to enter teams in both affairs.

In connection with the Pitt carnival, the university championships also will be run off.

More than 600 scholastic swimmers will compete in the two meets, representing teams from Western and Northwestern Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio.

HEALTH CONFAB ON TODAY

By JULIUS LEVIN

The Health and Physical Educational Conference opened a two-day convention at Fifth Avenue High School today, with delegates from Western Pennsylvania in attendance.

At this morning's session, Elmer Layden, of Duquesne, and Elmer Carroll, of Wilkinsburg High School, talked on coaching. James Browning, of Wilkinsburg, and Elmer Cotterel, of Slippery Rock State Teachers' College, lectured on intramural athletics.

Tomorrow, Grover Washabaugh, of South High School; Backfield Coach Andy Gustafson, of Pitt, and Leo McGlinchey, of the Western Pennsylvania Basketball Referee's Association, will feature the sportsmanship program.

Rabbi Samuel H. Goldenson, of the Rodef Shalom Temple, addressed a luncheon gathering of delegates at Webster Hall today at noon.

The East Pittsburgh High School basketball and football squads were honored at a banquet held last night in the Hebron Evangelical Lutheran Church in East Pittsburgh. Letters were awarded the members of both squads by Coach Johnny Coleman.

J. R. Sharp, justice of peace, was toastmaster. Among the speakers were C. F. Young, superintendent of schools; James Morgan, president of the school board; Attorney J. J. Jackson, Samuel Arner, Mike Sebastian, Paul Cuba, Paul Birch, Bill Narey, captain of the basketball team; Mike Valentic, captain of the football team; Coach Coleman, Mrs. Thomas Lloyd, secretary of the Women's Club of East Pittsburgh; Miss Helen Bates and Julius Levin, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

KERR TO SPEAK

Andy Kerr, former Pitt, Stanford and Wash-Jeff football coach, now head coach at Colgate University, will speak at the annual Colgate Alumni Association dinner at the University Club, Saturday, April 12.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Tracey Cox can't fight next week because he's entered in a golf tournament at French Lick, Ind. . . . The Greenlee Field management has approached Jules Beck to be its boxing matchmaker again this summer. . . . A promoter interested in taking over the Meyers Bowl also has sounded out Beck, and he's ready to accept the best proposition he can get. . . . Don't bet that the real reason Mrs. Max Baer is suing for divorce isn't the gymnasium incident in which the sandbag knocked Max for a loop. . . . Who wants to be the wife of a guy who can't lick a sandbag?

Found—One sports scribe who is not picking the Pirates to win the National League pennant. . . . He's Bill Corum, of the New York Evening Journal, who selects the Cards to finish first, with the Pirates second, the (Omigosh!) Phillies third and the champions of last year, the Chicago Cubs, fourth. . . . Even if he's wrong, no one can prove it until next fall. . . . Sports promoters overlooked a good bet. . . . They could have held a tournament to determine the first hic, the best hic and longest-sustained hic of the first day of the beer flow—that is, if there's a hic in a barrel of the stuff.

Lew Raymond formerly was a high-class burlesque actor, drawing down 90 bucks a week in the days when the run-of-mine comedians were lucky to get $75. . . . From this he drifted to handling classified advertising for a Jewish newspaper in New York, of which his father was editor, and then he picked up a half interest in a boxer, acquired some other boxers, and then was hired as a boxing matchmaker, and he's been that ever since. . . . He and a cigar are inseparable pals. . . . "I can do without eating and drinking," he says, as he regards his El Ropo De Roperino with fond eyes, "but so long as I have a good cigar to smoke, wodda I care if Joe Marcus can fight or not!"

Incidentally, speaking of Marcus, the latter's manager, Bunny Buntach, has a deal on with Jules Beck, the Motor Square matchmaker, whereby Marcus will leave town if he loses to Eduardo Duarry, the Cuban Negro lightweight, in the eight-round semi-final at the Garden next Monday night. . . . On the other hand, if Joe whips the dusky puncher, who stopped Marty McHale in a round at the Garden last Monday, Beck will have to use him on top in a later show . . . Marcus generally goes at his best against punchers, and he's just as apt as not to wind up having the last laugh, or at least a smile, in these days of conservation.—HARRY KECK.

Chiodo Rallies To Beat Datto

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 7.—(AP.)—After being knocked down four times in the first three rounds, Johnny Chiodo, of Johnstown, came back strong last night and won the judges' decision over Johnny Datto, of Pittsburgh, in eight rounds. Chiodo weighed 127½ pounds and Datto 126.

The Pittsburgher floored his opponent for a count of seven in the second and for the count of nine three times in the third. Datto was knocked to his knees in the third.

In the semi-final, Anson Green, 15, of Homestead, defeated Jack Wilson, 158, of Pittsburgh, six rounds. Dominick Mancini, 136, of Blairsville, won a decision over Charles Blozevich, 137, of St. Michaels was floored twice for nine in the first round.

BUC SEAT SALE OPENS MONDAY

The sale of tickets for the opening game of the local National League season at Forbes Field will be opened at 10 o'clock next Monday morning. The Pirates will meet the Cincinnati Reds in the local inaugural Thursday, April 20. The ducats will be on sale at the usual agencies and at the club headquarters.

With the opening game falling on a Thursday, the first Ladies' Day of the season will be held April 27. Boys' Day, for lads 12 years and under, will be held each Monday and Friday, holidays excepted, during July and August.

The Pittsburgh club will introduce a new wrinkle by way of letting the fans know whether or not there will be a game on home playing days. A flag with a red ball on a white field will be flown from a staff on top of the First National Bank Building. If the game is postponed, the flag will be hauled down.

South High Banquet Scheduled April 19

The South Side Businessmen's Association has set Wednesday evening, April 19 as the date for the banquet to be given the members of the South High School basketball and football squads.

The basketball team won the City championship and went as far as the semi-finals in the fight for the state crown.

Dr. H. C. Carlson, basketball coach at the University of Pittsburgh, will be the principal speaker. Dr. William A. Gregory is general chairman of the committee arranging the affair.

PANKA STOPPED

FAIRMONT, W. Va., April 7.—(AP.)—Buddy McArthur, 181, Fairmont, knocked out George Panka, 196, Homestead, Pa., in the second round of a 10-round final tonight. In the first round Panka twice was downed for counts of nine.

WAITE BAFFLES CHISOX, BUCS WIN, 9-8

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 7.—Two high points stood out in the Pirate camp today as Gibson's team neared the close of a long barnstorming tour. One was the latest indication that Larry French will pitch the opener for the Buccos at Cincinnati next Wednesday afternoon. The other development concerned Pitcher Waite Hoyt, who on top of a brilliant slab trick yesterday, assured Manager Gibson and other members of the club that he is close to his championship form and worthy to be called a Pirate starting pitcher.

The French nomination for the opener has been hinted before in these columns. Larry reached top form several weeks ago in California and while he has not been doing a lot of actual pitching recently the aggressive lefthander appears to be right on edge.

TO WORK TODAY

The fact that Larry has been selected to flip four or five innings against the Oklahoma Western League club this afternoon carries new opening day significance. By working French part of a contest today the left-hander should be at his peak at the end of the intervening four days which will elapse before the curtain goes up on the campaign.

Hoyt captured the imagination of Gibson and the other Pirates as Waite fooled the White Sox through three exciting rounds yesterday at Tulsa. The Buccos won an eight-inning struggle, 9 to 8, the contest being stopped to allow the Bucs to board a train for this city.

For an appreciative throng of almost 5,000 fans who assembled at the Pirate farm park to see the big league spectacle, the rush of the Pirates in the seventh, when they scored six runs to deadlock, was the big feature, but to the trained eye of Gibby and his aides the form shown by the erstwhile Yankee schoolboy bore significance.

WAITE IN FORM

Of course, it should be considered that Waite was working on batters whom he knew like a boy knows his story book. It was a picture to watch Hoyt duel with Al Simmons in the seventh. Waite took Al out of the picture on strikes and he did the trick with the mastery of an artist working on a canvas.

The first batter to face Waite when he entered the fray in the sixth was old man Walsh's boy, Eddie, Junior. Hoyt had two strikes and no balls on Junior Walsh when the kid spanked a hit to right. The little effrontery made Hoyt peeved and he allowed but one more hit, and this was a fluke.

Loose fielding on a wet field was largely responsible for the eight runs the Sox made off Meine, but the same soft field gave the Pirates the verdict at the finish. Gus Suhr scored Woodie Jensen with the winning run after two were out when Funk fell in fielding Gus' loft.

Chilly Sauce

When Arky Vaughan failed to stop Simmons' smash with the bases filled at Tulsa, the incident brought a timely remark from a fan, who obviously was an old-timer. He yelled:

"Put Wagner in there."

The Tulsa club owns many promising farmhands who may be a big aid to the Pirates in the future. Among the pitchers are Jim Bivin and Andy Bednar. The fo

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Well, folks, I am sitting up pretty late tonight to welcome in the new beer. It's just like Christmas Eve, and just as soon as the clock strikes 12 I know Santa Claus will come down the chimney with a couple of kegs on his back.

Nick Altrock

I have got two stockings hung over the fireplace, and they are made of rubber. The hosiery clerk told me the stockings held a couple of gallons apiece, so along about 3 a. m. I expect to be well heeled, if you know what I mean.

Say, I see the experts have awarded the pennant to the Yankees already. So the season is over before it's started and we might just as well start singing "Let's Put Out the Lights and Sell the Bulbs." And I might add an expert is a guy who will make a million-dollar prediction that he wouldn't bet a dime on himself.

W. P. G. A. TO STRESS ECONOMY DURING COMING SEASON

ALL DISTRICT TOURNEYS TO BE HELD

By TOM BIRKS

Economy was the keynote of the annual meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association at the Keystone Athletic Club last night, and Robert W. Smith, of the Greensburg Country Club, newly installed president, stressed the fact that while he felt that all of the regular tournaments should be held as usual, economy must be considered if the clubs making up the organization are going to weather the present economic situation.

The nominating committee, headed by Chairman Richard L. Long, did its work well. The executive slate inducted into office included Edward E. McCoy, of the Longue Vue Country Club, as vice president; George A. Ormiston, of Oakmont, secretary, and James F. Barber, of Alcoma, treasurer. A dinner preceded the annual meeting.

THREE CLUBS DROPPED

Three members of the association, Pup's Foot, Oakland Beach Golf Club and the Conneaut Lake Park Golf Club, were dropped for non-payment of dues.

Letters of resignation were received from the Sunnehanna Golf Club, of Johnstown, Titusville Country Club and the Kohkaw Club, of Erie. The resignations were not accepted and a committee appointed by President Smith to try to get the clubs to reconsider.

The chairman passed upon the death of two of the outstanding members of the association, Harry H. Hunter, of Oakmont, former president, and James Francis Burke, of Fox Chapel, former president and founder of the Father and Sons tourney. The association previously had sent a gift to John W. Carr, former Pittsburgh Field Club executive, who resigned from active work on the executive board. A letter of appreciation from Carr was read.

While it is expected that all of the regular tournaments will be held, there is some doubt regarding the status of the annual caddie tourney. The final decision has been left to the caddie welfare committee, composed of Edward McCoy, R. W. Smith, S. M. Parks, C. K. Browne and Tom Nichols.

STATE FEES CUT

The new executive committee is composed of S. M. Parks, C. G. Browne, A. K. Oliver and J. F. McGraw.

George H. Flinn, vice president of the Pennsylvania State Golf Association, spoke of the co-operation between the two bodies and informed the gathering that the state fee for handicap cards will be reduced this season.

Flinn also made the timely suggestion that all rotary, fraternal and civic bodies planning one-day tournaments get in touch with him so that no conflicting dates will be named. The state will have only five one-day tournaments this year instead of seven held last season.

BRING POWER OF HIPS-LEGS INTO SHOT

Much of the difference in the length of golf shots between the average player and the expert can, in some measure, be attributed to the latter's use of the hips and legs. The average player uses the upper part of the body, including the arms and shoulders, to some extent, but neglects almost entirely the vast power in the middle section of his body. This sometimes explains why an apparently weak golfer can outhit a player of proved physical strength.

The short hitter may turn his shoulders so that they are fairly at right angles to the hole, but he neglects to have his hips adopt a like action. Many of the long hitters have the whole of their back presented to the line of flight in the backswing.

In the downswing, the hips shift forward as they turn, bringing the weight into the shot. The shoulders do not generally turn this much, in fact, during the last part of the downswing, many of the golfers have the head and consequently the shoulders to a degree moving backward from the line of flight, as the picture of Jones will illustrate above. But the power of the hips and legs is added to the shot, which means a considerable gain in yardage.

The forward motion of the body here means that much difference. The average golfer would do well to try this formula, realizing at the same time that a moderate angle of the feet at address will aid him in the process of weight transference.

Don Hurst Given Raise by Phillies

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—It is understood the Phillies in inducing Don Hurst, star first baseman, to quit his holdout yesterday, gave him a contract calling for $8,000, a raise of $500. He has started East from his home in California.

NEW YORK.—(AP.)—J. Howard Shoemaker, of the New York A. C., won the national amateur pocket billiard championship last night, defeating the defending title-holder, Edward Fagan, of the Engineers' Club, in a three-block match, 375 to 330.

CHICAGO.—(AP.)—Jim Londos, of Greece, risks his claim to the world heavyweight wrestling championship against the rushes og Joe Savoldi, of Notre Dame football fame, tonight. A crowd of 20,000 was expected to jam the Chicago Stadium to watch the match.

BUTLER, Pa.—The Butler County Hunting and Fishing Club will hold a gathering at the Sterling Club here on Thursday, April 27, the proceeds of which will be donated to the Salvation Army. It is estimated a turnout of about 800 will participate.

LIGONIER, Pa.—Harry Marker, hero of many West Virginia University football games in the past two years, will be the honor guest at testimonial dinner here this evening. Earle (Greasy) Neale, Marker's coach for the past two seasons, will make the principal speech of the evening.

JOCKEY SUSPENDED

SAN BRUNO, Cal., April 7.—(AP.)—Clyde Turk, veteran jockey, has been removed from all mounts at the Tanforan race track here pending an inquiry into a race in which he rode Torch Wednesday. Track officials said Turk had admitted owning an interest in the horse, which they declared was against the rules.

NOVAK MAKES BIG RING TRY TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Frank Novak

Bill Simendinger, one of the smarter and younger of the local managers of boxers, is on the platform today asking for a New Deal.

Bill is by way of being manager of Frank Novak, of the North Side, a young heavyweight of parts, who was a knockout sensation as a local amateur, but has been having his troubles clicking as a professional. First he was too heavy for his height, being rather chunky in build. He finally drilled off some 20 pounds in the gymnasium and he has given several plucky exhibitions, but he just hasn't been able to get himself into a spot to do himself some good. His last time out, he was coming from behind with a terrific rally against Jack Pallat, of Cleveland, former national amateur champion, in the Arena, on the North Side, when he suffered a badly cut eye and the referee had to stop the battle in the tenth and final round and turn what was going to be a victory into a technical knockout defeat for him.

IN RETURN BATTLE

That was a month and a half ago. Neither Novak nor Pallat has been able to box since, so grueling was that battle. Tonight, they face each other again in the same ring, and it's only Novak's second main bout in his home town, the first having been with George Panka, last summer. That's why Manager Simendinger is a bit stirred up. He wants all and sundry to watch the work of his protege, and, if he comes through in good style, wants the promoters to give him a break against some of the better known names among the heavyweights. Asked just whom he included in this category, Bill replied:

"Well, we wouldn't stop at Tuffy Griffiths, Isadore Gastanaga, Hans Birke or Jimmy Braddock or someone in that class. You know, there isn't so much difference between the heavyweights. The way Novak punches, he's just as liable to knock out a good man as he is a bum. He'll look better against a good man. We'll never know how good he is until we give him a chance with someone of reputation. The very fact that Matchmaker Lew Raymond is putting him on top indicates his confidence in Frank."

DEVLIN MEETS RANDALL

Two other 10-rounders and two five-rounders make up the Beer Night program at the Arena. Danny Devlin, one of those tough welterweights from the Philadelphia sector, meets Tiger Joe Randell, of Elizabeth, in a bid for a crack at Ted Yarosz, and Frankie Edgren, light-heavyweight, of Cheyenne, Wyo., is in with Joe Doktor, of Buffalo, in the 10-rounders, and the two abbreviated bouts see George Pirrung, of Homestead, box Jack Kearns, New Castle heavyweight, and Curly Klaas, of the North Side, tangle with Mike Mitchell, Bellaire (O.) light-heavyweight. All big fellows on the card, ranging from middleweights to heavyweights, so the show ought to be a sockdolager, with the accent quite appropriately on the lager. The first bout is set for 8:30.

Between Rounds

Joe Glaser, manager of Andy Di Vodi, long-distances from Chicago that he is keeping his man there to train against a flock of good sparring partners and will have him in here Sunday morning in tip-top condition to sub for Tommy Freeman against Ted Yarosz in the main bout at Motor Square Garden, Monday night. It's been a few years since Andy made his only other appearance here, against Buck McTiernan at the Meyers Bowl. That night, Buck hit him a pip of a left hook in the body and he went down claiming a foul and got away with it. Since then he has been fighting very successfully on the Coast and has been in Chicago only a short time. Glaser also has Dick Daniels, the heavyweight, who defeated Johnny Risko a second time in Cleveland last week.

Joe Doktor, who meets Frankie Edgren at the Arena tonight, has boxed Baxter Calmes, Natie Brown, K. O. Christner, Frankie Cawley, Young Stribling, Elzear Rioux, Buck Everett and others.

All of the local lightweights are steering clear of Mike Barto, the hard-hitting southpaw, of New Kensington, who knocked out Charley Blozevich in his most recent start. He would like to box Fritzie Zivic.

The Arena is working on a double windup show for next week, when it will operate on Thursday night instead of on Good Friday. Jackie Wilson and Johnny Pena may box the main bout, with Jimmy Thomas meeting Pete De Grasse in a co-feature.

Tony Marino will box as a bantamweight when he swings into action again in a few weeks, following a layoff since November, because of a bad hand. He boxed Bobby Leitham and Ernie Maurer, both in Toronto, just before going on the shelf.

DUNLAP LEADS TOOMER IN GOLF FINAL

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

By GIB MARSH

The present atmosphere of chaos and confusion amid the lawmakers in session at Harrisburg conveys the impression that not much consideration will be given the various measures for amending and redrafting the game and fish codes submitted to them at the first of the year. With so many more important measures dealing with utilities, unemployment, banking, beer permit distribution and the complications existing in the Public Service Commission, it is natural that the lawmakers hardly will be concerned about game and fish codes.

And, as the lawmakers are disorganized, lack leadership and are far apart in their versions of the major state problems, even some of those major problems will not be disposed of at this session, so the anglers will find fishing regulations about the same as in former seasons and the hunters will not be able to observe any difference in the hunting regulations when they go into the fields next fall.

With the bitterness and strife existing among the lawmakers it probably is for the best that the many game and fish measures are not submitted to them for final disposal. Not in the last 20 years has there been a more capable observer of our lawmaking bodies in Harrisburg than Mark Shields, political writer for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, who contends that even favorable, progressive legislation hardly will weather the atmosphere of turmoil.

However, the sportsmen need not be apprehensive. The present codes governing the hunting and angling sports are not so faulty. The regulations for small and big game shooting always are within the grip of the game commissioners. When John M. Phillips, former president of the Game Commission, had written into the present game code the clause empowering the commissioners with the authority to change the opening and closing of seasons and raising or reducing the bag limits, closing the entire state or sections thereof on various species of game, he provided the proper protection for the hunters and their sport.

The game commissioners will heed petitions from the sportsmen requesting changes of openings and closings of seasons and raising and reducing of bag limits or any other changes which have merit.

NEW BASEBALL JOB SOUGHT BY MACKEY

Leo Mackey, who was on the farm staff of the New York Yankees for three seasons, winning two pennants at Chambersburg and Cumberland, is looking for a job. The Cumberland team last year, in the Middle Atlantic League, will not operate this season, so a good minor league manager and a crackerjack catcher is out of work.

Mackey admitted today that the prospects of going away at this late date did not look any too rosy, and that it was likely that he would line up with one of the independent clubs in the district.

Leo still is dickering with four out-of-town clubs, but none of the prospects can be called alluring. Leo left the Southern Association to pilot the Yankee entry at Chambersburg three seasons ago in the Blue Ridge League and later went to Cumberland.

The Yankee farm in the Middle Atlantic League this season is located in Wheeling.

Gentlemen:

It certainly was good news for us dealers when you reduced the price of "Phillies" (some call them "Hand-Made") from 10 cents to 5 cents. They sure are selling.

I've got one question. Many of my customers are asking whether the quality of these "Phillies" has been reduced.

I am telling them that the "Phillies" today is the same cigar -- with the same fine tobaccos -- as in 1929 when it was the largest-selling 10-cent brand in America. Am I right?

Whatever you say, goes with me -- for I've sold Bayuk Cigars for more than 20 years and you haven't fooled me yet.

STOCK MARKET CLOSING TONE IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP.)—Mining and oil shares enlivened a quiet session of the stock market today. For the list as a whole, net changes were narrow, but oils had their best day in weeks, and Homestake Mining, often a spectacular performer, outdid itself with a jump of nearly 20 points. The closing tone was firm.

As in recent sessions, the share market bulged up in the early trading, then slid back from the best, making rather less upward progress than in some recent sessions during the early trading. Profit taking developed in the grain markets, which tended to curb speculation for the rise in shares.

Oil shares evidently responded to indications of further progress toward successful proration. The Oklahoma Legislature last night passed a bill to strengthen proration enforcement. Gasoline prices have stiffened somewhat, with increases of about 1 cent a gallon in California this week.

Week-end business reviews again reported further spring pickup. Dun & Bradstreet said expanding activity in a wider diversity of lines has brought business in some branches to new high levels for the year. Stock market quarters continued inclined to caution, however, pending clearer indication of improvement in corporate earnings. Legal manufacture and distribution of beer, taking effect in many states today, was watched closely as a possible stimulant to general business. Transportation of this bulky product was expected to help truck manufacturers and the railroads. Chief interest in rail quarters, however, was centered upon the administration's co-ordination plan, expected shortly.

Steels were helped by further stiffening of scrap prices, and pick up in production here and there, although general operations remain at highly unprofitable levels for the industry as a whole. Coppers responded to a firming of red metal prices, with electrolytic futures in London rising about one pound sterling a ton. Rate problems and dividend uncertainties still hung over the utilities.

LATE SELLING HITS COTTON

NEW YORK, April 7.—A further advance of 6 to 10 points in cotton during today's early trading was followed by moderate reactions under realizing promoted by setbacks in grain and stocks. Otherwise no pressure developed, however, and prices stiffened again. July contracts which had sold off from 6.75 to 6.64 rallied to 6.70. The mid-afternoon market was steady at net advances of 3 to 5 points.

HEAVY CONSTRUCTION GAINS

Heavy engineering construction awards last week totaled $17,256,000, compared with $11,994,000 in the previous week and an average of $11,743,000 for the past four weeks, the Engineering News-Record reports.

Financial Markets Discounted Bank Rate Cut

Financial markets had pretty well anticipated the reduction in the rediscount rate announced late yesterday and the action, accordingly, was discounted in advance to a large extent. The lower official rate had been quite clearly foreshadowed by the abrupt letdown in acceptance rates which followed the reopening of the banks, and also by the rapidity with which member banks here had been able to liquidate their indebtednesses to the Reserve. The open money market, already at levels which called for a lower bank rate, was not subject to change, while federal bonds, having moved up briskly with easing of bill rates, was not especially responsive.

The weekly bank reports reflected further easing in the credit position. Figures for the system disclosed another reduction of sizeable proportions in total circulation to a level $1,277,000,000 under the peak registered on March 8 last. Gold holdings of the system were increased $42,000,000 and are now practically $600,000,000 above the early March minimum. Member bank borrowings were reduced moderately again and are approximately a billion under the peak while total reserve credits are now $1,070,000,000 under the early March top. The ratio in consequence rose nearly 2 per cent to 59.7 per cent in the week where it contrasted with the minimum of 45.6 per cent touched a month ago.

Selling of Consolidated Gas stock, both liquidation and short selling, is reported on talk that the dividend will be reduced to $3 at the meeting scheduled for the end of this month. Brokers in some instances feel that whether the dividend is cut or not the stock would attract investment buying should it break 40.

The recovery in grain prices since March 3 has been of the sensational variety. The movement of the cash markets has been a real boon to the farmer, with cash corn selling in Chicago for around 19 cents a bushel. The farmer in some sections of Iowa was getting only about 6 cents a bushel for corn sold on the farm. At prevailing prices of around 33 cents a bushel for cash corn in Chicago, the farmer is getting around 20 cents a bushel, about 200 per cent more than before.

The cut in the Columbia Gas and Electric dividend was anticipated. For the year 1932, the company earned only 96 cents a share on the common, and the new rate brings the dividend, paid in preferred stock, down to an 80 cent annaul basis. Columbia, by paying its common dividend in preferred stock, has effected very large savings in cash outgo, and these savings have enabled it to pay off bank loans. So far this year, loans have been cut about 30 per cent from the $19,500,000 outstanding at the end of 1932.

The report on carloadings due tomorrow, covering the week ended April 1 last, is expected to show an increase of about 18,000 cars over the total reported in the preceding week. Such an expansion would bring prospective total loadings to around 493,000 cars, which would stand about 9.5 per cent under the same week last year when 545,000 cars were moved. Compared with the same week in 1932, loadings for the preceding week were about 15.1 per cent smaller. If the actual figures confirm current estimates, it will be indicated that movement of traffic has risen the equivalent of some 55,000 cars since the low level of 438,000 cars was reported for the week ended March 11 when the banks were closed.

Columbia Gas Continues To Reduce Loans From Banks

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

COLUMBIA GAS AND ELECTRIC CORPORATION continues to make progress in reducing its indebtedness to banks. By the end of the present year it is quite probable that liabilities of this type either will be entirely paid off or will be reduced to a negligible amount.

The collapse of the business boom in 1929 found the company with a vast expansion program under way. The partially completed work of developing new gas fields, laying pipe lines and providing service in new territories had to be finished in order to give the investment already made a chance to yield a return.

Under normal conditions Columbia would have paid for this construction work through the sale of new securities. Market conditions made it possible to do only a small amount of new financing so that Columbia went heavily into debt to banks. In the past two years, however, in spite of unfavorable general business conditions, the company has been steadily paying off indebtedness from earnings.

Amount Reduced From $66,000,000

AT THE END of 1930, with a large part of the construction program to be completed, the company's notes payable exceeded $66,000,000. Even after the sale of $49,990,000 in 5 per cent bonds, indebtedness to banks at the end of 1931 amounted to $43,500,000.

During 1932 Columbia Gas was able to reduce its bank loans by $24,000,000. This brought the total down to $19,500,000 at the end of the year. The reduction in the loans was helped by the sale of $8,915,000 in bonds by the Dayton Power and Light Company, but the greater part of the funds came out of earnings.

The policy of paying common dividends in a new class of 5 per cent convertible preferred stock instead of cash made the reduction in debts possible.

Further Progress Reported This Year

THE COMPANY announced yesterday that bank loans now stand at $13,500,000. This indicates a reduction of $6,000,000 since the beginning of the year. No construction work of major importance is now under way, so that the complete elimination of funded debt does not appear to be distant. Earnings usually are small during the summer months so that progress during the second and third quarters may not be as rapid as during the first quarter but the complete elimination of indebtedness to banks by the end of the year will be quite possible.

The reduction in the quarterly dividend on the common stock from 25 cents a share to 20 cents a share, payable in the new class of preferred stock, brings the dividend into line with earnings.

In 1932 net profit after deducting all charges was $17,204,675, which was equivalent to 96 cents a share on the common stock, after deducting preferred dividends. In 1931 net profit was $22,331,888 or $1.42 a share.

Exchange Probes Transactions In C. & N. W.

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP.)—The committee on business conduct of the New York Stock Exchange today had ordered an investigation into all transactions in the securities of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway Wednesday.

This was an aftermath of the severe break in the securities of the road, which was attributed by the management to baseless rumors of an impending receivership.

LOCAL MARKET HAS FIRM TONE

Stocks on the Pittsburgh Exchange were firm today. Price fluctuations were confined to a narrow range. Trading volume remained light. A greater part of the local list stood at prices close to the last closing level.

The brewing issues continued to provide a large share of the trading activity but quotations showed little change. Apparently the large volume of beer sales was expected and was fully discounted by the market weeks ago.

GRAINS CLOSE NERVOUS, OFF

CHICAGO, April 7.—Vacuums which developed at times today in speculative demand for grains forced a maximum fall of 3½ cents a bushel in corn.

All grains, however, received good buying support after price downturns, and wheat recovered to about yesterday's finish in the late dealings. In many quarters, traders adopted a waiting attitude, pending new legislative developments at Washington and in regard to currency inflation possibilities.

Wheat closed nervous at the same as yesterday's finish to ¼c lower; corn, ⅜ to ⅞c down; oats, ¼ to ½c off, and provisions unchanged to 7c decline.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Dunhill International, Inc., reports 1932 net loss of $51,945, against loss of $277,268 in 1931.

Northern Pacific Railroad February net loss amounted to $1,804,164, compared with net loss of $837,088 for February, 1932, and for two months totaled $3,247,907, against $1,705,166 in the first two months of 1932.

GOLD RESERVE NOW HIGHEST SINCE 1931

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP.)—A circulating currency that is bulwarked by a 73 per cent gold base is the answer Uncle Sam can give to any charges that this country has embarked on a program of issuing unsound money.

This fact is embodied in statistics of the Federal Reserve Board covering the condition of the 12 Federal Reserve banks during the week ended April 5. The statement showed that in response to the President's call for a segregation of gold a total of $3,278,837,000 had been restored to the Treasury and its agencies, bringing the total of such reserves to their highest point since August, 1931. Of the total, $2,651,884,000 was held exclusively against Federal Reserve notes.

WEEK'S GAIN HUGE

Against this gold reserve the government had outstanding a total of $3,644,137,000 of federal reserve notes in actual circulation, while only $15,930,000 of the new Federal Reserve Bank notes, constituting the much-discussed "new money," was in actual circulation. Thus far, only five of the 12 regional banks have availed themselves of the new currency which is backed by "sound assets."

The week's influx represented a gain of $42,071,000 of the precious metal during the week, and a total return of $595,298,000 since the call went out early last month for its muster.

Only the banks at Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland and St. Louis have employed the new currency, the amount outstanding gaining $1,702,000 during the week. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York, however, retired $108,000 from actual circulation during the week, apparently portraying increasing confidence as pictured by lessened demand, in the most important financial center in this country.

BANKS IMPROVING

In addition, the statement revealed that the monetary gold stocks of the country had increased $11,000,000 during the week to a total of $4,283,000,000, or roughly 37 per cent of the world's estimated total of $11,600,000,000. The level, however, was $113,000,000 less than for the same week of last year.

A further restoration of normal banking activities, and dehoarding, brought money in circulation down $92,000,000 during the week to a total of $6,261,000,000, which is $1,277,000,000 less than the peak reached during the banking crisis early in March.

Attorney General Cummings said no attempt has yet been made to determine what action the Justice Department might take after May 1, the end of the period fixed by President Roosevelt for turning in gold and gold certificates.

GERMAN BONDS WEAK SPOT

NEW YORK, April 7.—(INS.)—A resumption of heavy selling of German government and municipal bonds late in the session today influenced irregular tendencies in other sections of the bond market, although closing quotations were generally higher on the average.

The price range in the German list was unusually wide, with the International 5½s breaking from an early high at 41¾ to 38, while the external 7s slumped from 64 to a new 1933 low at 60.

Rails were disposed to back away from the late offerings although good scale down support came into the more speculative issues, which held a part of their earlier advances.

U. S. Governments lacked buoyancy, although the majority of issues finished moderately higher on the day.

BROKER LOANS UP $5,000,000

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(INS.)—Loans to brokers from New York member banks increased $5,000,000 to a total of $376,000,000 during the week ended April 5, the Federal Reserve Board reported.

The loans were: For own accounts, $347,000,000; for accounts of out-of-town banks, $25,000,000; for accounts of others, $4,000,000.

N. Y. May Liquidate Insurance Company

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP.)—Following upon the collapse of plans to reorganize the Globe and Rutgers Fire Insurance Company, which had policies totaling $5,655,835,333 outstanding at the end of 1931, Geoge S. Van Schaick, state superintendent of insurance, announced he was petitioning the Supreme Court for an order authorizing liquidation of the company.

At the same time he obtained authority from the court to reinsure with the American Insurance Company certain risks which had been reinsured with the Globe and Rutgers.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 7.—Enough buying power manifested itself in curb stocks to carry the advance of the last two days through the forenoon today. Thereafter realizing and a slowing of the bullish impulse took some in good sized recessions from the high levels.

SCHACHT SEES DEBT DEFAULT

BERLIN, April 7.—(AP.)—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, new head of the Reichsbank, in a report adopted today at a general meeting of the bank, said that unless Germany's export trade improved a situation might arise affecting the payment of private debts.

While he emphasized that Germany would at all costs meet commercial obligations conscientiously in order not to lose the confidence of foreign nations, he intimated any unfavorable development in foreign trade would be felt ultimately.

Germany's export surplus is so far behind expectations, he said, foreign countries must realize the seriousness of Germany's foreign currency position, as a development of the nation's foreign trade, must have inevitable consequences.

The national political upheaval, he continued, "freed Germany from an illusion that cost us much, namely, that only foreign help can improve our economic situation."

Reform of the German banking situation, including the Reichsbank, he declared, could now proceed without upsetting the nation's economic life.

The Reichsbank head said he hoped the payment during the next few days to creditors of $70,000,000 rediscount credit in gold which was due March 4 would impress the world with the seriousness of Germany's foreign exchange situation, but he denied that it was a deliberate attempt to exaggerate the weakness of Germany's position in international exchange.

NEW YORK BANK CUTS RATE

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP.)—The New York Federal Reserve Bank today had cut its rediscount rate to 3 per cent from 3½ per cent. It had been at the latter level since March 2, when it was advanced from 2½ per cent.

This reduction was interpreted in banking quarters as reflecting the relaxation of tension in the money market after the March banking crisis. Money rates generally have been coming down, after the flurry coincident to the banking holiday.

Oil Output Falls In Two Pa. Fields

BRADFORD, Pa., April 7.—(AP.)—The Era says crude oil production for the first quarter in the Bradford and Allegheny fields dropped approximately 2,500 barrels below the daily average for the same period of last year.

The newspaper states that the Bradford average was 25,527 barrels, while the Allegheny field produced 6,288 barrels.

OIL CITY, Pa., April 7.—(AP.)—The Derrick says oil well completions east of the Rockies for March totaled 880, with an initial production of 238,755 barrels.

Completions mounted over February's figure of 849, which represented initial production of 231,155.

Forbes Here Uncovers a Curb Scene

By B. C. FORBES

THE MOST frigid reception I ever encountered was when I appeared before the governors of the New York Curb Exchange to warn them against flagrant stock jobbery in one of the ill-starred Charles V. Bob's ill-starred exploitations.

Mr. Forbes

Although I had known some of the governors from the days they and the whole curb market did business, not under a roof, but out in the street in rain, shine or storm, they frowned condemningly the moment I was ushered in.

They treated me, so I felt, as if I were a prisoner at the bar. They seemed to resent bitterly my suggestion that they investigate Bob's career and what befell buyers of previous Bob projects.

They informed me that, as a result of my communication to them, they had "investigated" the reasons for the sensational sky-rocketing of one Bob stock which was then flagrantly under way. The cause was that this company had received a renewal of an old contract!

Later a curb friend intimated that if I knew how much business some of the curb members were deriving from the violent manipulation of Bob shares, I would understand perfectly why my "butting into the game" was so keenly resented.

Of course, the whole Bob bubble burst exactly as was to have been expected and the losses suffered by those who had been sucked into the "game" on the curb were tragic.

Since then the Curb Exchange, in harmony with the New York Stock Exchange, has substantially tightened trading and other regulations, and it is today a vastly more important entity than it was when, as a young financial reporter, I personally collected all transactions every day from the handful of brokers then constituting the curb market, in the middle of Broad street.

It is not astonishing, however, that New York State Attorney General Bennett is investigating the Curb's practice of trading in "unlisted" securities, meaning securities of corporations which have refused or neglected to furnish information, demanded before a stock is admitted to the official list.

My own opinion is that both the stock exchange and the curb exchange authorities are now anxious to go the limit in removing cause for public hostility and that it is extremely desirable not to pass any legislation which would impair the vast usefulness of the nation's leading security exchanges.

Facilities to buy and sell stocks are just as essential as facilities to buy and sell food and clothing.

A SMALL-CITY banker, A. M. Johnston, thus takes up the cudgels, in a letter to this column, on behalf of bankers:

> "I cannot conceive of any good reason why bankers should refuse to use their influence and every dollar of available funds for the promotion of industry, new or old, unless it might be fear that the demands of depositors might make such a course impossible.
> "The bank with which the writer has been connected for more than 30 years is at present, by governmental regulations, restricted in releasing funds. This condition was found necessary only because of an honest effort in the past to meet the needs of industry, then and still considered legitimate and secure, but now proving slow and frozen through no fault of the creditor, but simply as a result of the depression, for which neither bankers nor industrial leaders are entirely responsible.
> "No doubt this widely-existing banking condition is responsible for the apparent reluctance of a few absolutely liquid banking institutions to grant the extensive financial support their periodical statements seem to warrant, principally through fear of the ever-present potential or real demand of depositors."

SO LONG as commodity and security prices trend upwards, there's little to fear.

New Group Buys Shubert Theaters

NEW YORK, April 7.—(INS.)—Assets of the Shubert Theater Corporation and its affiliates were purchased for $400,000 today at a bankruptcy sale by the Select Theaters Corporation, Inc., a new organization headed by Lee Shubert.

The assets sold included ownership or interest in leases of 28 theaters in New York and other cities, as well as stock in various theatrical productions and scenery and stage equipment in warehouses.

Money Develops Further Easiness

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP.)—Further easiness developed in the New York money markets today.

Call loans on the stock exchange dropped to 1½ per cent in the afternoon, the lowest rate since the 1 per cent renewal figure on March 1, while funds were available unofficially at 1¼ per cent against Yesterday's 1½ per cent rate. Time funds dipped to 1@1¼ per cent against 1@1½ yesterday.

'NEW DEAL' AIM TO SUPPLY LEADERSHIP

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, April 7.—The depression has resulted from a breakdown of management in the large.

Mr. Rukeyser

The "new deal" administration is seeking to supply leadership which has been so sorely needed. The success of the reconstruction policies will be conditioned by the attitudes and acts of private business. The country cannot go forward solely by means of enacting laws.

In the circumstances, business leaders are too passive, and are looking too much to "mama government" for guidance.

BUSINESS PASSIVE

As matters stand, the highest patriotism for a business leader does not consist of making a speech of loyalty, but rather in launching within the confines of his own enterprise a practical plan which will add to the sum total of available employment.

The unintentional business conspiracy to "wait and see" instead of to "do and dare" has been deepening the depression.

When the businessmen of the country foregather at Washington next month, from May 2 to 5, at the annual convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, it is to be hoped that the theme will be forward looking action, rather than mere talk.

REBOUND STARTED

In announcing the meeting, the chamber says:

> "This year's meeting comes at a time when the country is beset with economic difficulties. Business, buffeted through more than three years of worldwide economic depression, still faces a future of uncertainty. The government itself has already made headway with some of the problems that must be solved if the difficulties that check our economic advance are to be overcome.
> "Business organizations have a major part to play in identifying the forces which prevent recovery and of advancing measures to correct them."

The "New Deal," with the vast changes in economic regulatory measures, has stirred up the statistical companies to formulate new service to interpret the changes to business organizations directly affected.

Business went so low during the bank holiday that it generated energy for a rebound which has been under way.

mer has taken on enough weight to give him a much better chance at the major league stuff.

The White Sox are said to have dickered for Andy Bednar, who had a banner season for Tulsa last summer, but the major magnates have not been putting out the money freely during the depression.

Clarke, Wagner, Gibson sitting on one bench, now isn't that a picture for any fan's story book? There they were on the bench at Tulsa yesterday, and Boss Gibby wants Fred to don Pirate regalia today.

The dashing pilot and left fielder of the old-time Buccos traveled with Honus and Gibby and the rest from Tulsa to Oklahoma City. For a year and a half, Fred has been receiver for the famous 101 Ranch, but he was able to get free of the big responsibility three days ago and he feels great.

Had it not been for the unpleasantness in Amarillo, the four-day jaunt of the Pirates and White Sox would have been a corking success financially. Each team picked up something like $1,000 for their eight-hour stopover at Tulsa.

The Pittsburghers parted company with the Sox in Tulsa. Louis Fonseca and his hustlers hurried to Chicago to take on the Cubs. The two teams will stage a city series tomorrow and Sunday.

Squash Tourney Pairings Are Made

Bill Bickel will meet Cy Polley, Charley Fagan will tangle with Jack Nitterauer, and Jean Casper will engage Harry Hawkins (all local players named first) in the three matches marking the opening of the two days' intercity squash racquets tournament between Buffalo and Pittsburgh, at the Keystone A. C. tomorrow afternoon. Play will be concluded Sunday afternoon.

Westinghouse Nears Volleyball Final

Westinghouse High School's volleyball team needs only one more victory to gain the final round of the city scholastic tournament. Yesterday, the Silver Lakers defeated Fifth Avenue, 10-15, 15-5, 15-9.

Peabody already has gained the final round.

In the junior division, Overbrook downed Liberty, 10-15, 15-11, 15-4, yesterday.

CHAPTER XV.

Sharlie lay awake for hours in Gertrude's bed, angry and sick to her very soul . . . To think of her mother putting her out of the flat so she could have Maud Hanaberry and those two men there for the evening! And to think of her doing it the very first night that her own husband and Maud's husband were out of town!

"It's cheating—that's what it is!" thought Sharlie as she stared into the darkness. "It isn't fair to dad!"

Synopsis

Pretty Sharlie Dunn is forced by her mother to marry Eddie Wallis, young ne'er-do-well, after Sharlie had spent the night in his car, which had run out of gas. Although Sharlie enjoys Eddie's company, she is not in love with him. After the ceremony, Eddie takes Sharlie to live in his untidy apartment. That night Eddie is killed by an automobile. Sharlie returns to her mother's home. Mrs. Dunn and her friend, Maud Hanaberry, plan a party while their husbands are away. Sharlie is sent to her grandmother's. Finding her grandmother out, Sharlie goes to a dance hall. She meets a young man named Percy who insists on taking her home. Frightened, she phones Jim Barnum, a neighbor's son, who takes her to his home. Peeking in a window, she sees her mother and Maud Hanaberry with two men.

Now Go On

He was the one who was paying for the party, she went on thinking. His money had bought Dodie's pink evening dress and slippers. It had paid for the very sandwiches that Sharlie had seen Dodie toasting in the oven!

The walls of the apartment houses were not very thick. And every now and then a muffled burst of laughter came from the Dunns' flat. Once someone bumped against the wall.

At 2 o'clock Sharlie heard the clock in the Barnums' living-room strike, and a few minutes afterward there was a sound of laughter and loud voices from the landing outside.

"Goodnight, Norman!—Goodnight, Jody!"

"Goodnight! — Goodnight, girls!"

Then more loud goodnights.

Moving very slowly and stealthily, Sharlie got out of bed and tiptoed into the living room. From the Barnums' front windows she saw the two men cross the street and climb into a big cream-colored roadster that stood against the curb.

They started it with a roar and streaked away down the street.

Early morning in the Barnum household was a time of pleasant hurry and bustle.

SLEEPS LATE

At eight o'clock Sharlie woke up to the sound of water running in the tub in the bathroom next door to Gertrude's room.

The green blinds of the room were drawn and only a thin line of sunlight showed beneath them. In the half-light she could see Gertrude's little clock on the dresser.

"Oh, it's early — for Sunday morning," she thought and went back to sleep.

The next time she woke up it was nine. Mrs. Barnum, flushed and smiling above her print housedress, was standing in the doorway.

"Jim's gone out for a drive, and you girls can come to the table in your bathrobes if you like," she said to them. Breakfast's all ready."

There was a bowl of nasturtiums on the table in the cool dining room. There was iced cantaloupe to eat and poached eggs on toast and the best coffee that Sharlie had ever drunk.

"Well, Sharlie, I hope your mother's little party went off nicely last night," Mrs. Barnum said, in her innocence, when they were seated at the table. I heard them all having such a good time when I went to bed."

At 9:30 Sharlie unlocked the door of her mother's flat. There wasn't a sound to be heard in it. The rooms were as silent as an enchanted palace.

PLACE UNTIDY

There were at least a dozen tall, empty glasses standing on the big table between the windows. Every ash tray in the room was filled with cigaret stubs and there was a thin, gray film of ash everywhere.

Four of the sofa cushions lay on the floor. In the middle of the rug were a pair of dice and a big platter with two or three dried-up sandwiches on it.

And over all this was the odor of stale orange juice and alcohol. It hung in the air like poisonous gas of some kind.

Her mother lay sleeping like a child, her long lashes etched upon her cheeks and one hand tucked under her cheek.

Some women show their age in their sleep and Maud was one of that kind. From where she stood Sharlie could see the deep lines that ran from Maud's nostrils to the corners of her painted mouth. The cold cream she had smeared on over her makeup only served to bring out all the shadows and sagging places in her face.

As Sharlie looked at her she opened her eyes. Then she sat bolt upright in her bed. "Great Galusha! How you startled me, standing there like an owl, Sharlie Dunn!"

She reached out for the jewelled wrist watch that lay beside her on the bedside table. She looked at it sheepishly, rubbing the back of her neck with one hand.

"Oh, it's early," she sighed, and sank back upon her pillows.

"Be a nice child and make your Aunt Maud some coffee," she said after a little pause.

GRANDMOTHER CALLS

On her way out to the kitchen Sharlie saw that the receiver of the telephone was hanging by its cord. As she bent over to pick it up Maud called to her:

"Don't touch the telephone, Sharlie. Your mother and I don't want to be bothered by it all morning . . . It would be just like the men to call us up from Bowdie."

"All right," snapped Sharlie.

"I wish she'd get her own coffee," she said bitterly to herself as she began to fill the percolator in the kitchen.

There were three or four burned pieces of toast and cheese on the open door of the oven. She was scraping them off with a knife when the door bell rang shrilly through the flat.

"That's probably a telegram for me, Sharlie!" she heard her mother call as she hurried to answer the door. "Bring it to me!"

But it was not a telegram.

When she opened the door, Grandmother Dunn was coming up the stairs from the vestibule.

She was dressed for church and had her prayer book in her gloved hands.

DISAPPROVAL

"Well, here you are!" she exclaimed breathlessly as she reached the top. "I've been trying to get this place on the phone all morning! I wondered what on earth had happened to you! Mis' Hinman told me you were expecting to spend the night with me!"

She came into the living room. "She came over about an hour ago and asked me if you'd got in all right last night and—Land's sake! What's happened here?"

Her sharp eyes took in the untidy room with its empty liquor glasses, its dice, its scattered pillows, its dried-up sandwiches on the floor.

"Mother had some people in last night, and I spent the night next door," Sharlie was beginning to explain when her mother came hurrying into the room.

"What's all this?" she asked quickly. "Do you mean to tell me you didn't stay at your grandmother's house last night?"

DODIE REPRIMANDED

"I went to Grandmother's," Sharlie answered with dignity. "When I found she wasn't there I came back to the Barnums."

Her mother's eyes narrowed. "I can't trust her any more, Mother Dunn," she said. "I'll have to go over to the Barnums and ask whether she was there or not . . . I promised her father I wouldn't let her out of my sight while he was gone."

Grandmother swept another look around the room.

"Seems to me somebody ought to be keeping an eye on you, too, while he's out of town," she said, crisply. "I don't hold with women giving drinking parties at any time—and least of all when they're alone in the house."

Dodie's eyes filled with tears. Tears came easily to her always.

"Sending Sharlie out of the house, too—" Grandmother was beginning again when she stopped her.

"Maud was here with me," she said.

"Maud!" said Grandmother, in the tone that she would have used if she had been saying "Jezebel!"

CORONATION OF QUEEN VICTORIA (1838)

Only 18 years of age, Victoria, a niece of the late King William IV ascended the English throne. Disturbances, life the Chartists agitation, insurrection in Canada, English-Chinese war, Indian mutiny occurred during her rule. (World's History.)

SEARLES LAKE, CALIFORNIA (CHEMISTRY)

This is a salt flat of an approximate area of eleven square miles, seventy feet thick, and impregnated with brine of a 2.5% potash content. The quantity of potash is estimated 20 million tons. The most valuable compounds present in this potash are: potassium chloride (KCl) 13% and sodium tetraborate (Na 2 B4 07) 4.3%. The potash is obtained through evaporation from the brine in multiple—effect evaporators (see issue of April 5.), and the different salts by separate crystallization, a very successful method based on elaborate research in the physical chemistry.

ERUPTION DUE TO MITES

The harvest mite is small, almost microscopic, and is predaceous on other insects like wheat joint worm and grain moth. Workmen while threshing wheat or people that sleep on straw-filled mattresses may be attacked by them resulting in intolerable itching eruptions, headache and fever. Cure by sulphur ointment and fumigation of mattresses and clothing. (Metcalf and Flint, Insects) (Science.)

MAKING OF EARTHEN WARE AND CHINA

Left: The forming is made by pressing or clay the separately pressed pieces belonging to the casting. The presser works the clay with his same unit, punches the holes and smooths the surhands into the plaster molds, sticks together with face. After drying, they become the "green ware."

Center: The casting is a mechanical process three times as fast as the pressing. The clay is reduced again to "slip" in a "blunger" (see issue April 5), mixed with salts to proper viscosity, stored in tanks, from where it flows through overhead pipes to the casting benches. The locked molds are filled with "slip" through funnels, allowed to set, stripped, finished, dried, sponged and sandpapered.

Old Doc Baer on Spring Tonics

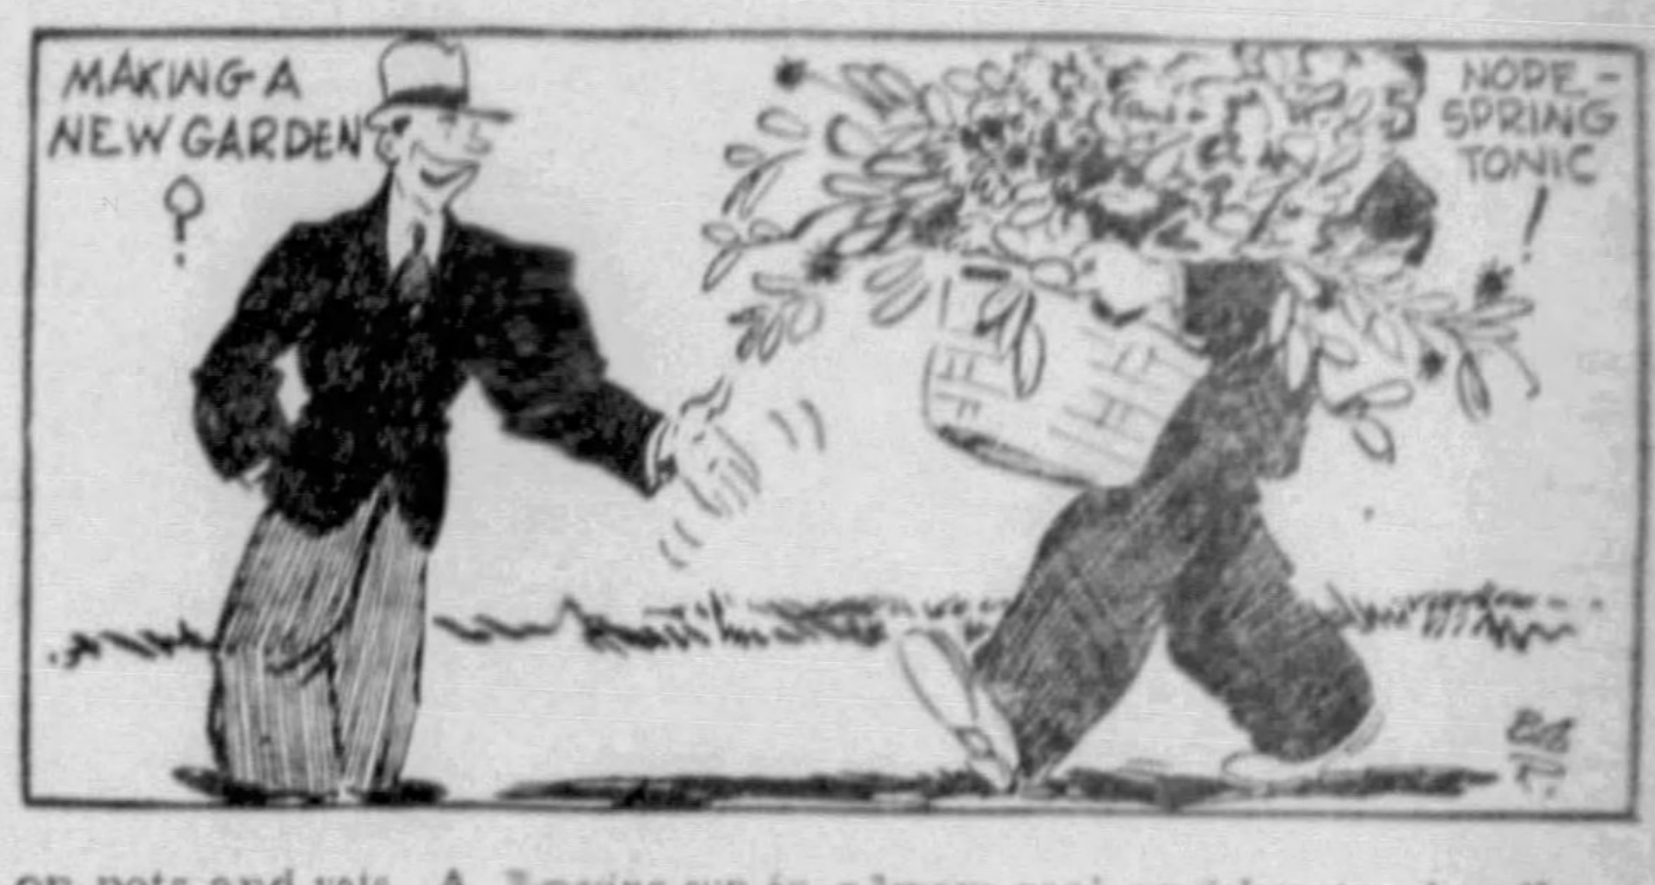
We're getting right down into the spring fever department and all good doctors order broccoli for themselves and prescribe spinach for you.

The woods will soon be full of rare herbs and roots. The more you eat the better off you will be. We'll hedge a little there on that statement. The better off you should be. Sometimes our investments and blueprints go wrong.

Go into the thickets and pull up all the weeds, underbrush and rare old plants you stumble over. Boil them and eat them in the spirit of our pioneers. Chew the bark off trees and nibble on fence-posts until you get the right herbivorous technique. If it does you no good it doesn't cost you a dime. That's why the medical profession is in arms against The Bug. He saves you everything but your life.

Let's say you have read this far and have been into the woods and back again. You return with a generous market basket full of healthy vegetation the cows couldn't eat. A little dash of loco weed will add pep and zest to the swamp salad.

Cook over a slow fire, timing yourself to the split second by a lumberyard calendar. At the end of three years rush in and grasp the boiler by the waist. Strange thing about burning your hands on pots and vats. A loving cup is always cool and has two handles. A stew pan is always red hot and has but one handle. If this is an example of the new deal we will eat our carrots and turnips raw.



MAKING A NEW GARDEN?
NOPE-SPRING TONIC!

While the medicinal alfalfa is cooking it will throw off an aroma something like a garage for trucks. That aroma is steam and will remove blackheads. When a thing is good it is good for everything.

If you have followed directions carefully to this point there may be a slight difficulty. Your relatives might look in the kitchen and decide that you are no longer mentally capable of administering your own property.

You can circumvent those kind of people by hiring a cook who is also a good lawyer.

After the herbs and stinkweeds and the suburban debris have cooked to the consistency of glucose we suggest you place a spring-board on the edge of the Grand Canyon and take some diving lessons.

Lost Revenue

Delay in the Beer Bill Is Depriving Pennsylvania of Money Badly Needed for Poor Relief.

In a telegram sent by the Allegheny County Relief Board to the State Relief Board the assertion is made that Allegheny County will need for this purpose during the next 12 months $17,000,000, and the state will need $120,000,000, only a small part of which can be raised by local communities.

A serious emergency is faced here, it is declared, if state funds are not made available at once, as exhaustion of the present resources on April 11 will deprive 65,000 families in the county of food and bring about the gravest social consequences.

The statement is made over the signatures of A. K. Oliver, chairman of the County Relief Board; Mayor John S. Herron; Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of Welfare; Thomas A. Dunn, president of the Chamber of Commerce; William P. Witherow, chairman of the Welfare Fund, and other responsible citizens.

In view of this pressing need, the failure of the Legislature to enact a fair beer bill promptly is doubly reprehensible.

Beer is one commodity which can be taxed without causing complaint. Everybody expects the state to tax beer.

Every day in which beer is sold in Pennsylvania without the payment of a state tax means the loss of considerable revenue, which could be applied to poor relief.

Grant that the Legislature may soon lay aside its selfishness and factionalism and enact a regulatory law which will bring the State Treasury in beer taxes some of the dollars so sorely required to keep the unemployed from starving.

Arbor Day

Not Only the Federal and State Governments But Private Land Owners Should Plant Trees.

This is Arbor Day in Pennsylvania, and throughout the state schools and women's clubs and patriotic and civic organizations are planting trees with appropriate exercises.

Especially noteworthy is the tree planting demonstration which the Department of Forests and Waters is conducting in the Bushy Run Battlefield Park in Westmoreland County, three miles north of Jeannette.

President Roosevelt's plan to put idle men to work in the forests has directed public attention to the desirability of restoring timber on denuded land which is unfit for the plow. Forests prevent erosion of the soil, help to conserve the water supply and to prevent floods, and, of course, furnish that most necessary of all materials—a material used in every stage of life from the cradle to the coffin—wood.

The United States government and the state government are alive to the importance of reforestation. Private owners of land should also join this movement.

It is gratifying to learn from the Department of Forests and Waters that many persons will plant trees on a wholesale scale this spring. The department sells seedlings grown in the state nurseries to the citizens at $2 a thousand, and transplants, which are larger than the seedlings, at $5 a thousand.

Charles R. Meek, chief of the Bureau of Forest Extension at Harrisburg, reports that about 1,600 orders for a total of 6,000,000 trees for spring planting have been received, and that 287,000 of the trees will go to 51 planters in Allegheny County.

Coal companies, steel companies, farmers and others who own tracts of land useless for other purposes should join in this movement to bring back "Penn's Woods."

The department still has about 1,000,000 seedlings, including pitch pine, Japanese larch and Norway spruce, available for spring planting.

What a fine thing it would be for Allegheny County if many of them should be set out in this vicinity, to beautify ugly spots in the landscape and at the same time bring economic benefit!

Breaking the Deadlock

Corporations Must Be Encouraged to Launch Job Creating Projects Now.

President Roosevelt's efforts to break the backbone of the economic depression deserve the united support of all groups of Americans.

These include measures for farm and unemployment relief.

To achieve their fullest effects, these public policies should be reinforced by increased private spending.

Up to the present, numerous corporations have found it selfishly advantageous to postpone commitments, yet the cumulative effect of such waiting has been to deepen the depression.

In order to break the deadlock, two thoughtful businessmen have devised plans to employ federal credit to induce hesitant private executives to launch job-creating projects now, instead of waiting. Thus, private activities would heighten the constructive effect of simultaneous launching of accelerated public works.

Both of these supplementary plans are under consideration in important quarters. Col. Malcolm C. Rorty has proposed that the government grant subsidies (to be determined by competitive bidding) to those who will push forward private construction projects now.

Under the complementary Kent plan, Fred I. Kent, director of the Bankers' Trust Company, New York, has suggested that federal credit be used to guarantee selected industries against loss on increased production.

Both schemes are designed to give an incentive for starting job-giving activities now, instead of drifting passively toward lower levels. The sponsors of both believe that the plans could be financed out of taxes on the increased volume of trade.

In order to assure a reversal of business psychology, the federal government should release a further flood of good economic news.

Congress should supplement the foregoing remedial proposals with a liberal act modernizing the anti-trust laws and with a plan of tax revision, including the manufacturers' sales tax.

The reversal of the downward trend requires vast leverage, and Congress should not hesitate to give the final push that is necessary for genuine success.

"The more I see of the conduct of our foreign relations, the more I am convinced that we are better off out of the League."

—Calvin Coolidge in his "Autobiography."

Calvin Coolidge was right. America IS better off out of the League of Nations, and out of the League Court, too. For they are the same thing.

In the Coolidge Administration attempts were made to put the United States into the League Court. But the scheming nations of Europe rejected the reservations to protect American interests. The Root Protocol was substituted and was not accepted by our Senate.

Then Calvin Coolidge, like a patriotic President, dropped the League Court issue. He saw that what Europe wanted from us was "unconditional surrender."

And America does not now belong in a court dominated by foreign nations, where the selfish Old-World politics of Europe will dictate in American affairs.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 7—Thoughts while strolling: How brave humanity is! That smiling starter in front of an avenue hotel used to drive up there in his own limousine. Claude G. Bowers and Will H. Hays bear a resemblance. Lupe Velez always looks on the verge of starting a game of tag.

William J. Glackens, a Philadelphian, Pa., boy, who made good in the city. Strange, how we vibrate to the stray unimportance. I cannot forget the girl on the street corner last night, who wept over a kitten with a crushed paw. Nobody can look so naive as Frank Case.

Something perky about half veils. They suggest a wink—and a slow meander up a side street. No successful writer has abandoned literature so quickly as Anita Loos. One of my favorite people—Edwin Balmer. Clarence Budington Kelland's nickname, "Bud," fits him perfectly.

Those boom-time hotels, which, like cheap champagne, went suddenly dead. One-word description of Barbara Bennett—aloofish. I've never known a lover of books who did not express humility. Nor a Wall Street man who didn't lap up a cocktail.

Overheard: "She did me down." That's Middle-west! Alan Mulhado still carries the wrist strap cane. Lee Shubert nods quickly like a pigeon. My wife didn't care much for my upsetting that milk on the carpet. I'll stop in at Irene Hayes. In the spri-hing I bring thee vi'lets!

No performer holds Broadway's affection so sincerely as does Jimmy Durante. In fact, the street has turned out few characters who measure up to him in general good fellowship. It is a prevalent legend that, although he shucked his partners of the cabaret—Clayton and Jackson—they still share in Jimmy's enormous income. Every small town had its Jimmy Durante. In other days, they played the piano, ran inglorious errands, expressed a shy pathos, and murmured sudden wisdoms. Usually, they lived on crumbs—sparrows that fell. But, somehow, Jimmy was glorified to stage and movie stardom, deserving tribute to his smirk and crackling wit. He's a magnificent rowdy.

Another of the world's brighteners is Frisco, the stuttering comic. He, too, originally came out of the saloon's back room to Zigefeldian splendor. For years, he has ranged through taverns of the White Way, witty, likable and expressing genuine human impulses. Frisco has not been so fortunate as Durante, but he has sweetened many sour nooks along the world's strangest boulevard.

Those gray-haired philosophers who ran back elevators in apartment houses, and, in leisure, occupy well-worn chairs at side doors, are worth cultivating. I know many, as the result of walking dogs at night. Genial sages, with books and pipes, they absorbed most of the world's shocks and are happy in what seems the tedium of obscurity. They are ennobled, too, by a natural piety—gentle spirits of luminous serenity who would not trade places with the mighty around them.

There is some affinity, too, between pipe smokers and admirers of the writings of Robert Louis Stevenson. I remember that a cobbler in Gallipolis introduced me to R. L. S. and he never was without his briar. I noticed other enthusiasts for Stevenson loved their pipes, and, in many years of observing, I never have run across one who doesn't. Hugh Walpole, an earnest pipist, is a Stevenson fanatic.

Zoe Beckley, one of Park row's famous sob sisters, now lives on a Connecticut estate, a neatly, acred place, with a farmhouse of stone and a plump orchard. Her study has a serene view of hills, vales and winding creeks. But it's impossible to shake the spell of the city. When thoughts won't come at her tryewriter, she commutes to New York, rides in the subway, lunches at some clattery cafe, is jostled by the crowd a while, and goes home, refreshed—and chock full of ideas.

Chic Sale tells of the mail-order cowboy from New York, rusticating on an Arizona ranch. He sported chaps, knotted neck handkerchief, gallon hat and holsters of six-shooters. From the platform of a train, a crowd, noticing him, cried: "There's a cowboy!" So thrilled was he by recognition that he yanked out a pistol and began blazing away in a circle—shooting his horse from under him.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Pray for those men in Washington!

That man in the White House; those other men in Congress, who are trying today to save America—pray God to steady their aim.

Oh yes; I know how you feel about politics and politicians—

That it's a phoney game.

That it doesn't really represent the people.

You feel that way, don't you? So do the rest of us. And with plenty of reason, for most of it's true. But you're wrong in one thing.

Generally speaking, that might be correct. Politics has been a tight game. Only the Regular Gang could "sit in," and the deals they shuffled had mighty little to do with your private fate or mine. But all that has changed. Something has happened—something greater than politics or political master minds.

HUMAN NEED HAS HAPPENED.

And, for the time being, it isn't money that counts most, or pull, or power, but it's human despair—the Little Fellow's gnawing need and pitiful despair. And so there is something you can do—something that's more potent than the most wily political scheme—YOU CAN PRAY!

YOU CAN PRAY FOR THOSE MEN WHO ARE FIGHTING IN WASHINGTON TODAY!

Never mind if you're not the praying kind. Never mind if, with the years, you've lost your faith in prayer. Pray now. Have faith again now. For never before was it so desperately needed. America needs it. Those men who are fighting to save America, need it.

Make mistakes? Of course they have. Of course they will. Who hasn't? Who won't? Wouldn't you, if you stood in their shoes? And would it help you to have everyone nagging, snooping, sneering—watching to see you make your first mistake?

It wouldn't. You know it wouldn't. You'd want, instead, to have someone believe in you. You'd give anything if someone would help you to keep on believing in yourself.

THEN GIVE THOSE MEN THE BREAKS YOU'D ASK FOR YOURSELF!

Let's forgive and forget the foolishness and the crookedness. Let's remember, instead, how weak and bewildered they are; yet how, in spite of their dullness, a light is burning in them today; and how, in spite of their weakness, they've armed themselves for war.

A WAR AGAINST MISERY—AGAINST IGNORANCE AND TERROR AND PAIN.

Pray as you've never prayed before for those men who must fight it. They're bewildered, and sick at heart, and God only knows how weary! They've done their chores, plenty of chores, long since. They've earned their rest. No possible money or power or fame can ever repay them for what they are going to lose in the struggle that lies ahead. Yet, with all they've left, they're fighting on!

THEN BACK THEM WITH YOUR FAITH!

Forget your wise cracks. Forego your sneers. Put aside the cynical suspicion that you learned in other days. And remember only this—

"UP ON THE HILL" THEY'RE FIGHTING FOR US TODAY!

"UP ON THE HILL" OLD MEN, TIRED MEN, SICK MEN, ARE GIVING ALL THEY HAVE TO SAVE AMERICA!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Breath of Song

The Grecian Helen, loveliest of her land,
Long, long has vanished from the world she graced,
For any life is but a grain of sand;
Yet still in song she lives, the starry-faced.
Atlantis lies somewhere beneath the tide;
When that fair land sank down beneath the wave,
Who knows what beauty and what laughter died?

Where Pergamus once stood blows desert dust,
The mighty pyramids erode with time
And Caesar's sword was conquered by the rust;
Still blind old Homer's words live on, sublime!
What is it which on earth endures most long?
Not bravery, beauty, singer; but the song!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

After all, the test of character is how you stand adversity.

Do you feel like giving up the fight, or does it fire you to greater zeal to have difficulties bar your progress?

If you have been too easy with yourself, you probably blame your luck.

Often times you have wondered why some men seem so enthusiastic about bucking a tide which is against them.

You have been unable to understand why some men actually get enjoyment out of the hard work needed to down the forces that threaten to wreck them.

It is because they have grit and determination to put forward unflinching effort to stand.

Some of the undertakings in your life which met with failure might have been turned into successes if you had been willing to exert your full capacity.

But it meant sacrifices, too, and you would not make them.

Now you blame this or that system, because you have so little.

To be sure you have worked, but you have been too easy with yourself and now you reap the whirlwind.

Economies: Mortgages: Beer Control

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Despite the threat of the Nazi in Germany to repeat the events of Saturday, there is every indication that there will be no repetition. The fact that the controversy in the cabinet on Friday night disclosed a bitter hostility to a policy of racial and religious persecution may be taken to mean that the government cannot maintain its solidarity unless this policy is abandoned. The effect of such a policy on foreign relations has disturbed those in charge of them, and the effect on business has alarmed the business element.

The former Kaiser, who found in the Jews valuable allies in building up the Fatherland economically and industrially, is said to have made his protest through his sons.

Two mistakes have been made by the extremists of the Nazi party. One was the launching of such a campaign at all; the other was the expression of defiance to the world and the reflection upon the integrity of the press of other nations. The Minister of Propaganda ought to have known better than that.

For some years the world has been increasingly sympathetic toward Germany because of the harshness of the peace terms, and it would be a pity to throw all that away.

Cutting Cost Of Government

The reaction of the American people to President Roosevelt's courageous act in slashing at the roots of the prohibitive cost of government and letting the chips fall where they may has been one of admiration and co-operation. Many years ago a statesman made his name immortal with the really commonplace observation that "the way to resume is to resume." The way to cut government costs is to cut them, and there is no other way. Everyone clamored for the cuts; but those who are cut wanted the cuts to fall on their neighbors and not on themselves. The cuts are falling on everyone, just as in private business.

Because there are groups of political potentiality arrayed against some of the savings effected, it required an act of courage, amounting almost to heroism, in the President. I have been thinking over heroic acts of former Presidents and I am unable to cite one that approaches that of the present executive last week. Long ago the average man despaired of actual economies in government because of the proverbial timidity of politicians in opposing the wishes of organized minorities and groups. Nothing could be expected of Presidents thinking more of the polls than of the Presidency, and most of us despaired of finding a President who would, if necessary, lose himself in thinking of his country.

The act of the President last week in reducing government cost to the tune of $400,000,000 will go down in history as one of the most heroic and statesmanlike we have ever known.

The Act Was Wise

And yet, politically, the act was wise. Politicians too often think in terms of small, cheap politics, and the result so often is small, cheap acts. That is the reason that a political leader with vision and courage, who stakes something personally in serving his country by an act of audacity, is usually found to have played the part of a consummate politician. The country always reacts favorably to courage. In days of crisis, especially, a timid leader pulled and hauled by conflicting elements and emotions is worse than worthless.

The wisest politics always is for men in power to meet their duties unflinchingly because they are duties, and without calculating the effect on their personal fortunes; for if the public men take care of their duties, the people will take care of them.

Within one month of the inauguration hundreds of millions have been added to the nation's revenue through the beer bill, and $400,000,000 has been cut from the cost of government by the President's reductions. Think of that!

Helping the Farmer

This week, pushing persistently onward at a quickstep, the President comes forward with another administration measure to ameliorate the condition of the thirty million people on the farms, whose economic ruin has brought ruin to business and industry in the cities.

Something has been done for the banks; something for the railroads and more will be done; but nothing has been done for the farmers to give them even a Chinaman's chance ever to get on their feet and back into the purchasing class.

Farm mortgages alone to the amount of $8,500,000,000 rest on the farms. To this other debts of the farmers amounting to $3,500,000,000, must be added.

This means an indebtedness of $12,000,000,000—one billion more than the debts owed the United States by the debtor nations.

To pay the interest on these debts the farmers must pay almost a billion dollars a year when they are unable, under existing conditons, to sell their products at the cost of production.

Proposes to Float Bonds

We must help the railroads because they are essential in transportation and their securities are held by insurance companies and savings banks; we must help the farmers because theirs is the most essential industry and their ruin means the ruin of commerce and manufacturing.

The administration proposes the flotation of government bonds to refinance the farmers' indebtedness. From two to three billions will be required, and the bonds will carry the interest rate of not more than 4½ per cent.

These bonds will be exchanged for farm mortgages.

It means a reduction in principal and in interest rates.

It means a tremendous saving to the farmers that will give them a chance to meet their obligations, and it operates to the advantage of the mortgage holders. These cannot collect as matters stand; they do not want the farms as a gift; and the plan makes possible a collection if not the collection on the loans.

The sooner everyone realizes that if we are to pull out of the morass everyone voluntarily must take his loss, the sooner we shall get back to solid ground.

Lehman Plan Must Be Adopted

The fight in Albany over a measure for the state control and regulation of the manufacture and sale of beer may be settled before this is printed. At this moment there is doubt. The Republicans in the Assembly, really opposed to beer, are insisting on a political arrangement through which they hope to profit up-state. Such politics brought prohibition; such politics can prevent the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Gov. Lehman reminded us of what every intelligent observer knows when he said, in explaining why prohibition came:

"The greedy traffic, greedy to the extreme, had gradually permitted one vice after another, one excess after another, one scandal after another, to become attached to its business."

Once permit the public to believe that a repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment is to mean a repetition of all this, and the twenty-first repealing amendment will be doomed.

The Lehman plan must be adopted; it is decent, it is wise, it guards against these repetitions of "one vice after another, one excess after another, one scandal after another."

The people want beer, and they are not interested in breweries otherwise, and not interested in politicians at all.
